Prosperity for Railroads.
Justice a Little Muddy.
Stalin, Man of Iron.
Hanged Then, Saint Now.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

THE Interstate Commerce Commission, all powerful in control of railroads, on which national prosperity depends, plans 21 railroad systems to cover the whole country.

THERE ought to be just one railroad system, managed by the ablest railroad men, highly paid and owned by the nation, with original private owners fully and generously paid for their property.

HOWEVER, it is agreed by all in authority, including the goverment, that our government is neither honest nor able enough to manage railroads.

The Canadian government does it, with admirable success, but Canada's government, presumably, is abler and more honest than ours.

THE next best thing is railroad combinations, as big as possible, to reduce overhead and other waste.

With government practically guaranteeing profits, by authorizing whatever charges may be necessary, the railroads, with cost of management reduced, should thrive amazingly.

Some of them will be gigantically profitable, but select your stock wisely.

THE San Francisco Call-Bulletin says the murderer of William Desmond Taylor, moving picture director, was known to a former governor of California, Friend Richardson.

An actress did the killing, but for good reasons, whatever they may have been, there was no inclination to indict and it is too late to prove anything now.

Murder is not dangerous in America, except for those that are murdered.

NEW YORK'S police commissioner accuses a judge of consorting with notorious criminals, murderers included. A group of these gentlemen, including a number that he had obligingly discharged when they were accused of various crimes, before him, were present at a complimentary banquet given to the judge.

THE banquet was interrupted by other criminals that held up the judge and his guests, robbing them all, taking his revolver from a New York detective.

The same learned judge is accused of borrowing money from a notorious gambler, bootlegger and drug dealer, murdered by a friend for welching at cards.

STILL another New York judge is accused of releasing habitual criminals brought before him for shop-lifting.

He says he cannot see the need of publicity and thinks it is all a matter of personal opinion. Another judge, to put it bluntly, dealt in dishonest bankruptcy decisions, very profitable to his pet lawyer.

Our crime wave details seem to include some muddy spits in the clear fountain of justice.

LAST Saturday, 10 Moscow newspapers printed 30 columns each about Stalin, Russia's powerful dictator, in honor of his fiftieth birthday.

Sent by his mother to a seminary, to study for the priesthood 30 years ago, Stalin has closed nearly all the churches in what was once "Holy Russia."

HE HAS put Russia on a five-day-week basis, eliminating Sunday entirely, and forbids any Christmas celebration.

A powerful man is the determined executor of Lenin's will.

How long will he last? What man will overthrow him, when Russia tires of Bolshevism and thinking demands peace and quiet for its vodka, and freedom in religion.

"TIME at length makes all things even."

Three hundred years ago, earnest Scotch Protestants captured John Ogilvie, a Scotch Jesuit priest, kept him many months in jail in Glasgow, then hanged him. Yesterday, in Saint Peter's, at Rome, John Ogilvie was beatified, declared and solemnly made a saint.

The great bells rang, a veil was lifted from the portrait of the martyr-saint, and his relics were exposed on the main altar.

LATER the Pope himself came from the Vatican to venerate the saint's relics on the altar and pray for his intercession.

It is to be hoped the courageous Scotch priest, where he dwells now, knows of the honor conferred and appreciates it.

ON SATURDAY armored railway cars carried $22,788,730 in gold to the Bank of England, the biggest day's gold purchase in the history of the great bank. And all of that gold came from this country.

THAT ought not to mean any thing as we have plenty left, and can always get more if we think we need it.

But our gold losses, getting heavier and heavier, will worry Wall Street. Gold and its power may be "largely a matter of imagination," but imagination is

W. & J. OFF PITT'S '30 SCHEDULE

Presidents Consent to Shift As Courtesy and Will Play Panthers in 1931

For the first time since 1904, Pitt and Wash-Jeff will not meet on the gridiron next fall.

A sporting festure by Wash-Jeff in offering to postpone its annual contest to enable Pitt to play Ohio State, with which Pitt opened relations this year, playing the Buckeyes at the Stadium, is the answer. A return game with Ohio State was scheduled for Columbus in 1931, but has been moved ahead to next year under the new arrangement. Announcement of the generous action of W. & J. was made today by C. L. Wooldridge, chairman of the Pitt athletic council and member of the schedule committee.

TECH GAME ADVANCED

November 15 was the only open date on the Ohio State schedule for next season. Pitt was booked with Carnegie Tech for that date and with W. & J. for November 8. The withdrawal of W. & J. permits Pitt to advance the Tech game one week and play Ohio State. Tech, it is said readily agreed to the switch.

W. & J. will be back on the Pitt schedule in 1931, the agreement for next year's game being merely postponed until that time.

Pitt and W. & J. first clashed on the football field in 1890. Games also were played in 1891, 1892, 1893 and 1895 and relations then were broken off until 195.

PITT 1930 SCHEDULE

The Pitt schedule for next fall, as it now tentatively shapes up, follows:

September 27—Waynesburg at the Stadium.
October 4—West Virginia at Morgantown.
October 11—Western Reserve at the Stadium.
October 18—Syracuse at Syracuse.
October 25—Notre Dame at the Stadium.
November 1—Nebraska at Lincoln.
November 8—Carnegie Tech at the Stadium.
November 15—Ohio State at Columbus.
November 22—No game.
November 27 (Thanksgiving Day)—Penn State at the Stadium.

Poincare to Take Riviera Rest Cure

PARIS, Dec. 23.—(AP.)—Former Premier Poincare, who is convalescing from his recent operation, today completed his preparations for taking a holiday and rest cure on the Riviera. He will leave tonight for the Villa Hanotaux at Cap-Martin, near Nice and Monte Carlo. He expects to spend the winter there.

$4,636,477 Given Back to Taxpayers

WASHINGTON, Dec. 23.—(INS.)—Nearly $5,000,000 in tax refunds were announced today by the Treasury department. The Middle States Oil Company, Imperial Oil Company and subsidiaries, of New York, received $4,320,768, and the Central Steel Company of Massillon, O., $315,709.

Bride Today

HELEN WILLS

HELEN WILLS OMITS 'OBEY'

BERKELEY, Cal., Dec. 23.—(AP.)—Helen Wills will be married today to Frederick S. Moody, Jr., in rustic little St. Clement's Chapel at the foot of the Berkeley Hills.

Miss Wills will promise to "love, comfort and honor" Moody and "keep him in sickness and health, forsaking all others," but she will not promise to obey.

And Moody will not promise Helen "with all my worldly goods, I thee endow."

The new Episcopalian marriage service will be read by the Rev. Lindley H. Miller, pastor of St. Clement's. The word obey and the endowment promise were eliminated from the Episcopalian marriage service two years ago.

The ceremony today will be attended only by parents of the bride and Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Moody, Sr., parents of the bridegroom, and by the younger Moody's brother and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Corbitt Moody, of Burlingame.

Plans for the honeymoon and where it will be spent are closely guarded by the two families.

5-INCH SNOW BLANKETS CITY

White Christmas Promised As Storm Continues; Traffic Suffers Only Minor Delay

A five-inch snowfall blanketed Pittsburgh and environs today, presaging a white Christmas, slowing up traffic and causing numerous skidding mishaps.

Snow will continue to fall today and tonight, according to Forecaster W. S. Brotzman. In the extreme southwestern part of the state the snow was seven inches deep in places.

The southwestern division of the State Highway Department had its full complement of 61 ploughs clearing the roads early today.

ROADWAYS CLEARED

All highways of the district were reported open for two-way traffic. Little drifting was reported and engineers of the local office anticipated little trouble to autoists if they used chains.

The City Department of Public Works had extra men clearing crossings for the Christmas rush-hour shoppers.

G. H. Cramer, 59, of 198 South Euclid avenue, employed by the city Department of Highways and Sewers, was struck by a machine today while clearing the street of snow at Center and South Euclid avenues.

C. C. Bender, 24, of 204 Emerson avenue, said by police to have been the driver of the car, took him to the Homeopathic Hospital, where his condition is regarded as

2 IN AUTO SLAY LOTTERY AGENT

The lottery racket, also known as the clearing house pool, was responsible for its first murder in Pittsburgh today, police believe.

An unidentified Negro was shot down as he was walking along Hanlon street, North Side, at 8:35 a. m. Two Negroes pulled alongside him in an auto, one fired a shot, and the victim dropped to the snow-covered pavement. Death was immediate.

The victim was identified as Emmett Curtiss, of Idlewild street, Homewood, by a cousin, Oliver Boyd, Negro, of Wylie avenue. Boyd, detained for questioning, told police that he had loaned Curtiss the auto from which Curtiss was shot.

Police were seeking the killers on the theory that Curtiss, a "number operator," had failed to pay a winner.

Chinese Pirates Loot Grounded Steamship

HONG KONG, Dec. 23.—(AP.)—The Japanese steamer Ryujin Maru went aground at the mouth of the Whampoa River early today and was looted by dozens of armed Chinese pirates, said a dispatch received by the British naval wireless from Canton.

Doll Lady's Work Fast Drawing To Close

The Doll Lady distribution is nearing the end. It was originally started as a pre-Chirstmas affair and it was not intended to extend beyond the holiday. The Sun-Telegraph has been swamped with orders and its forces are working day and night to verify subscriptions so that every little girl who turned in her 12 orders before Saturday night will be assured of getting her doll before Christmas.

The Sun-Telegraph, notwithstanding the inability of the makers to supply the dolls as fast as they were wanted, believes that it has enough on hand to take care of every little girl who has a doll coming to her.

Accused Banker, Arraigned, Silent

FINT, Mich., Dec. 23.—(AP.)—Grant J. Brown, former president of the Union Industrial Bank of Flint, stood mute when arraigned in Circuit Court today on a charge of false statement to the State Banking Commission. Judge James S. Parker placed bail at $100,000. Brown is accused of making a satement that he owed the bank $55,550 on December 31, 1928, whereas the amount was more than $100,000.

Grace Moore Signs 'Talkie' Contract

NEW YORK, Dec. 23.—(INS.)—The lyric soprano voice of Miss Grace Moore, Tennessee mountain girl, who leaped from musical comedy to international operatic fame, has been captured for the sound films.

Miss Moore was today to sign a three-year contract, calling for two pictures each summer, with Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer. She has no idea of abandoning her operatic career, Miss Moore said.

Voters Will Punish Senators Who Betray Nation Into League

Q. Well, I see that one more Senator who voted for the World Court in 1926 has recanted.

A. Yes, George Wharton Pepper, of Pennsylvania.

Q. When did Mr. Pepper end his term as Senator representing Pennsylvania?

A. As soon as the Republicans of Pennsylvania got a chance to vote on him after he had voted for the World Court.

Q. When was that?

A. He voted for the World Court in January, 1926, and was beaten in the Republican primaries that spring.

Q. Any other World Court Senators beaten in 1926?

A. Yes, a lot of them.

Q. Who?

A. Well, five of them were rejected in the Republican primaries: Pepper, of Pennsylvania; McKinley, of Illinois; Lenroot, of Wisconsin; Cummins, of Iowa, and Stanfield, of Oregon.

Q. Were any more pro-Court Senators defeated in the November elections in 1926?

A. Yes, seven more World Court Senators were not in the Senate when the 1926 elections were over: Butler, of Massachusetts; Ernst, of Kentucky; Means, of Colorado; Metcalf, of Rhode Island; Wadsworth, of New York; Weller, of Maryland, and Underwood, of Alabama.

Q. How did the anti-Court Senators fare—those who voted against it?

A. All of them were renominated and re-elected that November except two; and one of these, Williams, of Missouri, was supplanted by Hawes, a Democrat, also against the league court.

Q. Anything else?

A. Yes. Between the Senate vote and the elections of 1926 three Senators who had voted for the World Court recanted and said that if they were re-elected they would be against the Court.

Q. Who were they?

A. Gooding, of Idaho; Trammel, of Florida, and Cameron, of Arizona.

Q. Well, that was a sort of national referendum on the subject, wasn't it?

A. Yes, the people reached the politicians and the President, too, with the idea that they wanted this country OUT of the court of the League of Nations.

Q. What do you mean—"They got the idea across to the President, too?"

A. President Coolidge, in his Armistice Day speech, a few days after the 1926 elections, said the Court was a dead issue.

Q. How did he put it?

A. He said that the European nations did not seem inclined to accept us into the Court with the reservations which the Senate considered necessary for our protection.

Q. And then what?

A. He said he was in sympathy with those reservations and would not ask the Senate to modify them.

Q. And now Hoover asks the Senate to accept a substitute for the Senate's Reservation V.?

A. Yes, a substitute admittedly written by Sir Cecil Hurst and brought over here by Elihu Root.

Q. And Senator Pepper, now turning against the Court, says the substitute is unsatisfactory, doesn't he?

A. Yes, he says:

"I am utterly at a loss to understand how any person of experience can seriously advocate an international arrangement which substitutes the remedy of withdrawal from the Court, after the mischief has been done, for the salutary provision which prevents the mischief from arising."

Q. Heavens! Well, if the people didn't want the World Court with the original Senate reservations, will they want it with these reservations weakened by Sir Cecil Hurst?

A. We'll soon find out.

Q. When?

A. In the senatorial primaries and elections of 1930.

First Sight of Snow Frightens Africans

NEW YORK, Dec. 23.—(AP.)—As the Mauretania came up the bay through a snowstorm today, two African natives stood on deck, rigid and suspicious, flinching fearfully as white flakes lighted on their faces and clothing.

"We've never seen floating white blossoms like these," they muttered to their interpreter. "What will they do to us?"

Dressed in European clothes, but wearing fezes, Riano, a gun boy and Masai Warrior, and Mulia, a member of the Akawba tribe, have come over to work in a motion picture in Hollywood.

INDICTMENTS DROPPED BY U. S.

Government Plays Santa To Politicians, Racketmen And Police Awaiting Trial

Uncle Sam slipped into Kris Kringle's uniform today and distributed appreciated favors to the 167 politicians, policemen and alleged racketeers who were indicted 19 months ago as purported members of a great city-wide booze ring.

The charges were dropped by the government, which thus abandoned its attempts to prove that on the North Side, in the Strip, on the South Side, there existed powerful rum rings dominated by politicians and directed by police and bootleggers.

ALL CHARGES DROPPED

Also dropped were the district indictments against the same defendants. All were indicted on the blanket charge and many of them were indicted a second time for alleged smaller conspiracies.

United States Attorney Louis E. Graham explained to Judge Nelson McVicar that the charges probably could not be prosecuted successfully, that Leslie E. Salter, special assistant to the United States Attorney General, William D. Mitchell, had reviewed the case and reached that conclusion. The action was taken with the approval of Mitchell, Graham said.

FARRELL SEES STEEL GAIN

NEW YORK, Dec. 23.—(INS.)—James A. Farrell, president of the United States Steel Corporation, anticipates a substantial improvement in the operations of the steel industry after the turn of the year, he declared in a statement today.

"There is no apparent reason," he said, "why 1930 should not be a good average year with stability in prices and wages. It is confidently expected that after the turn of the year operations of the steel industry will substantially improve in heavier products such as railway material, structural steel for buildings, bridges and ships. There is a large demand at this season of the year with prospects of a capacity demand in the near future.

"The release of public and private works and new construction for utilities will soon be felt in the heavier line tonnages.

"There has been no inflation in prices, in inventories, nor in capacity."

Paris-to-Indo-China Fliers Forced to Leap

PARIS, Dec. 23.—(AP.)—The French aviators Le Brix and Rossi, who are making a flight from Paris to French Indo-China, have come to grief in India. A telegram from Le Brix today said that their airplane had been wrecked but both the avaitors were safe.

They jumped with parachutes and Rossi was slightly injured.

Secretary Shoots Turkey For Hoover Christmas

WASHINGTON, Dec. 23.—(AP.)—President Hoover will eat his favorite fowl—wild turkey—again on Christmas Day.

Knowing Mr. Hoover's taste for this bird, Lawrence Richey, one of the President's secretaries, went into the Virginia woods over the week-end and shot two fine specimens.

One of the birds weighs 20 pounds, the other 19. Both will be roasted in the White House kitchen and will grace the presidential dining table Wednesday evening.

The President had wild turkey for Thanksgiving, being presented with a gobbler by Postmaster Mooney, of Washington.

Mrs. Hoover played Lady Bountiful to some of the capital's needy children today, appearing at a local theater and passing out bundles of clothing and boxes of candy to poor youngsters for the Central Union Mission.

Suit Against Glenn Wright Settled for $3,500

A suit against Glenn Wright, former shortstop of the Pirates, of $50,000, was settled today before Judge James B. Drew in Common Pleas Court, for $3,500.

The suite against the shortstop was entered by Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Wright and Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Morgan for injuries sustained by them when the automobile which Wright was driving collided with their machine, October, 1927, at Darlington road and Shady avenue. Two children were also occupants of the automobile in which the Wrights and Morgans were riding.

Wright, together with several other ball players, was driving to the Westmoreland Country Club when the accident occurred. The former Pirate and his mates had just returned from New York where they had concluded the 1927 world series.

EX-STAR'S MOTHER ASKS SHOWDOWN IN TAYLOR KILLING

MRS. SHELBY ENDS 7-YEAR SILENCE

Wants Shadow of Suspicion Erased, Declaring She Has Been Harrassed by State

LLYWOOD, Cal., Dec. rs. Charlotte Shelby seven year's silence today and demanded that the district attorney's office exonerate her of any complicity in the mysterious death of William Desmond Taylor, motion picture director, who was shot to death in his home February 1, 1922. Mrs. Shelby is the mother of Mary Miles Winter.

Mrs. Shelby amplified her prepared statement by declaring that in the public mind there was a belief that she was directly concerned in the case. This impression, she said, had been transmitted to the public through statements, interviews and innuendo originating in the district attorney's office in years past.

Miss Minter, former film star, was a friend of Taylor and figured in the original investigation of the case.

ILL, TREATED ABROAD

Mrs. Shelby cited a reference made last week by the district attorney's office wherein it was indicated the person sought for the crime "had fled the country."

Mrs. Shelby returned to the United States several months ago after living in Europe for three and one half years.

She suffered a physical breakdown shortly after Taylor's death, but this, she emphasized, had nothing to do with the Taylor case.

While in Europe she was under treatment at various spas, having had 13 physicians in one year.

She does not propose, she said, to go through life the subject of unjust suspicion.

HEALTH IMPROVED

She was little more than a living skeleton when she left the United States three and one-half years ago. She has gained in weight, her cheeks have filled and she appears 15 years younger.

She is living quietly in Hollywood at a place known only to close friends.

Friends said that while it was generally believed Mrs. Shelby was a wealthy woman, her income is comparatively modest and not one which would permit ostentation or luxury.

Mrs. Shelby's statement to International News Service said:

NO TRUTH IN STORIES

"I am glad to be in Los Angeles, now that the Taylor case is reopened, as my name has been published as one of the possible suspects concerning Mr. Taylor's death.

"I have been maligned, and by innuendo, directly or indirectly implicated in connection with the tragedy.

"There is not one single word of truth in anything that has been said concerning me with the case, nor has any public official the slightest evidence which would serve in any way to prove, or even indicate that I ever did have, or now have information which would lead to the arrest of the person responsible for Mr. Taylor's death.

"There was reference in the newspapers Saturday intimating that the district attorney's office sought to connect with the Taylor case 'a person who had left the United States.'

CHALLENGES PROSECUTOR

"If this refers to me, I am here and desirous of a full investigation and vindication of my name, and to stop the circulation of insinuations that have been repeatedly made that I am one of four persons implicated.

"I have nothing to conceal. I am willing, and always have been, to talk to any authorized person from the district attorney's office, and will repeat to the district attorney what I am saying now, if he wishes to see me.

"In 1926, when my name was first connected with the case, I made requests on Asa Keyes, when he was district attorney, to issue a statement in justice to me.

"I made this request through my attorney and it was after the greatest difficulty that Mr. Keyes consented to see me, and then upon his own conditions —that is, he would not receive me in his office, nor in any public place, nor with the knowledge of the press.

"DENIED SATISFACTION"

"I told him of my every action the day preceding the tragedy, my every action the day of the tragedy and of the day following.

"I told Mr. Keyes where I had spent the evening and with whom.

"My attorney and I invited his questioning me, thereupon demanding a statement vindicating me.

"His statement was promised within three days, but I was unable to get this satisfaction.

"I now appeal as a woman of honor and integrity, one who never wronged anyone contrary to all reports to the public, for justice and to clear my name of slander and misrepresentation."

WHALEN SIFTS DINNER HOLDUP

NEW YORK, Dec. 23.—(INS.)—Additional details of the dinner to Magistrate Albert H. Vitale, which began quietly, but ended in a holdup, were expected today, when one of the robbed guests, Patrolman Arthur C. Johnson, goes on trial at Police Headquarters for conduct unbecoming an officer.

With Police Commissioner Whalen conducting the examination, the patrolman will be asked why he surrendered his revolver to the holdup men and why he remained at the dinner after—if he did— recognizing seven of the guests as men with police records.

The political future of the magistrate may rest on the testimony of the patrolman, according to gossip in political circles.

A report which Commissioner Whalen has refused to deny has it that Johnson's revolver was returned to him by the magistrate several days after the dinner in the Roman Gardens.

Before the trial starts, John C. Minton, chairman of a sub-committee appointed by the Bar Association to investigate Magistrate Vitale's part in the dinner, was to look into the folder turned over to him by United States Attorney Tuttle. The folder, found in the private records of Arnold Rothstein, slain gambler, bears the name of the "Honorable Albert H. Vitale."

BABY DESERTED, SEEK MOTHER

East End police today were searching for the mother of a month-old girl found abandoned on the steps of the Louise Home for Babies, at 336 South Aiken avenue, late last night.

Well dressed and bundled in heavy pink blankets, the baby was found asleep on the snow-covered steps of the home by Sadie Wheatley, superintendent, who took the infant to the East End Police Station, explaining that babies under 6 months old are not accepted at the South Aiken avenue home.

The only clue to the baby's identity was found on a note pinned to her dress. On it, police said, had been scribbled the name "Wanda McCoy." The baby was taken to the Roselia Maternity Hospital.

Chicago School Teachers Face Payless Holiday

CHICAGO, Dec. 23.—(INS.)—Barren fireplaces and empty stockings loomed today for Chicago's 13,000 odd public school teachers as frantic moves were begun to procure funds for their overdue Christmas pay checks.

Public-spirited citizens peeked in the city treasury and found it barren. Bankers have practically turned their backs on the plan of loaning the Board of Education $2,477,115 cash with which to meet the emergency.

So with hardly 36 hours before Christmas eve, the hopes of 13,000 educators are pinned on the emergency moves under way by H. Wallace Caldwell, president of the Board of Education, and Silas Strawn, head of the "rescue committee." Should their two plans for obtaining the cash fail it will be a Santa-less holiday.

The plight of hundreds of teachers is desperate. Many of them, with no warning that their salaries would not be paid, spent all their savings for gifts and are without money for living essentials.

ORE. GOVERNOR MOURNED

PORTLAND, Ore., Dec. 23.—(AP.)—A new governor, A. W. Norblad, 48-year-old lawyer of Astoria, Ore., former president of the state senate, was at the helm of Oregon's ship of state today and flags were at half staff in honor of the late Gov. I. L. Patterson, who died suddenly Saturday night at his country home near Ecola, Ore., of pneumonia.

Affairs of state stood still while persons from every walk of life filed through the Hall of Representatives at Salem, where lay the body of the 70-year-old man who went from a log cabin in Benton County, Ore., to the state's highest office.

Acting on the certainty it would be his wish, members of the Patterson family announced that funeral services would be held this afternoon. They said they felt the late chief executive would have desired an early burial because of the nearness of Christmas.

Captain of Chris Greene III With Pneumonia, Ship on Non-Stop Dash to Hospital

PORTSMOUTH, O., Dec. 23. — (AP.) — The Chris Greene, reported to be the fastest packet on the Ohio River, was racing again today, a race on which the life of her captain, Chris Greene, may depend.

Capt. Greene became ill late last night while the ship was docked here and was threatened with pneumonia. He ordered the boat to make a non-stop trip from Portsmouth to Cincinnati so that he could be taken to Cincinnati Hospital for treatment. The steamer left here at 5 a. m., in her race against time.

The Chris Greene won her title in 1928 when she defeated the Betsy Ann in a race on the Ohio and this year her sister ship, Tom Greene, defeated Betsy Ann in a similar race.

DAVIDSON FEE APPEALED

An appeal from Judge James B. Drew's decision awarding Attorney A. M. Replogle and the law firm of Thorp, Bostwick, Stewart & Reed a fee of $100,000 for legal services rendered the estate of Mrs. Eleanor H. Davidson was filed with the State Supreme Court today.

Attorney Frank C. McGirr, representing the mother and two sisters of Mrs. Davidson, filed the appeal. The action will be argued in March.

The attorneys contended in their claim for the fee that through their efforts about $410,000 of the assets of the estate, which, they alleged, had been misappropriated, were recovered.

They also brought about the resignation for former Judge Henry G. Wasson and Attorney George H. Calvert, they said, as a committee in charge of the estate of Mrs. Davidson, a mental incompetent.

Judge Drew held that the charge was practically a contingent fee, and had there been no recovery there would have been no fee for services.

Pickpocket Robs Man of $55 On Car

Allen J. Brown, of 2655 West Carson street, reported to police early today that while a passenger on a street car which he boarded at Forbes street and Murray avenue, his pocketbook, containing $55, railroad passes and lodge cards, was stolen from his pocket.

STORE HELD UP DOWNTOWN

Two bandits executed a daylight holdup in the downtown district today as stores prepared to receive holiday shoppers.

Safe crackers battered through an 18-inch brick wall to rob a safe in another establishment.

The bandits, each flashing a revolver, entered the Red Man shoe store at 312 Diamond street at 8:20 a. m. and found the manager, Meyer Brenner, alone.

They forced him to a rear room, tied his hands, gagged him by wrapping a towel about his face, emptied the cash register of approximately $150 and strolled back to the street.

After the bandits had escaped Brenner slipped the gag and his shouts attracted employes of an adjoining shop, who released him.

At the J. Diamond Company optician's shop, robbers ripped away an 18-inch brick wall through which they crawled to gain entrance. From the safe on the second floor, which they cracked, they took checks and cash worth not more than $50.

The safe in the office of the U. S. Radio Company, 134 Ninth street, was cracked and emptied of $100 by robbers who gained entrance via the fire escape and skylight, Manager C. D. Urban reported.

Robbers gained entrance to Price Brothers' store at 208 Sixth avenue through the roof, cracked open the safe, took $100 in change and departed, leaving behind their tools.

At Harry Schmidt's Diamond Shoppe, 317 Diamond street, the robbers failed. They were able to pry one lock off the front door but the second lock refused to yield.

Hero of Chicago Riot Found Dead In Squalor

CHICAGO, Dec. 23.—(AP.)—Out in Union Park, Chicago, there stands a great statue, erected as an outward symbol of the city's debt of gratitude to Patrick Nash and the rest of the men who were acclaimed heroes for suppressing the Haymarket riot of 1886, but Nash no longer can view it and recall the events that resulted in its erection. He was found dead Saturday—alone in the squalor of an attic room in West Madison street. Physicians said that heart trouble, superinduced by cold, was responsible.

AIR LINER'S SMASH-UP PROBED

T. A. T. Heads Investigate Fatal Indiana Crash; Pittsburgh Man Unhurt

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Dec. 23.—(AP.)—Officials of the Transcontinental Air Transport Lines began an investigation here today in an effort to establish the cause of the crash of one of its trimotored passenger planes here early last night which brought death to one passenger and serious injury to two others.

D. C. Law, 47, of Philadelphia, member of the technical staff of Warner Brothers, Inc., motion picture producers, was injured fatally. His left leg was crushed, several ribs broken and he suffered internal injuries.

C. Mahlon Kline, also of Philadelphia, President of Smith, Kline, French and Company, wholesale druggists, suffered a broken right arm and severe body bruises. Miss Mary Fearnow, secretary to Donald Bartlow, assistant manager of the T. A. T., suffered a sprained back and shock.

C. F. Devoe, Indianapolis manager of the T. A. T., began the investigation.

SKIDS, HITS STUMP

J. L. Ridgley, superintendent of the Indianapolis Division of the Pennsylvania Railroad, said that statements would be taken by Devoe from the pilot, courier and witnesses to the crash.

Meanwhile an official investigation launched by Corner C. H. Keever continued. An inquest was to be held, when members of the crew were to testify and tell what they believed to be the cause of the crash.

The plane, flying eastward from St. Louis to Columbus, O., reached Stout Field, Mars Hill Airport, shortly after five o'clock, flying a half an hour behind schedule. Pilot D. W. Burford, of Columbus planned to land the ship and remain overnight, since darkness and heavy snowfall made travel dangerous.

He circled the field, and as he attempted to set the ship down it was thought that he misjudged the speed, and that, added to the slick, icy condition of the field, caused the plane to coast to the extreme end of the landing area. The ship struck a five-foot stump, the impact ripping through the fuselage, breaking the left longeron, a main piece of the framework.

PINNED AGAINST SEAT

Law was injured in the first crash of the fuselage against the stump. The left landing-gear strut, supporting the wheel, also was torn off, allowing the wheel to drop. The stump, ramming through the thin metal of the cabin, is thought to have struck Law, pinning him against one of the iron seats, which were torn from the shaklings. Law was hurled onto the lap of Russell McFarlane, another passenger.

Law died on the way to a hospital, and the two injured were treated. The other eight of the 11 passengers who were uninjured were: B. H. Leighton, Paterson, N. J.; J. H. Lunemar., Oakland, Cal.; Russell McFarland, Washington; Miss Dorothy O'Brien, Brooklyn, N. Y.; W. S. Edwards, Brooklyn, N. Y.; J. J. Welsh, Passaic, N. J.; M. Stearns, Sharon, Conn., and John R. Brown, Pittsburgh, Pa.

The assistant pilot was H. J. Zimmerman, Columbus, O. R. G. Kleymeyer, 23, was courier. They also escaped injury.

300 CHINESE DIE AS SHIP SINKS

LONDON, Dec. 23.— (INS.) — Three hundred passengers aboard the steamer Lee Cheng were reported drowned when the vessel foundered in a terrific gale en route to Hong Kong, according to a Central News dispatch received from Hong Kong today.

Later dispatches from Hong Kong said that only two survivors of the tragedy had been rescued. These were picked up by fishing boats which braved the mountainous seas to reach the shipwreck.

Santa Gives Boy, 10, Flier's Uniform, Cab Kills Him

NEW YORK, Dec. 23.—(INS.)—Death and Santa Claus walked arm-in-arm into the life of 5½-year-old Alexander Maxemina.

Death claimed the boy a short time after he had received his most-earnestly-desired Christmas present—an aviator's uniform.

When Alexander came out of an Avenue C clothing store with his father he had joined the ranks of his idols, men of the air —the Lindberghs, the Byrds, the Chamberlains. A tiny uniform with a pair of wings on the collar and the gilded word "aviator" on the sleeve attested his rank.

Alexander was happy.

With juvenile exuberance he pulled his little hand loose from his father's and dashed into the open road at Fourteenth street and Avenue C, where his newfound glory would be visible to everyone.

A taxicab hit him. His little body was hurled 10 feet and the taxi sped on before its license number could be noted.

SNOWY HOLIDAY IN PROSPECT

serious. Bender was released on a $30 forfeit.

Motorists who forgot to place chains on their machines, skidded down steep grades at all angles today, particularly in the South Hills district, according to reports.

TRAFFIC DELAYS MINOR

Trolley and bus traffic was only slightly hampered, officials said.

Today's storm swept up from the gulf, causing snowfall throughout the eastern part of the United States.

A minimum temperature of 24 degrees was recorded here today. The weather bureau anticipated little change in the next 24 hours. Christmas Day, Wednesday, likely will see moderate winter weather, with the ground covered witn snow, according to Brotzman.

TRAIN SERVICE NORMAL

Railroads were on virtually normal schedule today, despite the snow and peak Christmas travel.

Through trains were arriving at and departing from the Pennsylvania station with little or no delay, officials said. Local trains were being run into the Pennsylvania station, contrasting with Saturday's unprecedented tieup when commuters were discharged at East Liberty station.

The Baltimore and Ohio and Pittsburgh and Lake Erie railroads reported all trains operating on usual schedule.

EAST, SOUTH BLANKETED

International News Service.

The snow gods reigned again today in far-flung sections of the United States and Canada.

The entire country east of the Rocky Mountains, to the Atlantic seaboard, south to the Gulf of Mexico, into Texas and Georgia, was assailed today with a new blanket of snow while attempting to recover from the staggering effects of the record fall of a few days ago.

Below freezing and near-zero weather prevailed in the Great Lakes region, the Middle West and the normally warm southlands.

For the first time in more than 10 years snow fell in the Gulf Coast regions of Mississippi and Louisiana while Arkansas was crippled with a 17-inch fall, the greatest in many years.

Trans-continental trains, which had barely resumed normal schedules, again were minutes to hours late as the curtain of snow continued to obscure tracks and signals.

CITIES ISOLATED

Many cities, cut off from communication with others for days, once more experienced isolation. Drift-filled highways in Canada threatened milk and fuel famines in many localities. American highways, only recently cleared, were again rapidly closing to automobile and intercity motorbus traffic.

Telegraph and telephone wires failed under the weight of more snow and ice.

Driven by a northeast wind, a heavy fall of snow enveloped New York and most of the Atlantic coast.

Weather Bureau officials forecast a white Christmas for the region, saying they expected a snowfall of at least six inches by tomorrow.

The snow started with a light fall early in the day. It soon developed into blizzard conditions.

The storm started in the vicinity of Cape Hatteras, and strong winds with snow lashed the Atlantic coast from Cape Hatteras to Eastport, Me.

CHINESE, SOVIET SIGN PEACE

By EDWARD L. DEUSS,
International News Service.

MOSCOW, Dec. 23.—The Sino-Russ controversy in Manchuria was a thing of the past today following the signing of a protocol restoring the status quo ante of the Chinese Eastern Railway by representatives of the Soviet and Mukden government at Khabarovsk.

The signing of the protocol was hailed here today as a signal victory for Soviet arms and diplomacy. Those who affixed their signatures to the document were M. Simanovsky, for the Soviet government, and Tisia Yun-Sheng, for the Mukden governments.

The agreement provided for removal of the troops of both sides from the frontiers which have been in a turmoil for six months and the immediate restoration of Soviet consulates and commercial organizations in Manchurian and Chinese consulate and business organizations in Siberia.

A conference between Russian and Chinese officials will be held here on January 25, at which all outstanding questions will be settled, according to the protocol, with the complete restoration of diplomatic relations between the two countries resulting.

All executives of the C. E. R., either Russian or Chinese, who have been dismissed or have resigned since the beginning of the dispute, will be restored to their former positions, except for a few changes in personnel which the Soviet government will make.

MRS. BALDWIN TO SELL ESTATE

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 23.—(AP.)—Mrs. Juanita M. Baldwin, daughter of the late E. J. "Lucky" Baldwin, has announced that her vast property holdings in Southern California, valued at between $20,000,000 and $25,000,000, soon are to be offered for sale in the open market, and that she will devote the future to music and travel.

Virtually all preliminary details for the sale have been completed, Mrs. Baldwin said, and most of the property is expected to be disposed of by June 1. On that date Mrs. Baldwin will leave Southern California and take up her permanent residence at her Lake Tahoe estate, in the northern part of the state. She will divide her time, she said, between Lake Tahoe and Europe.

Included in the properties to be sold is the Arcadia Ranch, near Los Angeles, where Mrs. Baldwin's father made his home and raised and trained many of the fine horses for which he was famed. Other properties to be sold are the Baldwin Hills oil field, near Culver City, Cal.; the ranch properties at La Cienega, and the Baldwin home place, near Arcadia.

VATICAN ISSUES ENCYCLICAL

VATICAN CITY, Dec. 23.—(INS.)—Pope Piux XI today issued his annual encyclical letter to the Catholic dioceses of the world.

In the encyclical letter, which His Holiness mentioned during his allocution to six newly created cardinals at the secret consistory of December 16, he reviewed the year's events at great length, giving especial attention to the conciliation effected between the Holy See and the Italian government.

The papal encyclical bears the title "the fiftieth year." It refers to the reconciliation between church and state as the "most grandiose event" in the history of the Holy See.

Particular stress is laid upon the concordat, signed simultaneously with the lateran treaties, which ended the 60-year breach between church and state in his country. Under the terms of the concordat, the principle of canon law was re-established after an interval of almost 1,200 years, this being regarded as the most momentous victory ever won by the Catholic Church in its long struggle with the Italian government.

His Holiness today received in audience several residents of Brooklyn, and was to receive Cardinal Dougherty, of Philadelphia, late this afternoon.

DEATH BULLETS BURKE'S, CLAIM

CHICAGO, Dec. 23.—(AP.)—Maj. Calvin H. Goddard, ballistic expert, asserted today that markings found on bullets taken from the bodies of the seven victims of the Moran gang massacre last February were identical with markings on bullets fired from the sub-machine guns found in the St. Joseph (Mich.) home of Fred Burke, notorious killer and bank bandit.

Maj. Goddard made his announcement in testifying before the coroner's jury, reconvened today to hear the latest development in the 10-months' investigation of Chicago's most spectacular gang murders.

MARKINGS IDENTICAL

The ballistic expert said he fired 35 bullets from the weapons brought here from the St. Joseph bungalow after Burke had shot to death a traffic policeman in an argument a week ago.

He pronounced the peculiar riflings on the lead noses of the bullets and the ejector block markings on the shells identical.

BOND CLUE REOPENED CASE

Burke's identification as the hair-trigger killer of a St. Joseph policeman a week ago and the finding of his cache of stolen bonds and his arsenal led to the resumption of the inquiry into the Moran killings.

The coroner's jury, as reconvened today, was composed of Bert A. Massee, vice president of the Colgate-Palm Olive-Peet Company, foreman; Cyrus McCormick, Jr., Col. A. A. Sprague, Walter L. Meyer, John V. McCormick and Maj. Felix J. Streychmans, former Belgian consul.

7 INJURED IN 2 TRAIN WRECKS

GORHAM, Kan., Dec. 23.—(AP.)—Five persons were injured, several of them seriously, when two Union Pacific passenger trains collided a mile east of here this morning. All of the injured were reported to be trainmen, no passengers being hurt. The injured were removed to Hays, Kansas.

The collision occurred at a siding, near an oil refinery, the locomotives of passenger train No. 128, eastbound, and passenger train No. 121, westbound, striking headon. Both trains operate between Kansas City and Denver.

TWO MORE HURT

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 23.—(AP.)—Two passenger trains, the Louisiana limited, running from Shreveport to New Orleans, and the Texas limited, from Houston to New Orleans, ran together today at Avondale, 15 miles north of New Orleans, and pinned a fireman under his engine and scalded an engineer.

Only the engines left the track and no passenger was reported hurt.

2 DIE IN STREET GUN FIGHT

PAINTSVILLE, Ky., Dec. 23.—(AP.)—A two-gun man from the mountains, veteran of half dozen pistol battles and survivor of almost as many gunshot wounds, has made good his boast that if an officer arrested him again, "I'll have to kill him," but it cost him his life.

The two-gun man, Joe Castle, former constable, "shot it out" with Patrolman Jess Dills on the main street of this mountain town while hundreds of Christmas shoppers scurried for cover. Dills, with two ".44 specials" still spitting bullets, dropped dead almost in his tracks, shot through the heart. Castle, a .45 in each hand, went down mortally wounded. He died in a hospital later. John Marshall, Johnson County jailer, also involved in the shooting, is locked in his own jail. Officers say he probably will be charged with murder.

FRENCH NAME ARMS AGENTS

PARIS, Dec. 23.—(AP.)—The French delegation to the five-power disarmament conference in London in January will consist of Premier Tardieu, Foreign Minister Briand, Minister of Marine Leygues, Minister of Colonies Pietri and Ambassador de Fleuriau.

The delegation was appointed at a cabinet meeting this afternoon.

The delegation will have two substitutes — Rene Massigli and Henri Maysset. A number of parliamentary advisers will be named.

The presence of Premier Tardieu and Foreign Minister Briand in the French delegation was forecast several months ago.

Cold Ruins Ozark Mash Makers' Christmas

MINCY, Mo., Dec. 23.—(AP.)—Wails of genuine anguish are coming in from the Ozark hills in the wake of the sudden cold snap of the last four days. For many, all the joy has been taken out of the Christmas season.

To make a long story short, this Christmas will be remembered as "the year the mash froze."

Manufacturers of the illicit beverage, so the report is, had just "hid out" their mixtures of sugar, corn and yeast, or whatever the ingredients may be, when the mercury skidded dizzily to zero or thereabouts.

Thousands of gallons of mash have been "killed" by freezing and the majority of the makers "plumb ruined," to use their own expression.

VARE, BETTER, TO GO SOUTH

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 23.—(AP.)—William S. Vare expects to go to Florida the latter part of next week, it was announced at his home in Atlantic City, and may leave without disclosing whether he intends to retire as a candidate for United States Senator.

The Philadelphia Republican organization chief spent a quiet week-end at the shore. His only Sunday visitors were Dr. Ellwood R. Kirby and Sheriff Thomas W. Cunningham.

"Mr. Vare is as fit as a fiddle," Dr. Kirby said, after he had made an examination. "He is looking forward to the trip to Florida, and may start in about 10 days. He is more like himself than he has been for a long time."

Dr. Kirby, it was learned, has not yet given the political leader a formal opinion that his condition of health would not permit an arduous campaign for the Republican senatorial nomination at the Pennsylvania primary next May.

FLIER KILLED IN CRASH BURIED

WASHINGTON, Dec. 23.—(INS.)—Capt. Harry A. Dinger, Army Air Corps, killed with Representative William K. Kaynor, of Massachusetts, and three others Thursday in the crash of an Army plane at Bolling Field, was buried at Arlington National Cemetery today with full military honors.

Pallbearers were Maj. Howard C. Davidson, Dinger's commanding officer at Bolling Field; Capt. Ernest Clark, Air Corps; Capt. J. J. Dovery, Air Corps; Capt. Leroy H. Palmer, Quartermaster Corps; Capt. James C. Van Ingen, Signal Corps, and Lieut. E B. Dayley, Air Corps.

During the services at the grave Dinger's fellow aviators from Bolling dropped flowers from the air.

The board of inquiry appointed to investigate the cause of the tragedy has about completed its work, and it is believed in Army circles the cause never will be disclosed.

Home Is Castle, Declares Judge, Criticizes Raids

LOS ANGLES, Cal., Dec. 23.—(INS.)—"A man's home is his castle today just as much as it was when these immortal words were first spoken," declared United States District Judge Paul J. McCormick as he prepared to resume his duties on the Federal Court bench for Southern California today after an absence of four months on duty with President Hoover's national commission of law enforcement.

The practice of prohibition officers of entering private dwellings for search and seizure without proper warrants, the judge declared, was a gross misuse of power and a denial of constitutional rights of citizens.

Judge McCormick said illegal entry was one of the most serious evils of present day law enforcement.

"The practice should be abolished," he declared. "Third degree methods, as indulged in today, are all wrong."

Judge McCormick sat in Washington with nine other men and one woman in outliniing the work of the President's commission. This outline, he said, is well under way.

The commission will meet again, he declared, next spring.

In his spare time in the East Judge McCormick sat as relief judge in New York where he gained fame for padlocking numerous night clubs for liquor violations.

Yosemite Bears Send 31 To Hospital in Year

WASHINGTON, Dec. 23.—(AP.)—There is trouble brewing for the bears in the national parks.

Col. C. G. Thomson, superintendent of Yosemite, has made the following laconic report to Director Albright:

"Bears are slightly on the increase. They were the source of greatest interest to visitors during 1929, and of real concern to us, sending 31 persons to the hospital for medical attention, and being quite destructive."

In addition Secretary Wilbur has been informed by the wives of the men stationed permanently in the parks that while they were bearing up under the depredations of the park pets, the time was coming when they would "a hunting go."

YOUNG PLAN'S FOES CRUSHED IN GERMANY

Hugenberg's Bill Defeated As Majority of Voters Stay Away From Polls

By OTTO D. TOLISCHUS
International News Service.

BERLIN, Dec. 23.—Dr. Alfred Hugenberg's nationalist measure demanding the rejection of the Young plan met with a crushing defeat in the nation-wide referendum yesterday, virtually complete returns indicated today.

Germany's voters manifested their disinterest and disapproval of the nationalist leader's so-called "law against the enslavement of the German people," mainly by staying away from the polls.

VOTERS SHUN POLLS

With the German electorate numbering 41,520,000, a majority vote of 20,760,000 was required to enact the measure. However, a total of only 6,231,371 voted. Of these 5,782,965 voted for the bill, 334,135 voted against it, and 114,271 marked their ballots in such a way as to make them invalid. As a result, the bill received the support of only about 11.5 per cent of the voters.

The result of the referendum showed that the voters had followed the dictates of the leaders of the parties opposed to the measure. The strategy of the government parties had consisted of instructing their followers to abstain from voting.

This the voters gladly did, as yesterday, being the last Sunday before Christmas, was known throughout the country as "Golden Sunday," and the streets of all cities and towns were filled with festive crowds enjoying a final shopping spree.

FIGHT TO GO ON

The vote cast in favor of the bill exceeded by only about 1,600,000 votes the number of signatures obtained by the Nationalists in their nationwide campaign to force the plebiscite. At that time, 4,135,000 signatures were obtained.

In spite of their overwhelming defeat, it was established today supporters of Dr. Hugenberg would request President von Hindenburg to proclaim the "liberty law" in effect, due to the fact the referendum carried the majority of the votes cast.

Count Guenther Schulenberg, one of the chief supporters of the referendum, told International News Service if this request was not granted, an appeal would be taken to the courts.

"We won the battle," Schulenberg declared. "Our numbers are increasing and the war against the Young plan continues."

PLAN OVERSEA BROADCASTS

NEW YORK, Dec. 23.—(AP.) Radio engineers in widely separated sections of the world are bending every effort to insuring the success of the proposed Christmas Day rebroadcast to America of programs originating in England, Holland and Germany.

The programs, to be redistributed by the National Broadcasting Company, as its Christmas gift to listeners, are to be brought across the Atlantic by short waves to the receiving station at Riverhead, N. Y., whence they will be fed by wire into the broadcasting network. Both here and abroad entertainers are at work on the necessary technical details, including the study of atmospheric prospects.

It is planned to begin the rebroadcasts at noon, eastern time, the first to come from Eindhoven, Holland, at 12:45 p. m. Berlin is to be cut in, with the closing feature from England starting at 2 p. m.

In return American greetings are to be sent to Europe by the National Broadcasting Company on Christmas via short wave stations at Schenectady and Pittsburgh. The first is planned for 11 o'clock, eastern time, Christmas morning, and is intended for England and Holland. The following day, at 11:45 p. m., another program is to be directed to Germany. On both days the programs for Europe also will be put on American networks.

Wagner's Selection Is Not Surprising

BOSTON, Dec. 23.—(AP.)—Another of the old Red Sox immortals will take up a task where his pal left off as Charles (Heinie) Wagner, of New Rochelle, N. Y., succeeds Bill Carrigan, of Lewiston, Me., as pilot of the luckless Boston American League baseball team.

It was surprise to baseball in general and Boston [illegible] particular when Heinie was chosen to take his turn at trying to derrick the wearers of the Crimson hose out of the cellars of the junior league. Since they were rookies Carrigan and Wagner were firm friends, and it was a 10-to-1 shot that if Carrigan had anything to do with the naming of his successor Wagner would be his choice.

GOULD RETIRES IN DISGUST AT 'DRY FARCE'

Millionaire Maine Senator To Quit Due to Hypocrisy Of Prohibition, Politics

By GEORGE R. HOLMES.
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 23.—In the course of a long busy life, during which he amassed a considerable fortune, Arthur R. Gould, millionaire lumberman, railroader and power magnate in Maine, thought he would like to wind up his career in the comfortable ease and pleasant dignity of the United States Senate.

Now, at the age of 72, and after four years of it, he is going back to Maine a somewhat disillusioned man—disgusted with Washington, with politics, disappointed with the Senate, but more than all else "disgusted with this miserable prohibition farce."

Senator Gould announced Saturday he would not be a candidate to succeed himself. He is retiring voluntarily.

WOMEN BLAMED

The fact that he got a lot of publicity some months ago by publicly admitting that he dabbled about with the making of his own wine, and that the Anti-Saloon League and other reform organizations were reported after him because of it, had nothing to do with his decision to retire, he declared.

"Not a thing to that," the old lumberman said in an interview today. "If it weren't for the women, in my opinion, Maine would go two to one against this miserable prohibition farce. Why, I've got letters from Maine Democrats telling me they would vote in the Republican primaries if I'd run.

"Maine was the original prohibition state. We have been trying it up there for 75 years, and conditions never were so bad as they are today.

"NEVER SO MUCH RUM"

"There never was so much liquor, so much graft, and so much cussed hypocrisy. These young fellows that run up from Washington as prohibition agents—they're all out for the money.

"There is only one way to stop this rotten farce and that is to adopt some method by which the government can sell decent liquor and control the supply—something along the line which the Canadians have worked out.

"This country can be made temperate, but prohibition won't do it. It just goes contrary to human nature to try to enforce a law like this. Why, I had seven uncles up Bangor way, all temperate, but they took a drink when they wanted it. It's against the law now. Why, when I go up to see my oldest brother—he is 82 now—he always has a bottle of good liquor on the kitchen shelf. We sometimes have a drink together. That bottle probably lasts a year.

POLITICS SCORED

"We were all temperate people in Maine, and so was most everyone I knew.

"But mark this down: prohibition has always been a failure in Maine, for 75 years, and never more so than it is today."

What he has seen of politics as played in Washington makes the Maine senator long to get back to the pine trees of his state, he said.

"Politics?" he snorted. "I never was much for politics anyway. Been too busy logging and building railroads and working. Maybe I don't know much about politics today, it's hard to teach an old dog new tricks. But from what I've seen of it, seems to me like a game which makes it pretty hard for a man to be honest with himself."

COOLIDGE TRIBUTE

Who was the outstanding man during his career in Washington? The answer was quick and positive:

"Calvin Coolidge, yes, sir. The biggest and cleanest man I ever knew in politics was Calvin Coolidge. They couldn't fool him. No, sir. He always kept his head, and you can bet your life that as years go by we will realize what a big man he was in the White House."

Boy Killer Trapped By Gift for Mother

NEW YORK, Dec. 23.—(INS.)—Angelo Martone, 16, came home from Philadelphia with a nice yellow and red dress as a Christmas present for his mother—and today he is in jail because the Yule spirit overcame his better judgment. Detectives arrested Martone for homicide just as he gave the present to his mother.

Martone today confessed to the holdup of Dominic Zampani, a Brooklyn groceryman, police said. Zampani was killed in the holdup.

Inspectors Charles Faulkner, Joseph J. Elsner and John J. McArdle, North Side Ward Chairmen John O'Donnell, William Herd and Justus Schradel, East End Ward Chairman Michael De Rosa, Sr., Elliott Donnelly, of the North Side; Francis Kirley, South Side ward chairman; Police Magistrates John Sweeney and John W. Orie, the four Meyers brothers of the South Side, and numerous policemen.

It was to this blanket indictment that Alfred W. Forney, alleged slot-machine racketeer, pleaded no defense. He was sentenced to pay $1,000 and serve six months in jail.

OTHERS PLEAD GUILTY

A few others of less importance pleaded guilty.

The North Side group of 44 defendants was the first to be tried. Judge R. M. Gibson threw the case out of court with the opinion that the government had produced evidence of several minor conspiracies, but that there was nothing to show that these conspiracies were linked with one another.

The North Side defendants were reindicted in smaller groups.

The North Side groups, which were tried under the second indictments, were from the Twenty-first, Twenty-third and Twenty-fourth wards.

Five of those named in the South Side indictment were found guilty and sentenced as follows: Mickey Meyers, $10,000 fine and 18 months in penitentiary; Gus Meyers, $10,000 and 15 months; Sam Meyers, $5,000 and two years; James Swift, $5,000 and 18 months; Joe Meyers. The latter was granted a new trial. The others appealed and lost their appeals recently.

In the Strip indictment, before Judge William Kirkpatrick, of Philadelphia, five withdrew their not guilty pleas after the trial started and pleaded guilty. Pat Meenan, Martin Brady, Walter Stec, Stanley Orie, Charles A. Wolf are now serving a sentence of a year and a day.

Among the 30 defendants named in the Strip indictment were Representative Luke Sullivan and Police Magistrate John W. Orie. The case was dropped later by the government.

Defense Opens Fight In Child-Killing Case

TRENTON, N. J., Dec. 23.—(INS.)—Declaring that they had insufficient information on which to prepare a defense, attorneys for Gladys May Parks today applied to Supreme Court Justice Joseph L. Bodine for an order requiring Prosecutor Clifford A. Baldwin to submit to them a bill of particulars. The Parks woman, in the county jail at Camden, is under indictment for the murder of her niece, Dorothy Rogers, 4, and Dorothy's brother, Timothy, 20 months old.

The court took no action on the request when Prosecutor Baldwin promised to furnish the bill some time during the week.

Indian Political Parley Collapses

NEW DELHI, India, Dec. 23.—(AP.)—Negotiations on India's political future between the Viceroy and the Indian Nationalist leaders, including Mahatma Gandhi, were stated today to have broken down on the main question of dominion status. After a conference lasting some hours, Motilal Nehru, Indian leader, said that no agreement had been reached.

Mexican Stealing In Hunger Freed In New Law

MEXICO CITY, Dec. 23.—(AP.)—The section of the new Mexican code which exempts from punishment first offenders who steal to satisfy hunger was invoked for the first time when Jose De La Pena pleaded that he had become a robber to prevent his wife and children from starving.

De La Pena was held in jail pending action on his case. Police said he admitted the crime. The new code went into effect December 15.

HOOVER FLAYED AND DEFENDED ON LOBBY

Political Foes Wage Verbal Battle Over Charges in Cuban Sugar Case Inquiry

WASHINGTON, Dec. 23.—(AP.)—Whether President Hoover lent the co-operation of his high office to Cuban interests opposed to an increased sugar tariff brought on a wordy week-end battle between the National Republican Congressional Committee and the Publicity Bureau of the Democratic National Committee.

Representative Wood, of Indiana, as chairman of the former, stood forth as its champion and staunchly defended the chief executive, while Representative Garner, of Texas, Democratic leader of the House, took the view that a statement from Mr. Hoover was necessary and for the second time issued a statement calling for such a pronouncement.

The controversy grew out of the testimony of H. C. Lakin, president of the Cuba Company, before the Senate Lobby Investigating Committee. He said he had employed Edwin P. Shattuck, a New York attorney, to assist him in the campaign against a high sugar duty because Shattuck was a friend of President Hoover. Other testimony was to the effect that Mr. Hoover directed his secretary, Walter Newton, to bring about a contact between the Cuban interests and the House Ways and Means Committee, then drafting the tariff bill.

Wood said that even supposing it were true that Mr. Hoover had discussed the sugar tariff with men opposing an increased duty, he could see nothing reprehensible in that fact.

Garner again called upon the President to issue a statement setting forth his side of the controversy, with the assertion that lacking a pronouncement from the White House many people would not take a kindly view of the episode.

NIAGARA POWER FIRMS MERGE

BUFFALO, N. Y., Dec. 23.—(AP.)—The Schoellkopfs, of Buffalo, will consolidate their varied electric utility interests through a merger of the Niagara Share Corporation, of Delaware with the Niagara Share Corporation of Maryland, it was announced here. The latter is a company which was formed last June, whose holdings are very largely those of the Schoellkopf interests in Niagara-Hudson Power and other allied electric utility securities.

The Schoellkopf interests are also large owners of Niagara Share Corporation of Delaware's stocks and this company in turn holds very considerable amounts of Niagara-Hudson Power stock, with other associated electric utility securities. The merger will bring these two groups of holdings in one company.

To carry out the proposed consolidation, the capital of the Niagara Share Corporation of Maryland, will be increased to 7,550,000 shares of which 7,500,000 will be common stock of $10 par value and 50,000 shares will be no par preferred stock.

Exchange of stock in the merger will be on the basis of share for share in the preferred issues. The common stocks will be exchanged on a basis of 1½ shares of Niagara share, of Maryland, for each share of Niagara share of Delaware.

When the consolidation is completed the Niagara Share Corporation, of Maryland, will possess net assets between $70,000,000 and $80,000,000, based on the current market prices of its portfolio holdings plus its cash in hand.

INDIAN VICEROY ESCAPES BOMB

LONDON, Dec. 23.—(AP.)—An Exchange Telegraph dispatch from New Delhi, India, early today said that Lord Irwin, viceroy of India, had narrowly escaped injury from a bomb explosion. The bomb was thrown into a railroad car in which he had been riding.

The dining car of the train was wrecked. An attendant was slightly injured. All passengers, including Lord Irwin, had left the car as it was nearing Delhi station. The train arrived safely, and the viceroy went at once to his official residence.

Lord Irwin in 1925 succeeded the Earl of Reading as viceroy.

Last April, a week after he had delegated to himself broad new powers to direct Indian parliamentary procedure, a train on which he was traveling with Lady Irwin was delayed by a bridge which was partly burned. The fact that telegraph wires in the vicinity had been cut led to the supposition an attempt had been made to wreck the train, but the matter never was cleared up.

His action in April was taken after two bombs had been thrown into the government benches of Parliament by alleged Communists in the gallery. Several persons were injured. At that time he said that conditions in India, from their very urgency, could not be made public.

URGES TAX CUT FOR TOBACCO

WASHINGTON, Dec. 23.—(AP.)—The reduction of one-half in federal tobacco taxes would, in the opinion of James C. Stone, member of the Federal Farm Board, increase tobacco consumption and thereby aid the producer.

Mr. Stone said he felt that the government tax on tobacco was the only one left on a war basis and that it would be a good thing for the producer if it were reduced at least one-half.

During the last six years, Mr. Stone said, every pound of Burl-eyed tobacco sold for the manufacture of cigarets had brought the producer from 30 to 40 cents per pound, and the government in turn collected $1 per pound.

Each pound sold for smoking and chewing tobacco had brought the producer from 18 to 20 cents gross per pound, and the government had collected a flat tax of 18 cents per pound.

The lower tax, Mr. Stone said, would increase production by increasing consumption and the Federal treasury probably would not be harmed and the producer in all likelihood would receive a better price for his product.

Rodeo Chief Slain Attacking Officer

IDABEL, Okla., Dec. 23.—(AP.)—Jockey Elkins, 27, prominent Idabel rodeo promoter and cattleman, was killed here after he was alleged to have advanced on Chief of Police J. J. Touchstone with an opened knife. Witnesses said Elkins was shot after the officer had told him to go home without further argument, but instead the cattleman drew a knife from his pocket and started to advance. Elkins was shot through the heart.

Woman Driver Dies, 2 Injured in Crash

INDIANAPOLIS, Dec. 23.—(AP.)—Mrs. Edna Wolf, 31, of 5312 South Halstead avenue, Chicago, was killed, and her husband, Nicholas Wolf, 35, was injured seriously when the automobile Mrs. Wolf was driving skidded and crashed down a 12-foot embankment north of Speedway City last night. Chester Rice, 27, Mrs. Wolf's brother, also was injured.

Dripping of Water Bares Still, 2 Held

An anonymous telephone call early yesterday sent police to a vacant storeroom at 813 Linden avenue, East Pittsburgh, where Lieut. David Bennett, Sergt. William McCoy and Patrolman Sam Whitman found water dripping through the ceiling. Investigating they said they found a 50-gallon still in operation in the bathroom of an apartment on the second floor. They arrested John Sophon, 47, an alleged boarder, and Mrs. Cetis Katalanos.

Dry Enforcement Held Chief Problem

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 23.—(AP.)—Federal Judge Paul J. McCormick, returning here after four months in the East as a member of President Hoover's National Commission of Law Enforcement and Observance, said the commission's inquiry had resulted in the conclusion that two major problems demanded immediate settlement. He named these as being the solution of prohibition enforcement, and the removal of "governmental lawlessness."

National Air Mail Distributed Here

More than 2,000 pounds of air mail, taken from a westbound National Air Transport line plane, which made a forced landing at Bellefonte yesterday, was brought to Pittsburgh by train and transferred to five planes of the Clifford Ball line, which transported it to Cleveland. Planes of the N. A. T. line picked up the mail at that point and carried it West.

Dormont Burgess Fines 40 Motorists

Dormont borough treasury received a considerable boost when 40 motorists who had been hailed before Burgess W. S. Haddock were fined for infractions of the traffic laws of that borough. Thirty-four paid $1 each for parking on the streets an entire night; two were fined $10 each for driving at an excessive speed and four were assessed $5 each for passing a red light.

Galena Stockholders Agree to Transfer

FRANKLIN, Pa., Dec. 23.—Galena Oil Company reports deposits of 93 per cent of preferred and 88 per cent common Galena Signal Oil Company stock under its reorganization plan. As deposits are sufficient, the committee has declared the plan operative so as to provide for distribution of cash and common stock of the new corporation, officers here stated. The committee will continue until December 31 to accept deposits of stock and a special stockholders' meeting will be held in Franklin on Monday, December 30.

Man in Church Is Overcome By Heat

LANCASTER, Pa., Dec. 23.—(AP.)—Believe it or not, Harry Marshall was overcome by heat last night.

Marshall, who is 55, collapsed while attending services at the St. John's Episcopal Church. He was taken to a hospital where physicians found he was suffering from stuffy temperatures in the church. Treatment given heat victims in summer was administered and him he was revived.

Marshall is the son of a former postmaster of Lancaster.

EMPIRE OIL CO. IN MERGER

OIL CITY, Pa., Dec. 23.—(AP.)—Merger of the Empire Oil Works Company, with plants at Reno and Tidioute, and the Wolverine Lubricants Company, of New York, was announced here.

A holding concern known as the Wolverine-Empire Refining Company has been formed. E. W. Chase, Oil City, is chairman of the board of the new firm; C. H. Ellingwood, New York, president; F. W. Baer, New York, treasurer; A. W. Scott, Oil City, secretary, and F. S. Smith, New York, assistant treasurer.

The headquarters of the company will be in New York. Expansion of the Reno and Tidioute plants will be undertaken at once, it was said.

The Wolverine Lubricants Company distributes motor oil along the eastern seacoast. A compounding plant was maintained at Reno, but prior to the consolidation it had no definite source of supply.

Man Faces Charge Of Balking Firemen

WAYNESBURG, Pa., Dec. 23.—Pete Grimm, a resident of Whitecottage, has been ordered to appear for preliminary hearing Tuesday on charges of reckless driving and disorderly conduct as a result, police charge, in obstructing the progress of the Waynesburg fire department truck in answering an alarm at Oak-Forest, Saturday. Grimm, according to police, by refusing to give the truck sufficient room, caused a drive chain to break on the truck as it passed his car.

JAPANESE NEWS AGENCY HIT

SHANGHAI, Dec. 23.—(AP.)—Nippon Dempo, Japanese News Agency operating in China, has fallen under the displeasure of the Nationalist government.

Charging the news agency with circulating "ill reports specifically intended to undermine public confidence in the Nationalist government," the foreign office announced it had withdrawn telephone, telegraph and radio communication privileges from Nippon Dempo.

The announcement said the Nationalist government had requested the Japanese legation at Peiping to "restrain these propagandists from further similar activities." The foreign office in making the request submitted to the legation several instances of the agency's alleged propaganda activities against the Nationalist government.

Two Men Injured In Crash of Auto

WASHINGTON, Pa., Dec. 23.—Elmer Moss, 26, coal miner, of Bellaire, O., and Sam Huffman, 24, glassworker, of McMechen, W. Va., are in the Washington hospital following an automobile accident near West Alexander. The two men had been working near Pt. Marion and were on their way home for the holidays when the mishap occurred.

Attempting to take a curve too rapidly, their car swerved from the road and crashed into the rear of a truck.

Christmas Cheer Features Programs Tonight

By DARRELL V. MARTIN, Sun-Telegraph Radio Editor.

SANTA CLAUS gets in his first Christmas cheer tonight over the radio with a cantata, a French celebration, a Christmas party on a train and the playing of his favorites "for all the good little girls and boys."

Merle Alcock is the single luminary of the evening. As guest of the Family Party, WCAE at 9:30, she will do "Silent Night, Holy Night" and Bizet's "Agnus Dei" with violin obligato.

Other features are particularly colorful—the playing of Santa Claus favorites over KDKA at 9, the French Celebration of Christmas eve over WJAS at 9:30 and the Real Folks' observance of Community's birthday, KDKA at 9:30, are unusual; and the Christmas party on the Empire Builder, KDKA at 10:30, should be exciting.

Another big party is scheduled tonight—that of Amos and Andy at Flossie's. This KDKA feature at 7 o'clock should be full of fun.

We Now Present

Polly Walker and Jack Oakie, stars of "Hit the Deck," are booked for the Old Gold Hour over WJAS tomorrow night.

H. L. B., Jr., wants to know if we have noticed that the old patent medicine twist "absolutely harmless." has been replaced by a radio slogan, "absolutely humless."

MODEL DX FAN

N. P. Scofield, of Crescent City, Fla., is a model of courtesy. Where most fans fail even to enclose a two-cent stamp when asking for information, Scofield recently wrote KFI and asked that the answer be sent him by wire—collect.

A Pittsburgh station recently played Cupid for two lovers who had quarreled. "I'll Always Be in Love With You"—played as requested by the femme—was the signal of forgiveness to her boy friend. Everything turned out all right.

ALLEYZUP!

Cal Mara, Jack Buchheit and Paul J. Miller have a bowling bee once a week—and in this case it's the boys who pay and pay and pay. "Cal" scared the KQV boys stiff with a 134 recently.

Fans have taken a great liking to "Bill" Farren, the new KayDee announcer.

TODAY'S TID BIT:

T. Daniel Frawley, NBC dramatic artist, returned to the microphone a few days ago after being absent about a month recovering from injuries sustained when hit by a taxicab. Frawley's first program when he returned to work, still swathed in bandages, was that of the National Safety Council.

Celebrate Baby's Birthday.

The folks of Thompkins Corners will give a party to celebrate the birthday of little Community Thompkins.

About this time a year ago these good people adopted a baby girl from an orphan asylum and, because the whole town was interested, the baby was appropriately christened "Community." Mayor and Mrs. Matt Thompkins later announced that they were giving the baby the name of Thompkins and designated Christmas Eve as the baby's official birthday.

Community's voice has been heard over the microphone only as a gurgle or a whimper, but she may actually utter a few words at her birthday party.

Christmas Party on Train.

A voice on the air which reaches through a frosty Christmas Eve into the cozy observation car of the Empire Builder, brings a startling turn in the events around which the plot for Empire Builder's program is built.

Gliding swiftly through a sparkling fairyland of Christmas trees, all bespangled by Jack Frost's artistic fingers in honor of the Yuletide, the Empire Builder itself affords the locale for a tense drama which is happily concluded a voice speaks over the radio.

The Old Timer and Bob MacGimsey, phenomenal harmony whistler, are on the train and contribute to the efforts of the train crew to make it an enjoyable Christmas Eve for the passengers. A jovial porter plays Santa Claus and a Pullman quartet is organized for some real harmony singing.

BLANCO KILLED OVER BORDER

SAN ANTONIO, Dec. 23.—(AP.)—Gen. Lucio Blanco, for whose murder in 1922, Constable Duke Carver, of San Antonio; Gen. Plutarco Elias Calles, former president of Mexico, and others were indicted, was killed on the Mexican side of the Rio Grande by Mexican troops, states a certified copy of a Mexican state department document received here.

The document was received by J. Franklin Spears, attorney for Carver, from the Department of State, and was to have been used in the case against Carver, which was dismissed by District Attorney John A. Valles in Laredo Wednesday.

The document is a copy of a report made by Col. Ramon Lopez, chief of the Nuevo Laredo garrison, to Brig. Gen. Jose Hurtado, of the frontier line, dated June 8, 1922, concerning the killing of three persons who were attempting to cross the border. The men had been bound together and fell into the river when shot by one of a Mexican troop patrol. The bodies of Blanco and his companions were found in the river handcuffed together and the indictment against Carver fixed the date of the killing as of June 7, 1922.

SUNDAY SHOWS GIVEN, 22 HELD

WHEELING, W. Va., Dec. 23.—(AP.)—Wheeling had its first Sunday movies in history yesterday and 22 managers and employes were arrested as a result when seven of the city's 13 theaters showed to sizeable audiences.

The managers and employes were taken into custody under an old law which prohibits any one from working on the Sabbath unless engaged in a necessary labor. West Virginia, it was said, has no law prohibiting Sunday performances.

The arrests were made by police and deputy sheriffs who acted on orders from Sheriff Ambrose Habig, of Ohio County. Prosecutor A. C. Schiffler directed Habig to act.

The managers and their employes posted bonds in a magistrate's court and waived preliminary hearing. Their cases will be presented to a grand jury in February.

Theaters operating were the Capitol, Court, Liberty, Rex, Virginia, Vic and Colonial. The arrests did not interrupt the performances.

Woman, Hit by Auto 2 Months Ago, Dies

Mrs. Hanna Holbrook, 69, of 41 Beelan street, died yesterday in St. Francis Hospital where she was removed October 27. She was hit by an automobile at Fifth avenue and Chatham street. Her skull was fractured.

Man Faces Charges Of Looting Dwelling

CONNELLSVILLE, Pa., Dec. 23.—Four hours after the home of John Bauman, aged resident of South Arch street, had been entered and robbed of articles valued at $150, Charles Summers, of Catawba, W. Va., was arrested. He is being held for court.

Failing to Receive Present, Wife Kills Self

Because no Christmas present from her husband had arrived, Mrs. Margaret Jones, 23, of Brinton road, Pitcairn, swallowed poison in her home which resulted in her death last night, according to a morgue report.

Mrs. Jones had waited daily for a present from her husband, William Jones, who has been working in Cincinnati four months, it was said. Thoughts of being slighted drove her to despondency and prompted her to swallow the poison, deputy coroners said.

An all-day battle by two physicians to save her life proved futile.

Picture of New Comet Taken At Harvard

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Dec. 23.—(AP.)—The new comet, discovered on Friday by Wilk, of Cracow, Poland, was photographed at the Harvard Observatory, Dr. Harlow Shapley, director of the observatory, announced. The comet is apparently getting brighter, Dr. Shapley said, and it has an embryonic tail.

He placed its motion to the southeastward at about three degrees a day.

Pope Pius Honors Former Jesuit Priest

VATICAN CITY, Dec. 23.—(INS.)—Impressive ceremonies attended the beatification in St. Peter's Church here of Father John Ogilvie, Jesuit priest, put to death in Glasgow in 1615. Thousands of persons attended the beatification, presided over by Pope Pius.

WILSON'S IOWA LEADER DIES

WATERLOO, Ia., Dec. 23.—(AP.)—Wilbur W. Marsh, Democratic National Committeeman from Iowa during the campaigns of Woodrow Wilson, died at his home here last night. Death was caused by a paralytic stroke.

He was found unconscious at the wheel of his automobile on a highway near Hudson yesterday morning. Physicians said Mr. Marsh had apparently been unconscious in the car all night. Before losing consciousness he had stopped the car and shut off the motor.

Mr. Marsh was prominently mentioned for appointment as Secretary of Agriculture during the second Wilson administration. He recently retired from the presidency of the Associated Manufacturers Company, a farm implement concern. For a time he was treasurer of the Democratic National Committee.

He leaves his widow and a daughter, Mrs. Bennett Clark, wife of the son of the late Champ Clark.

45 PIANOS LOANED FREE

Forty-five Pianos (Grands, Players and Uprights, both new and used instruments) will be placed in homes of Pittsburgh and vicinity and they may be used until we need them—which will be an indefinite time. We have discontinued eight of our large branch stores, and are placing these instruments in our "Frederick's Annex," located at 915 Liberty Avenue. Instead of storing and holding these pianos for the regular price, we are going to slaughter the prices and take our loss now. If you have ever thought of buying a piano, now is the time. We do not wish to place our instruments in storage and all Pianos not sold outright will be placed in the homes of families who are interested in owning a piano in the immediate future, and for the valuable advertising we will receive by having good families use them. We reserve the right to select the homes in which these pianos are to be placed.

Positively No Charge For Anything

No cartage, no rent or any expense whatever. You must call at the store to make your selection There are no strings to this offer, which comes but once in a lifetime.

BANDIT SUSPECT ENDS OWN LIFE

DETROIT, Dec. 23.—(AP.)—Rather than submit to arrest for questioning in connection with a filling station holdup last night, Matthew Koenen, 38, killed himself when cornered by a policeman. His alleged accomplice, Herman Creech, of Hamilton, O., is a prisoner in receiving hospital with a bullet wound in the wrist.

A 12-year-old boy who witnessed the holdup directed police in the direction the robbers fled. Creech was captured at once, but his companion escaped.

A patrolman waited on the porch of Koenen's home after it was learned he was a friend of Creech.

Koenen returned home and fled, refusing to halt for questioning.

In an alley near the home, the pursuing patrolman found Koenen dead with a self-inflicted bullet wound in his head from his own gun.

Franklin Pair Phones From Mid-Ocean

FRANKLIN, Pa., Dec. 23.—The first ship-to-shore telephone call to Franklin was one which Mr. and Mrs. Walter Marshall Dake, returning from a three months trip abroad, put through from the Leviathan. They talked with Mr. Dake's mother and their 12-year-old daughter, Sara Dake.

Spain's Queen Gives $4,000 to Charities

MADRID, Dec. 23.—(INS.)—In celebration of her saint's day, Queen Victoria, of Spain, today distributed approximately $4,000 to charities. It is expected she will ask the government to grant amnesty for all political prisoners, including Former Premier Sanchez Guerra and others implicated in recent military revolts against Gen. Primo De Rivera.

SMUTS' ROUTE ANNOUNCED

NEW YORK, Dec. 23.—(AP.)—The itinerary of Gen. Jan C. Smuts, former premier of the union of South Africa, who is to represent the League of Nations in the United States and Canada during the league's tenth anniversary celebration next month, was announced by the American committee for the celebration.

Gen. Smuts is to arrive in New York on December 30 and will appear in New York, Cincinnati, Philadelphia, Baltimore, Washington, New Haven, Boston, Cambridge and Ottawa, Can., the committee said.

Gen. Smuts will leave for Ottawa the night of December 31. He is expected to spend January Canadian cities.

On January 4 and 5, he will be in New York and on January 6, he will visit Harvard University and speak at Symphony Hall, Boston. On the evening of the following day he will speak at Yale University.

Gen. Smuts will return to New York on January 8, and remain there until January 11, when he will go to Cincinnati for an address on the twelth at Emery Auditorium. The same evening he will go to Washington, where next day he will be received officially by government officials. On January 13, he will have luncheon in Washington with the minister from South Africa and will speak at a conference on "the cause and cure of war."

The following day Gen. Smuts will devote to discussions on Negro education at Howard University. In the evening of the same day, he will be entertained at a dinner at the British Embassy by Sir Esme Howard, the ambassador.

On January 16, Gen. Smuts will be in Baltimore and in Philadelphia. He will return to New York on January 17 and sail on the eighteenth for home.

Bandit Kidnaper Slain in Mexico

MEXICO CITY, Dec. 23.—(AP.)—A dispatch to La Prensa from Teocelo, state of Vera Cruz, said that Rafael Peredo had been executed by a firing squad after troops had dispersed a bandit gang and rescued Eufraisio Gomez, son of a wealthy rancher. Gomez was kidnaped a few days ago. Peredo, who was guarding the prisoner, was the only member of the gang captured.

Another dispatch to the same paper from Cordoba, state of Vera Cruz, said four employes of El Potrero ranch were wounded when 20 bandits attacked the place on Friday night. Troops have gone in pursuit of the bandits.

Bomb on Train Kills 3, Hurts 8

SOFIA, Dec. 23.—(INS.)—Three persons are dead and at least eight gravely injured as a result of the bombing of a train en route from Zarabod to Nish, Jugoslavia. The bomb was left in a knapsack in a third-class compartment of the train by a man dressed as a farmer. A thorough investigation has been launched to determine the responsibility for the outrage.

Child Near Death When Beam Falls

WAYNESBURG, Pa., Dec. 23.—Alva Hopkins, 10-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hopkins, of Swarts, had a narrow escape, when a beam on a drilling well fell and missed him by a few inches.

HARRIS STAGE SHOW GETS "HAND"

By CHARLES A. EARLEY

The holiday week in the Harris has R. K. O.'s "Street Girl," starring Betty Compson on the screen, and a stage show headed by Victor Graff, M. C., and his Harrisonians. This stage show is the best part of the bill.

Mr. Graff assumes an entirely different role this time. He is supposed to be "Punchinello, the Clown," according to his song, and, as such, "Al Jolsons" all over the place.

The Six O'Reillys get a big hand for their tumbling ability. Packard and Dodge, in an Italian automobile repair scene, receive honors for novel music played on an automobile inner tube, an air pump, oil cans and a balloon tire. Szita and Anis, adagio dancers, cavort hither and yon and deserve their curtain calls. Gene and Myrtle Moore please in a comedy act.

The story of "Street Girl" concerns a quartet of youthful musicians in a second-rate cafe, who strive for bigtime and who become sort of paternal guardians to a little French girl, whom they rescue from a bold, bad man when she can't pay her room rent. The cast includes Ned Sparks and Jack Oakie.

The bill includes the Pennsylvania Railroad's publicity picture, "The Broadway Limited," a Johnny Mitchell organlogue of Yuletide songs and hymns and Fox Movietone News.

Emsworth Church Holds Entertainment

A Christmas entertainment will be held tonight in the rooms of the Emsworth Presbyterian Church, the Rev. Howard Rodgers, pastor.

RUDY CROONS AS HERO IN SHERIDAN

By CLARENCE E. GRUNDISH

R. K. O. put Rudy Vallee, radio crooner, to work as a movie hero and the result is "The Vagabond Lover," the song and talk picture which opened Saturday in the Sheridan Square. And right at the start you might as well be told that Mr. Vallee as an actor is a good singer. He is camera conscious—or should we say unconscious?—and doesn't, except for his singing, make a very hero's display as a romantic hero.

The film story doesn't help Mr. Vallee much either. It is a rather sketchy affair of a smalltown band leader who is mistaken for a prominent musician and who is forced to go on with the deception.

But don't get the idea the production is a total loss. When Mr. Vallee puts his pleasant, dreamy voice to music one almost can forgive him his amateur histronics. Then he has his Connecticut Yankees with him and they play in entertaining style. Also Marie Dressler is on hand in the role of a society matron and she gets a lot of comedy moments into the film. And Sally Blane is present, too, bringing some feminine attractiveness to the scene.

A number of short subjects augment the bill. One of these depicts Capt. Bairnfather's Ol' Bill, spending Christmas in the trenches. We are glad to see this old fictional hero of European battle days once again. But why did he have to bring up the war this merry Yuletide 11 years after?

WRITER AT LAST SEES BOSS; ACTRESS BACK FROM TRIP TO AFRICA

By DOROTHY HERZOG

(Copyright, 1929, by Premier Syndicate, Inc.)

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 23.

SPEED! That's what counts in this business. For instance: He was a writer. A studio signed him and brought him west. He dropped in to see the producer with whom he was to work. The producer was busy. That went on for a coupla weeks. The writer burned. Why should he kick around such a burg? So he returned east.

He browsed in New York for two weeks. Business not so good. He got to cogitating. After all, it was fair to middlin' out West. He didn't do anything, but he collected the do-re-me every Wednesday. Mebbe he'd get use to sitting on his spine and being paid for it. So back West he trekked.

He breezed into the producer's office. Mind, now, he had been away from the studio for three weeks. The producer's secretary espied him.

"Oh, Mr. Whoozit," she motioned. "Mr. Producer will see you now!"

Heat of Africa Calls for Rest

In a modest two-story house in a tree-lined shaded South Pasadena street, a lil' girl is resting from a 35,000-mile trip during the nine months' course of which she played the featured fem role in M-G-M's offering of "Trader Horn."

Introducing Edwina Booth.

Miss Booth needs the rest she is getting. The nine months' trek, with at least seven of them spent locationing in hottest, as well as darkest Africa, proved to be no ice cream party for this 18-year-old blonde.

Edwina Booth

She suffered from two sunstrokes in Africa. There, the sun is a menace from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m., whether it be clear or a cloudy day. The thermometer ranges around 130. The men in the "Trader Horn" troupe were more fortunate than Edwina. Their roles permitted the use of a black protector against sunstroke, fashioned of flannel and running from the nape of the neck to the spine's fadeout. Miss Booth's costume was slight. Flannel didn't belong.

Hence, she suffered two sunstrokes. One, while in a tree playing a scene. She passed out cold in that tree. The second time she was on terra firma, but the stroke was just as devastating.

Jungle Perils Faced by Girl

A doctor once scoffed at the stories that a man couldn't survive in jungled Africa. He tried it. He was dead in two weeks.

Those who know their Africa—its threats and its mortalities—declared Edwina Booth would never come out of it alive. She did. Despite the flies whose sting—if infected—cause sleeping sickness. Despite the tiny, angry gnats that swarmed through the finely spun mesh over the beds. Despite fever. Despite the thousand and one hardships of an unharnessed, tropical country.

The company lived in tents. Mrs. Harry Carey and the script girl were the only other women in the troupe. Edwina had a native boy who ran errands for her. Her deepest terror was the full length mirror that accompanied her on the 35,000-mile journey. This mirror was taken to location. At night it was carried back to her tent. It returns to Hollywood minus a crack.

Despite the hardships, Miss Booth opined there was a fascination in the country that got one. All day long, the doleful thump of tom-toms. At night, too. And with the relaxation caused by a tropical climate, the thump of the tom-toms came to mean a subtle intoxication. And the cold, clear, starry nights with the fires of the camp burning. Over in that tent a phonograph whooping out jazz records. Far in the recesses of the jungle, night noises, weird and prowling.

Leopard Passes As She Strolls

One late afternoon, Edwina dared, against orders, to walk away from camp. A leopard leaped from the denseness directly across her path and disappeared into more denseness. She was lucky that leopard wasn't hungry.

Days of hard, sweating work, grinding "Trader Horn" onto celluloid. Amusing sessions with the natives. The natives offered the players beautiful elephant tusks and other ivory prizes. Edwina gave a pair of silk stockings for a piece of ivory. The next day she saw the native with the stockings tied around his neck and not another stitch of clothing. She admitted she bargained with tin cans and even dyed fabric in red ink, ribboned it, tied these together with a bow and thereby enthralled a native bargainer. They didn't want money.

But, all in all, the Booth girl is mighty happy to be home with her family for Christmas. She won't be dosing on quinine, either, for many a day. And there will be no more vaccinations or inoculations against typhoid, et cetera. Edwina collapsed on the boat coming home. She is under a doctor's care now. Yes, she needs her rest. But at that, she reiterates it was a wondrous experience. For my money, I'll take it by proxy.

And—that's all.

ENRIGHT FILM VERY WET AFFAIR

By MILDRED FILLMORE

"The Battle of Paris," new screen attraction in the Enright, is more like a drinking bout than a battle. But when the smoke—or rather, the alcoholic fumes are cleared away at the finale, the hero and heroine are united amidst the din of bells and the shouts of the multitudes telling everyone the Armistice has arrived.

The film is a romantic comedy and much of its action takes place in those gay places of Gay Paree. It has song and talk with Gertrude Lawrence of the musical comedy stage prominent in both.

Charles Ruggles, funny boy, also is featured and he puts in a lot of laughs.

The picture, light in merit and light in entertainment, won't bear critical scrutiny. And to take it with any seriousness is to believe that there wasn't a sober soldier in all of the Allied armies.

"Jingle Bells" is the Jay Mills' stage presentation. Mr. Mills gets classical with a violin and gets applause. A group of midgets display some acrobatic talents. Karl Heinrich's Kiddie Revue also is a feature. Seven or so youngsters appear and some of them are as cute as can be. No, we don't know their names. But then, neither did Mr. Mills.

Frank Roberts presents "The Night Before Christmas" as his organlogue.

MARYLAND PEN WORST IN EAST

BALTIMORE, Dec. 23.—(AP.)—The Maryland Penitentiary is the worst penal institution in the East, and the "plainly low" morale of the prisoners is the direct result of poor working and living conditions, the National Society of Penal Information says in its annual report, made public here.

Following the denunciation of the state penitentiary, the society suggested abandonment of the present institution here and the construction of a new prison on a site near Jessups, the location of the house of correction.

Conditions in prisons in other states of the East are discussed by the society, which said that "from a physical standpoint, the Maryland Penitentiary is in poorer condition than any other in the East, although the plant itself is no more difficult to keep up to a satisfactory standard than such ancient prisons as Charlestown, Auburn and the Eastern Penitentiary. One of the cell houses is very dark and poorly ventilated and its use should be abandoned if its condition cannot be materially improved."

New York to Give 50 Convicts Paroles

NEW YORK, Dec. 23.—(AP.)—Fifty prisoners will be granted paroles during the next two days as a Christmas present from New York state.

The 50 convicts are all men who have served minimum sentences of five to 10 years and all of them have applied for paroles on previous occasions. Some of them will come from Auburn Prison, but most of the paroled men will be sent from Sing Sing, Great Meadow and Clinton Prisons.

BEDFAST FOR 6 WEEKS; KONJOLA BROUGHT HEALTH

Complication Caused Intense Suffering; But Pittsburgh Man Now Is Back at His Work

"Konjola put me back on the job." Time and again this happy statement has been made by former sufferers who found relief and new health through this new and different medicine. Think of the thousands of dollars saved for wage earners and business men and women of America by this new medicine's amazing victories over stomach, liver, kidney and bowel troubles; rheumatism, neuritis, and nervousness! Call upon the Konjola Man, who is at the Dow Drug Store (formerly McCulloch's), Penn Avenue and Sixth Street, Pittsburgh. Get the facts about this modern compound that has become the most talked-of medicine in the nation. The fame Konjola enjoys is based not upon theory or speculation, but upon the bedrock foundation of verified results; such results as are described in the following statement recently made to the Konjola Man by Mr. Joseph Norton, 10 North Diamond Street, N. S., Pittsburgh:

"I feel it is my duty to tell what Konjola did for me, for the benefit of others who may be suffering as I did. I was afflicted for two years with stomach and kidney trouble, neuritis, and nervousness, and my suffering was terrible. I was unable to eat enough food to gain strength and carry on my work. When I did eat I suffered for hours afterward, and a nervous condition resulted. My kidneys were in a very bad condition, and at nights I would have to get up one time after another. A satisfactory night's sleep was out of the question. Then neuritis appeared, affecting my ankles, hands and wrists. My ankles became so swollen and sore that I could not walk. My wrists and hands were in such bad condition that I could not dress myself. Finally I was forced to remain in bed, where I lay for six weeks.

"It was Konjola that got me out of bed and gave me the health I enjoy today. A friend advised me to try this medicine, and it soon showed results. I kept on until I had taken seven bottles, and by that time I was again on the job, working every day. I feel like a different man; eat anything I desire, and sleep soundly all night long. Neuritis is entirely gone. No wonder I am enthusiastic about this wonderful medicine."

A typical example of Konjola in action! A sincere tribute to a medicine of merit! All Konjola asks is a chance to make you well.

The Konjola Man is at the Dow Drug Store (formerly McCulloch's), Penn Avenue and Sixth Street, Pittsburgh, where daily he is meeting the public, introducing and explaining the merits of this new and different medicine. Konjola is sold also at all Dow Stores in Pittsburgh and vicinity.

Owner Finds His Stolen Car Parked

FREEDOM, Pa., Dec. 23.—Louis Cebedick, East Rochester, who reported to police December 7 that his automobile had been stolen, looked from his window last night and saw it parked across the street. Police arrested Edward Cain, of Freedom, for the theft. Cain, police say, admitted taking the machine, but did not know the owner lived in the vicinity where he was visiting friends.

Physician Once More Heads School Board

DUNBAR, Pa., Dec. 23. — The school board has reorganized by naming Dr. E. B. Guie to succeed himself as president. Mrs. Elta Moyer is vice president.

LISBON STUDIES RIVER TUNNEL

LISBON, Portugal, Dec. 23. —(AP.)—The Minister of Commerce ordered a board of experts to study the project for digging a tunnel under the Tagus River, thus joining Lisbon proper, on the right side of the river, with the suburbs on the left bank.

LISBON, with an estimated population of 529,524 in 1925, is built on the north bank of the Tagus, nine miles from the river's mouth, at the point where the stream expands to form a tidal lake. Below Lisbon the Tagus is a tidal estuary two miles wide in many places. Above the city it widens into the Rada De Lisboa, a tidal lake of an average breadth of nearly seven miles. On the south bank there are several towns.

WORK PROBLEM HELD PUZZLE

LONDON, Dec. 23.—(AP.)—J. H. Thomas, Lord Privy Seal and Minister of Employment, in address at Penge, said "quite frankly I tell you I have not solved the unemployment problem. I wonder how many would be honest, and frankly say they expect the problem to be solved in six months."

He said the members of the government realized that anything shaking the credit of the country would injure the very people they desired to help.

Referring to press stories on the probability of general elections next year, Mr. Thomas added he could only say "wait and see."

Rocket Car Makes Fast Run With Liquid Fuel

BERLIN, Dec. 23.—(AP.)—Max Valier, rocket car enthusiast, tested his recoil automobile, with liquid fuel instead of rockets, on the Avus speedway here. The test was made without a hitch, but Valier failed to equal his record of 235 miles an hour made with the rockets.

Valier said the new fuel insured the driver's absolute control. The start was made in a great cloud of smoke from the exhaust, but the machine worked smoothly throughout. The car is without springs. The driver's seat is in the center and there are four fuel containers in front of him and two behind.

GOTHAM WORLD FAIR OPPOSED

NEW YORK, Dec. 23.—(AP.)—The Merchants' Association of New York City announced its opposition to a proposal to hold a world's fair here in 1932 commemorating the two-hundredth anniversary of George Washington's birthday on the ground that such celebrations are obsolete. A plan for the fair had been urged for more than a year.

Action of the association's board of directors was unanimous. It was held that world's fairs are out of date because of "modern developments such as the motion picture, the radio and the automobile."

The fact that Chicago is to have a world's fair in 1933 also was cited as a reason for opposing the proposal.

Koehl, Ocean Flier, In U. S. for Visit

NEW YORK, Dec. 23 (AP.)—Capt. Herman Koehl, who was a member of the crew of the airplane Bremen in its westward flight across the Atlantic, arrived here with his wife from Hamburg on the liner Deutschland for a pleasure trip of about three weeks. He said he would visit friends, but had no particular plans.

Bystander Hurt As 2 Autos Crash

MARTINS FERRY, O., Dec. 23.—While Robert Scott was waiting to cross the Ohio River highway here, two automobiles collided and were wrecked. Tip rear of one struck Scott, splintering a bone in his leg. None of the automobile occupants was hurt.

WARM WEATHER BALKS WILKINS

By CAPT. SIR HUBERT WILKINS
Commander of the Wilkins Hearst Antarctic Expedition.

ON BOARD THE WILLIAM SCORESBY, NEAR ADELAIDE ISLAND (ANTARCTICA), Dec. 22.—(Via S. S. Melville and KUP, San Francisco Examiner Wireless Station)—An unusual and wierd temperature has balked us again.

A sudden rise from 24 to 51 degrees this morning melted the ice like butter.

It took us 12 hours to reach Refuge Harbor last night and at that it was due only to good fortune. The flat ice was strong and firm. We could walk across it with safety and our hopes were high.

Capt. Shannon, the officers of the Scoresby, and the entire crew, worked like Trojans unloading the plane and preparations went along quickly.

The plane had been lowered to the ice and everything seemed splendid when the sudden rise in temperature spoiled our plans.

The ice became so soft one could not step on it without falling through into the water. It was impossible to use Beascochea Bay for a take-off so with the plane aboard we are again heading seaward and will push south once more still seeking a spot suitable for an airplane base.

Pittsburgh Man Seeks Attackers

BEAVER, Pa., Dec. 23.—P. E. Toole, Pittsburgh, has offered a $500 reward for the arrest of his two alleged assailants of last Wednesday morning. County detectives reported finding Toole's revolver in the Upper Dry Run Creek at Smith's Ferry, near where the man, partly submerged and clad only in an undershirt, was found by Mrs. Ila Walker, Smith's Ferry. His baggage has not been recovered.

State police and county detectives questioned an East Liverpool, O., street car operator, who declared that Toole crashed into the front of his street car four hours before he was found unconscious. Ralph Johnston, Smith's Ferry, and James Davis, East Liverpool, O., admitted helping Toole to repair a tire, but denied any further knowledge of him, police say.

Fayette Farmers To Again Raise Tomatoes

CONNELLSVILLE, Pa., Dec. 23.—Farmers of Northern Fayette County will again be offered contracts by the H. J. Heinz Company, of Pittsburgh, for production of tomatoes. Last season 207 acres were cultivated and 1,100 tons of tomatoes shipped to the factory.

The results were so satisfactory it is desired to have an increased acreage in 1930.

Littlefield Piano Company Bankrupt

BURLINGTON, Vt., Dec. 23.—(AP.)—Failure of the Littlefield Piano Company, of Barre, Vt., became known when it was learned that George B. Littlefield, president of the company, filed a petition in bankruptcy in United States District Court for his firm. The liabilities were $207,601.08 and the assets $156,277.97.

CRIPPLED LINER REACHES PORT

NEW YORK, Dec. 23.—(AP.)—The North German Lloyd liner Columbus, arriving from Bremen with 853 passengers and 7,000 sacks of Christmas mail, crept into the harbor last night showing signals "not under control."

Reports sent from the ship to the line's offices said there was trouble with the engines. The ship entered the harbor steaming at only three knots and officials of the line decided to have her anchored at quarantine for the night.

The Columbus recently had been equipped with new turbines. She left Southampton on December 14, and should have reached New York Friday if the new turbines had developed the speed expected.

Christmas Mail Saved as Office Burns

SHARPSVILLE, PA., Dec. 23.—Three tons of Christmas mail were saved when fire gutted the postoffice and a clothing store owned by Block Brothers. The loss is estimated at $25,000. Flames started in the clothing store. Volunteers aided in moving the mail. The First National Bank was also threatened.

Homesick Man Kills Self With Pistol

MARTINS FERRY, O., Dec. 23.—Twenty minutes after admission to the hospital with a bullet wound in the head, Manis Batfores, 28, Yorkville steel mill worker, died Sunday. Jefferson and Belmont County coroners found Batfores, presumably despondent because he is separated this Christmas from his mother, brother and sisters, who are still in Greece, shot himself.

BRAZIL HONORS OCEAN FLIERS

RIO JANEIRO, Dec. 23.—(AP.)—The trans-Atlantic fliers, Maj. Tadeo Larre-Borges and Lieut. Leon Challe, were guests of the Brazilian government last night, arriving from Bahia en route to Montevideo.

A squadron of three military planes, commanded by Capt. A. D. Herbal, and a mail plane carrying newspapermen flew to Punta Itaipu to meet the airmail plane bringing the fliers. They landed at 2:40 p. m. on Dos Affonsos Field after circling over Rio Janeiro.

The aviators were received by Gen. Mariante, commander of military aviation, representatives of the President and cabinet members.

Flees From Wife, Man Barricades Self in Church

EVANSTON, Ill., Dec. 23.—(AP.)—Staid Evanston was thrown into a state of mild excitement when members of the congregation of the New Hope Negro Church found the place barricaded against them and after a futile siege called on police for assistance.

A pair of husky sergeants, placing little stock in the reported diabolical connections of the entrenched parties, broke a window and climbed in. With pointed pistols they searched and found—under a pew—Max Belcher, a huge Negro.

Belcher, a member of the congregation, it developed, found a haven in the church while fleeing the wrath of his wife. He told police he thought it probable Mrs. Belcher was among the churchgoers clamoring for admittance and decided to "take no changes."

Sore Throat? Don't Gargle

This Doctor's Prescription Giver Quicker, Better Relief

Don't suffer the pain and discomfort of sore throat. Use a doctor's prescription called Thoxine, guaranteed to relieve with the very first swallow. Gargles and salves are too slow, and if they do relieve, it is usually only temporary.

Thoxine has a double action—it relieves the soreness and goes direct to the internal cause. It contains no harmful drugs and is safe and pleasant for the whole family. There is nothing better to stop coughing due to irritated throats. Just ask for Thoxine, put up ready for use in 35c, 60c and $1.00 bottles. Money back if not relieved. Sold by all druggists.

M. L. BENEDUM NEW DIRECTOR AT COLONIAL

One of America's Foremost Independent Oil Operators

IS ALSO ACTIVE ABROAD

Michael L. Benedum, one of America's foremost independent oil operators, has been elected a member of the Board of Directors of The Colonial Trust Company.

Mr. Benedum is president of the Benedum-Trees Oil Company, and a principal owner and director in many other corporations. He is also a member of the board of directors of the Western Pennsylvania Hospital.

Mr. Benedum has operated in practically every known oil field in the United States, Canada, Mexico, South America and Roumania, developing several large oil pools which are now playing an important part in the world's supply of oil.

Extensive operations have been conducted in Colombia by the Tropical Oil Company, now the International Petroleum Company, which Mr. Benedum and his associates formed. In the domestic field, Mr. Benedum and his colleagues organized the Arkansas Natural Gas Company and its subsidiaries, which have been recently affiliated with the Cities Service Company; also the Transcontinental Oil Company, which, with its associate, the Mid-Kansas Oil Company, is the largest producer of crude oil in the world; and the Plymouth Oil Company and its subsidiary, the Big Lake Oil Company.

Mr. Benedum was born in Bridgeport, West Virginia, July 16, 1869, and after receiving a common school education engaged in the milling business. Spending only a short time at this vocation, Mr. Benedum joined the engineering corps of the South Penn Oil Company. A few years later he was transferred to the land department of the company, and later made assistant superintendent of operations in West Virginia. He resigned in 1898 to engage in business for himself.

Ambitious to enlarge his operations in the oil business, Mr. Benedum became associated with J. C. Trees and other oil operators of Pittsburgh, forming the Benedum-Trees Oil Company. Successful from the start, Benedum and Trees have been generally recognized as the outstanding pathfinders of the industry, being pioneer developers of every major field in this country as well as abroad. One of their notable accomplishments was to conduct the first successful under-water drilling operations in Southern fields.

In the United States during the present decade, their unusual success in developing the world's largest oil pools, as well as the deepest production of oil, has placed Mr. Benedum and his associates in the foremost ranks of the oil industry.

Aren't They Happy? It's Christmas Club Money!

Lower right—Merry Christmas! And Christmas is merry when you have Christmas Club money to do your shopping with.

Thousands of people in Pittsburgh have found Christmas a happier, merrier, less-difficult time this year because they had a nice fat Christmas Club check to pay the bills.

Wouldn't you like to be in that position NEXT Christmas? You can open a Christmas Club at The Colonial right now. For almost any sum you want to save. Payments can be made weekly. You will never miss the payments . . . but you will miss them a year from now, if you don't save.

Christmas Dividends Paid by The Colonial

Stockholders Share in Regular Dividend and in Extra Christmas Payment.

The Board of Directors of The Colonial Trust Company have declared a dividend of $3.00 per share on the capital stock of the company, payable January 2, to all stockholders of record at the close of business December 27, and in addition, they declared a special Christmas dividend of $2.00 per share on the stock, payable December 20, to stockholders of record at the close of business December 17.

Employes Bonus Is Month's Salary

All Workers at The Colonial Received Christmas Money.

As a Christmas bonus, the Board of Directors of The Colonial Trust Company have authorized the payment of an extra month's salary to all employes who have been with the company for a year.

In addition, all employes who have been with The Colonial for less than a year receive a bonus based on the number of months they have been employed here.

THE COLONIAL TO BROADCAST PITT-S. C. GAME

Graham McNamee To Describe Rose Tournament Battle

TO COME OVER WCAE

Army-Stanford Game Also Offered to Local Fans.

A play-by-play story of the intersectional game between Pitt and the University of Southern California at the Tournament of the Roses in California, New Year's Day, will be broadcast by The Colonial Trust Company through Station WCAE.

The game will come direct from the Rose Bowl and Graham McNamee will do the broadcasting.

In addition, The Colonial will broadcast the game between Army and Stanford on next Saturday afternoon, December 28. There will be much local interest in this game because the Stanford team is coached by "Pop" Warner, former leader of Pitt's football fortunes. This game, too, will come through Station WCAE.

The Colonial already broadcast the game between Carnegie Tech and Southern California.

Here's a Story of a Bunch of Pennies That Will Spend A Merry Christmas With a Small Boy on a Mountain

Christmas Romance Of a Railroad and a Bank

This story isn't about banks and banking, and it really has no place here . . . but it is about Christmas, and that gives it a place anywhere. Besides, there is a Colonial man mixed up in it, so perhaps it is entitled to some space. Anyway, this is Christmas time, and if Christmas doesn't permit you to take some liberties, what's the darn thing good for?

Ray Wetherell, of The Colonial, tells the story. The scene is high up in one of the mountain ranges of the Alleghenies . . . where the B. & O. has to put on extra locomotives as it goes winding and climbing eastward through some of the loveliest . . . and loneliest . . . wilderness in Pennsylvania.

Alone in a Wilderness.

It is a beautiful place in summer . . . and a bitter place in winter. It gets so cold you hardly want to stick your nose out a door. Of course there is little chance for very many of you to go sticking your noses past doors up there, because there is only one door there . . . and that a rather mean one. Only one house in all that vast mountain wilderness and it is not much more than a hut. It belongs to a track walker.

He has a little boy. The boy must be nine now, but he was only six when this story began. Even then, he used to stand along the tracks, a forlorn little figure, as the trains went by. Don't laugh . . . you'd stand along the tracks and watch the trains go by, too, if you were six, and there was nothing much but trees and snow to look at for miles and miles, day after day, and all day long. All this stuff about the birds and the bees, and the woods fairies is pretty enough in books, but it is a bare diet when you are a boy and have to take it 365 days a year. No little boys to play with, no glamorous alleys to stray in, no fights . . . nothing.

The Men on No. 14.

The men on No. 14 felt sorry for the youngster. He couldn't possibly go to school from away up there, and it was all so vast and lonely. Now, railroad men are a sympathetic lot. "Their hearts are as big as their engines," says Wetherell. So the men on No. 14 took to buying things for the lad now and then, and tossing them off as they went by. Candy, or a toy, and sometimes a picture book (they hoped he could read, but even if he couldn't there were the pictures.) He got to be close friends with them. The only trouble was that they could never stop for a moment and speak to the youngster . . . no chance to open up the throttle beforehand, get there early and stop long enough to say "hello" to a fellow who waits for you every night at dusk. You might do that with some trains, but not with No. 14. No. 14 is a great merchandise express . . . Chicago to New York . . . fast, like the mail trains. Vast mercantile treasures speed on it. Minutes are dollars to it, with maybe a million in merchandise en route. Sometimes it has a solid car of silk . . . Frisco to New York . . . and when it does have a silk car, that car carries eight armed guards who hit the ground as one man every time the train halts . . . just like a Prussian guard.

A Different Christmas.

You see, you couldn't stop a train like that for a little boy . . . not even a second. So No. 14 always goes thundering by without a pause . . . and the little boy, who doesn't know about the silk cars and the armed guards and the unwavering demands of a commercial world, probably finds it a little hard to understand men who bring things for him but never stop.

But at Christmas time . . . well, it's pretty hard to imagine Christmas up there, if you are used to thinking of Christmas in terms of hustle and bustle and crowded streets and lights, and the holly and new sleds and all the good old glamor. But Christmas up there is mainly notable for the fact that No. 14 probably won't come pounding over the hill that day. The busy, exacting commercial world that can't let trains stop even a second for little boys in the mountains takes a full stop for itself that day. And if a little boy happens to forget that it's Christmas he may wait a long time for his friends on No. 14. Of course, that would never do.

So, for that reason and for obvious other reasons, his friends on No. 14 make a point of warning this silent watcher that it's Christmas. The day before, they take him extra candy, and books and toys . . . a lot of them, all at one time this day, so he'll be sure to know what's up.

And that's where The Colonial gets in on the thing . . . by a very slender thread, it must be confessed. Ray Wetherell, who is the manager of the The Colonial's Savings Department, used to be a railroad man himself. And when W. E. Van Nort, conductor of No. 14, told Ray this story, Ray pointed out that if you are a boy, Christmas could not possibly be Christmas unless you got some money . . . even if you probably didn't get anywhere where you could spend it until maybe along next summer. So Ray got a heap of nice shiny new pennies (pennies look shinier and make bigger heaps for a given sum than almost anything else you could think of, don't they?) and bundled them up for the 9-year-old.

That was three years ago. Now it's an annual function. And if you go through The Colonial these days and see Ray with a lot of very bright pennies, you'll know what he's about.

And a Mercantile Express That Must Not Stop

Figures On Losses of Insurance Money

Everyone has heard of the danger that grows out of the practice of leaving insurance money payable in lump sums to beneficiaries, and actual figures on this danger have now been compiled by insurance authorities, according to John W. Chalfant, Vice President in Charge of Trusts at The Colonial Trust Company.

According to these figures, if a man has a wife and one child and leaves his insurance to them in a lump sum, there is only one chance out of 25 that they will be able to keep that money and benefit by it, as they should.

If a man has a wife and two children and he leaves his money to them, there is only one chance in 125 for them to keep it for any length of time.

And if a man has a wife and three children, there is only one chance in 625.

Insurance companies, banks and trust companies agree that insurance money should be left in some form of installment payments, so that the principal cannot be lost through unwise investment.

Any officer of the Trust Department at The Colonial will be glad to tell you how this can be done through a Life Insurance Trust.

27 ESCAPE IN TWO DOWNTOWN FIRES

SIDEWALKS of PITTSBURGH

by WILLIAM PFARR

LUKE BARNETT has enjoyed so many successes that his failures are oftentimes more interesting.

When Bob Zuppke, the Illinois coach, was here to speak at the Duquesne University football banquet, great plans were laid to set Zuppke for the Barnett trap.

Everybody but Zuppke was told in whispers that Barnett was ready to operate on the football expert. After the banquet proper adjournment was made to the Amen Corner.

As Zuppke passed into the Corner's clubrooms, Barnett was standing near the doorway. Zuppke glanced at Luke and Luke glanced at Zuppke.

"Hello, Luke," Zuppke greeted.

Later Zuppke told of the one time he had seen Barnett in action. It was 10 years ago in Chicago. Luke had played the role of a Polish football coach. Zuppke had never forgotten the act.

THE Amen jokers tried a second time to upset Zuppke by inspiring an argument between Luke and his brother, Bill. Luke walloped Bill realistically a half dozen times, but Zuppke refused to be impressed. He knew that any walloping with which Luke was connected was "business."

Judge James B. Drew is a much-traveled jurist. The picture of a moving train or an airplane makes him restless.

Last summer the Judge and his wife flew over most of Europe. Somewhere over Turkey (we're sorry we can't say just where) the plane in which Mr. and Mrs. Drew were the only passengers went wrong and the pilot was forced to land. As the forced landing was being effected, the Judge opened a book and glanced idly over its pages. He explained later that he didn't want Mrs. Drew to become alarmed at the prospect of a forced landing. He succeeded.

SIDEWALKS warns Judge Drew that, with the telling of the above story, he will always be known to some as the jurist who made a forced landing in Turkey.

John Williams, of the Eighth Ward, was applying for a private detective's license before Judge Harry H. Rowand.

"Your credentials are excellent but have you ever been in the guard-house?" Judge Rowand quizzed.

"Yes," Williams confessed.

"And when did it happen?"

"During the Spanish-American War, 1898."

"And who put you in the guard-house?"

"Lieut. Harry H. Rowand."
P. S.—He got the license.

Will Rogers Says:

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., Dec. 23. NATIONS starting for the big London disarmament conference, to disarm themselves of the things they figure won't be used in the next war, which will leave them more money to develop the things they will use.

It's an economic, more than a humanitarian affair. It's like holding a traffic conference and just discussing the limiting of horses and buggies.

I wonder if we ever will get so civilized that one will be held to limit submarines, aeroplanes, and chemicals.

You can't say civilization don't advance, however, for in every war they kill you in a new way.

Yours,
WILL.

2 MEET DEATH, 7 INJURED BY AUTOS HERE

Officer Found Pinned Beneath Motorcycle; Two Hurt Repairing Tires

Two fatalities and seven persons injured was the toll of automobile accidents over the week end.

Mrs. Mary Davis, 75, of 1113 Ann street, Homestead, died in the Homestead Hospital of injuries suffered late Saturday when she was struck by a machine driven by I. W. Clark, of 229 Eighth avenue, West Homestead, at Tenth avenue and Amity street.

John Grabowsky, 32, of 1546 South street, North Braddock, died in the Braddock General Hospital today from injuries suffered last night when he was struck by an automobile in Electric avenue, North Braddock. Ernest Gearhardt, of 2621 Braddock avenue, Swissvale, driver of the car, was released in $1,000 bail by the coroner, pending the inquest.

Motorcycle Patrolman John McHugh was taken to Mercy Hospital suffering from internal injuries and concussion of the brain as a result of an accident at Ridge and Galveston avenues. He was found unconscious beneath his motorcycle by two motorists who took him to the hospital. Police were endeavoring to learn how the accident occurred.

Suffering bruises when his automobile collided with another at Northumberland street and Murray avenue, Walter Rae, 20, of 3328 Beaconhill street, Dormont, was taken to Homeopathic Hospital, where his condition was regarded as fair.

MOTORCYCLE, AUTO HIT

When a motorcycle on which he was riding collided with an automobile, Leo Seigal, of 1630 Methyl street, sustained lacerations and bruises and was treated at Homeopathic Hospital. The accident occurred at Stanton avenue and Chislett street.

While repairing a tire on their machine on the Duquesne-Kennywood boulevard yesterday, Regis Butler, of 17 North Fifth street, Duquesne, owner, and Joseph Conway, also of Duquesne, were injured when struck by another machine. Butler is in McKeesport Hospital, suffering a fractured right hip and internal injuries. Conway sustained bruises and lacerations, but did not need medical attention.

LOSES CONTROL

Frank J. Gabrelzik, of 1118 Ann street, Homestead, driver of the car which struck them, was arrested by Mifflin Township police. He said he lost control of his machine. He was released pending a hearing.

Munhall police today were seeking a hit-run driver who failed to stop after seriously injuring Paul Stopko, of 141 Eugene avenue, Munhall, while he was crossing Duquesne road last night. Stopko was taken to Homestead Hospital, where it was said he sustained a possible fracture of the skull. A passing motorist took him to the hospital, and notified police.

STRUCK NEAR HOME

Mark Ridge, 48, 419 Braddock avenue, Braddock, sustained injuries of the chest and right leg when struck by an automobile near his home. He was removed to Braddock General Hospital, where it was said his condition was not serious.

Late travelers in Turtle Creek were recipients of candy, loose and in fancy Christmas boxes, when an automobile driven, police said, by Eric R. Carlson, of 421 Virginia avenue, Oakmont, crashed through a plate glass window of the Holmes Drug Store, Penn avenue, Turtle Creek, early today. Carlson lost control of his car when it skidded on a slippery street car rail. He escaped injury.

Duquesne Confirms Purchase of Land

Official announcement has been made by the Duquesne University faculty that property has been purchased by the university, the land to be used in an extensive building program. The announcement declares a science hall will be erected before next fall, and other buildings are rumored.

Stowe Schools Plan First Alumni Ball

At a special meeting of the Stowe Township High Alumni arrangements were made for an alumni dance to be held in the high school building Friday night. Thelma Powel, Ruby Rue, Charles Klimke, Marie Murphy, Ralph Colon and Emilio Pecorie were named a committee to look after the necessary details.

Man Dies After Fall in Home

Injured in a fall in his home December 17, Valie Burns, 41, 94 West Industry street, died today in Mercy Hospital.

PASTOR URGES SANER YULE GIVING

Too Much Duplication of Christmas Effort, Says Emory M. E. Minister

More Christmas cheer without duplication by charitable organization was the theme of a Christmas sermon by the Rev. Dr. W. Wofford T. Duncan, in Emory Methodist Episcopal Church yesterday. He said in part:

"I am not pleading for less Christmas cheer, but for more. Each of the 67 homes for children in the county has a Christmas treat for its children. Then comes a great fraternal organization and spends thousands of dollars to give the same children more toys and more candy. Other organizations do likewise. Would it not increase the Christmas cheer if some of those thousands were spent on children who have no Christmas instead of duplicating the cheer which has been already given?

"We are not asking for less generosity at Christmas, but for more. We are not asking that generous giving shall be divorced from happiness, but rather married to it 'till death do them part.' Let Father Pitt become more inteiligent in his Christmas distributions to the poor and he will increase the Christmas cheer in Pittsburgh a thousand fold."

BANK TO OFFER YULE MUSIC

Christmas music will be a feature of the holiday festivities at the Union Trust Company of Pittsburgh at 12:30 p. m. tomorrow. Carols will be sung by the Shadyside Presbyterian Church quartet, composed of William A. Rhodes, Jr., tenor; Helen Bell Rush Davis, soprano; Mabel King, contralto, and Raymond Griffin, basso, with Earl Mitchell as accompanist.

Instrumental music will be given by the Little Symphony Orchestra, Victor Saudek, conductor, and William Davis will lead in the singing of Christmas carols by the audience.

The program:

Orchestra—March, Niebelunger.....Wagner
Carols:
a. Joy of the World.
b. Hark! the Herald Angels Sing.
Orchestra—Overture, Rosamunde.....Schubert
Quartet—The Birthday of a King.
Orchestra—Melodies from the Three Musketeers.....Romberg
Carols:
a. Ie Came Upon a Midnight Clear.
b. O Little Town of Bethlehem.

Carol—Oh Come All Ye Faithful.

Motorman, Caught Between Cars, Hurt

As a result of being crushed between two street cars, George Polanski, 27, of 125 Fifth street, Rankin, a motorman for the Pittsburgh Railways Company, is in a serious condition in Homestead Hospital. Polanski was changing a trolley at Main street and Parkview avenue, Lincoln Place, Homestead, when his car drifted forward, pinning him against another.

Santa Claus will make personal tours between 1:30 and 5 p. m. tomorrow to 73 institutions in Western Pennsylvania where orphans are domiciled. The pilgrimage to the 73 will be under the auspices of Syria Mosque, and the procession will leave for the various points from the Mosque in Oakland.

Santa will go by motor car instead of sleigh and will have a well-filled pack on his back for each home.

Some 7,000 children's hearts will be gladdened by the visits, according to committeemen. All creeds and colors will be included in the institutions visited. Catholic, Protestant, Jewish and Negro institutions on the list. Uriah W. Tinker is chairman of the committee.

113 Cook County Killings in 1929 Unsolved

CHICAGO, Dec. 23.—(AP.) The Herald and Examiner says today that an examination of the Chicago crime commission records reveals 113 unsolved murders on the 1929 books of Cook County—94 of them in Chicago.

Though an "off year" for gang slayings, the organized underworld is held responsible for at least 33 deaths, including the seven in the St. Valentine Day Moran gang massacre, and the supposed retaliation, the "Little massacre" of three reputed Capone men, the paper will state.

MAN OVERCOME BY GAS SAVED

Harry Saul, 50, of 5626 Forbes street, was reported recovering today in Pittsburgh Hospital where he was taken after he was overcome by carbon monoxide fumes yesterday.

He was overcome, police said, when he started his automobile in a garage in the rear of his accessory store at 5908 Penn avenue. Hospital physicians and employes of the Mine Safety Appliance Company revived him.

SEEK GUNMAN IN KILLING

A search for the assailant of Jennings Behling, 19, of 342 Fanny street, McDonald, who died early today in Mercy Hospital from a bullet wound in the abdomen, was instituted by Washington County authorities.

Behling, caretaker in the City Garage, Washington street, McDonald, was shot early yesterday by a stranger who entered the garage, it was reported. The victim was unable to shed any light on the shooting, other than that the man had intended to rob the place, became frightened and fired.

Detectives also were working on the theory that Behling was a victim of jealousy, they said.

BUDGET MEET CALLED OFF

Only three of the five members necessary to a quorum for a meeting of the Councilmanic Finance Committee appeared today and a budget session was postponed. Chairman Robert Garland, Harry A. Little and John S. Herron were the only ones to appear. No other budget session will be held until January, it was reported.

This afternoon the tax-levy ordinance, carrying 26 mills on land, 13 mills on buildings, up a mill and a half mill, respectively, together with the two cent boost in water rates, will be presented to Council.

Judges Drew, Evans Administered Oaths

Judge James R. Macfarlane in Common Pleas Court today administered the oath of office to Judges John A. Evans and James B. Drew, who were re-elected. Previously, Judge Evans had given the oath to James N. Moore, Republican jury commissioner, who was re-elected, and to Thomas A. Dougherty, successful Democratic candidate, who will succeed Thomas Hester as jury commissioner.

MISSION NEEDS MORE TOYS

While several thousand gifts from the Toy Mission, 414 Penn avenue, were distributed today through the public and parochial schools of the city, a call was sent out for still more toys, books and dolls.

"Santa Claus is right up against it in supplying so many boys and girls in poor families," said George L. Bond, superintendent of the Toy Mission. "The demand has been greater than ever before in the 36 years that the mission's work has been carried on and if no child is to be disappointed we must have more new and second-hand toys and books for boys and girls from the age of 11 years upward."

Liberal responses have been made to the Toy Mission's appeals. All day yesterday delivery trucks from the circulation department of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph made calls through the suburbs and gathered in toys which had been left at the various depots set up for the collection of the gifts. Today this work is being carried on and a force of willing volunteers is engaged in repairing the toys, making assortments and wrapping up individual gift packages.

Mrs. Sarah Archer, of 412 Penn avenue, who this year is preparing to celebrate her ninetieth Christmas, is one of the most enthusiastic workers at the mission and dressed some of the largest and most attractive dolls.

For several months the dressing of dolls has been carried on by Mrs. John E. Potter, Mrs. A. C Houston, Mrs. Laura McMasters and Mrs. S. M. Bauersmith. Substantial gifts of cash have been received from friends of the mission who have no children of their own and consequently have no accumulation of toys and books.

Resurrection School Plans Card Party

Librarians at the Resurrection School, Brookline, have invited the public to attend a card party to be held in the assembly room Monday night, December 30. Euchre, bridge and old maid will be played.

SNOWSTORM INCREASES SUFFERINGS

Fireman Hurt in Shower of Broken Glass; One Blaze Blamed on Electric Iron

While a blinding snowstorm raged, two fires early today drove more than a score of persons, mostly women and children, into downtown streets, and did damage estimated by Battalion Chief William F. Greaves at more than $4,500.

Fire starting in the rear of the first floor of the Penn Clothing Company, 111 Smithfield street, resulted in damage of $500, and filled the upper floors of several buildings with smoke, driving 27 occupants from their apartments.

Damage of $4,000 resulted from fire which broke out on the third floor of the J. J. Sapper wholesale clothing establishment, 707 Penn avenue, two hours later.

ELECTRIC IRON BLAMED

Damage to the clothing firm amounted to $2,000, firemen said.

The Keystone Cloak and Suit Company, at 707 Penn avenue, suffered $2,000 damage from smoke, according to an estimate made by Oscar Jubelirer, owner.

Sapper told firemen that the third floor of his establishment was used as a tailor shop, and that he believed the fire started from an electric iron which one of the workmen forgot to disconnect.

Frank Seibert, driver of the water tower at No. 3 Engine house, suffered cuts on the right hand when glass from a broken window showered over him.

In the Smithfield street fire smoke did slight damage to the Union Artificial Limb Company on the second floor, of 111, and spread to the upper floors of 109 and 107 Smithfield street.

MANY CHILDREN FLEE

Those driven from 109 Smithfield street were Mrs. Thersa Jenney and her son, Albert, 14; her sister, Mrs. Elizabeth Sano, and her two children, Elizabeth, 12, and Rose, 9; and four men roomers, occupying the second and third floors.

Persons who fled from 107 Smithfield street were Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Underwood and their five children, Rosemary, 8; Nancy, 6; Helen, 5; William, 2, and Louise, eight months; and Underwood's brother, Howard, his wife and four children, Bertha, 10; Clara, 6; Clyde, 2, and Lois, six months; Mr. and Mrs. H. T. Underwoods living on the second floor; Mrs. Ethel Vandergrist, and her two children, Jack, 7, and Howard, 5. The family of Howard Underwood, who live at 102 Theona street, Carrick, was visiting at the Smithfield street address.

Pastor Celebrates At Allison Park

The twenty-fifth anniversary of the ordination of the Rev. H. J. Killmeyer, pastor of St. Ursula Catholic Church, Allison Park, was observed last night, in connection with the annual Christmas service. There was a program of songs and addresses and a treat for the children.

Twins Make Debut, Puzzle College Boys

NEW YORK, Dec. 23.—(AP.)—Boys here to attend various social affairs during the holidays are especially interested in a sort of guessing contest over the debut of the Misses Elinor and Evelyn Wurzburg, twins, who are hard to tell apart.

The Camera Question Box

The Sun-Telegraph's "Camera Question Box" each day will ask a question of public interest to Pittsburghers and will photograph those interviewed.

Today's Question: "What is your personal solution for the mashing problem? Most women consider mashers as a menace. Do you?

RUTH SCHWERIN, secretary, Squirrel Hill: "Although the masher is a pain in the neck to every girl because of his obnoxious actions, I believe the best policy in getting rid of him is absolute indifference. A withering glance is worth more than anything else. When he is repulsed his ego takes a big drop."

Ruth Schwerin

DOROTHY CLAIR, downtown: "In my opinion absolute indifference is the best policy. Let him go so far and if a withering glance doesn't stop his activities, just revert to the primitive and let him have a full wallop on the face. This and the embarrassment of being struck by a woman ought to end his Don Juan activities. These fellows constitute a menace to society."

Dorothy Clair

EDITHE ROGERS, violinist, Penn avenue: "Man's innate conceit and his self-alleged power of domination over woman, makes him want to assert his ego in seeing how many conquests he can make. I know what I'd do, and I have done it before. I'd just stand his smartness so long then I'd hit him right between the eyes. And if that didn't suffice, I'd call a cop so his ardor could be cooled off in a cell for a few days."

Edithe Rogers

FLORENCE VESTOFF, vocalist, Roosevelt Hotel: "In nine cases out of ten a girl would never be bothered with a masher's attentions unless she gave him encouragement. Of course, she gives him a smile and all that sort of thing, then he's going to try do his stuff. But if the worst comes to pass, the best thing is to slap him and slap him hard. If this doesn't fix him, the presence of a burly police officer should."

Florence Vestoff

COLLETTE PRICE, downtown: "It is the idea of an undeveloped brain that results in the practice of mashing. A man who attempts such tactics with a girl is usually of the drugstore cowboy type, with slick hair, a suit he bought for $12.50 by walking up a flight and an idiotic line. You never see a refined man attempting such a procedure. Class shows. The best plan is to ignore the masher."

Collette Price

DOROTHY SHELLY, showgirl, Penn avenue: "When mashers have tried to 'make' me, I have always ignored them. But if one tried to keep it up I'd be tempted to hit him and hit him darn hard. Most men of this type have perverted minds or they wouldn't even think of trying to get a girl's attention in this manner. If their heads were analyzed there'd be nothing found but a vacuum.

Firemen to Play Santa To Bellevue Children

A Christmas party for children of Bellevue will be held January 2 by the Bellevue Volunteer Fire Company in place of the usual banquet to celebrate its thirty-fifth anniversary.

Kris Kringle will distribute presents which will be hung on a huge Christmas tree in the borough building. The Bellevue High School Orchestra will provide the music. Recitations and songs by the youngsters will be given under the direction of James Greenough, Sr., fire chief, and J. O. Bower, master of ceremonies.

Gust J. Schaffner is general chairman of the celebration. His committees include the following:

Santa Claus—Frank J. Hunkele, chairman; W. B. Mathews, Michael Cray, C. P. Maeder, William B. Daugherty, H. J. Maeder, J. H. Besser; lighting—S. J. James, chairman; Robert Barclay, Wallace Wills, L. J. Hassenplug; music—S. C. Ross, chairman; Lloyd Groetzinger, F. P. Roeger, O. B. Rowland, Dan E. Rosemeier, H. J. Gercken; eucher and five hundred — James G. Martin, chairman; James Greenough, Jr., Frank J. Bader, Eric Lowrie, Fred E. Dauber, Harry Dauber; lunch and refreshments—K. J. Piekarski, chairman; Frank P. Schatz, John P. Cray, Harry Constandy, Harry J. Siegal, Thomas Smith; old fashioned dances—W. L. McCormick, chairman; Lute Wilson, Frank J. Tuefel, Park H. Martin; invitations—E. T. Greiner, chairman; Charles E. Hall, J. E. Wills.

Dr. Granville H. Walker, a member of the company will render first aid to the kiddies who over-eat, and will be assisted by S. D. Lindsay.

A. E. Dauber, John Rippl and E. C. Richter will take general charge of floor arrangements.

Eddie Cantor Rises to Say:

BOSTON, Dec. 23.

FOR years I've wondered what became of the old-fashioned game of "shinney." Last night I discovered it. Now they play it on ice skates and it is called hockey. What a game!

Here are the qualifications of a good hockey player—He must be strong—fast—a good skater and have a dentist in his family.

The game is played with six men on each side, a doctor, three nurses and an ambulance. If a player breaks less than three ribs on one period—his associates won't talk to him because he's too effeminate.

In hockey they fine a player $25 for what the ordinary citizen would get life imprisonment or the death penalty.

WILKINS PLANE LOST IN FIRE

FAIRBANKS, Alaska, Dec. 23.—(AP.)—Fire which started from a short circuit in a light socket destroyed one unit of the Alaskan Airways hangars here, consuming the Stinson Detroiter plane formerly used by Sir Hubert Wilkins in his Arctic explorations, and a large amount of equipment. The loss was estimated at $40,000.

Assembling of the Eielson relief planes now en route here from Seattle, will not be impeded by the fire, it was said, as the company has ample shop facilities in addition to the hangar destroyed.

By T. M. (PAT) REID,
Flight Commander of the Eielson Expedition

ABOARD THE COAST GUARD CUTTER CHELAN, Dec. 23.—We are now 18 hours out of Seattle and, as Commander R. W. Dempwolf, the Chelan's skipper, predicted at the dock, we are riding a fairly rough sea.

All equipment on the deck, which includes the three Fairchild planes, two of them boxed and the third on the after-deck covered with tarpaulin, is riding well. Al Baker, mechanician, gave the motor of the after-deck plane a final test yesterday afternoon and found it satisfactory. Our party wishes me to convey appreciation for the many courtesies received during our short stay in Seattle and acknowledge with thanks parcels received from friends of the missing men.

Commander Dempwolf expects to land us at Seward, Christmas Eve, or Christmas Day. We shall observe Christmas by doing all we can to expedite the work of getting our planes and relief party to Fairbanks.

THREE IN AUTO ROB OIL FIRM COLLECTOR

Hitch Hikers, Given Lift, Beat Motorist and Take Cash And Car; Stores Looted

Police today were combing the city for bandits who robbed a collector of an oil company and a North Side drug store yesterday, and two business establishments in McKeesport and a taxicab driver Saturday night.

Three armed Negroes robbed A. J. Carle, of 3601 Beethoven street, a collector for the American Oil Company, of $1,000 after forcing his automobile against a curb at Hazelwood avenue and Winterburn street, at 10 a. m. yesterday.

Carle was driving in Hazelwood avenue when the bandit car crowded him to the curb. The loot comprised collections from gasoline stations, police said.

CLERK BOUND, GAGGED

Milton Sapir, of 9 Trent street, a clerk in the North Side Drug Company, 426 East Ohio street, was bound and gagged by two armed men, who entered the store yesterday morning and rifled the cash register of $15.

Sapir told police the robbers walked into the store, asked for a box of snuff and then drew revolvers. They forced him into a rear room, where they tied him with rope, Sapir said.

In McKeesport bandits visited the jewelry store of R. M. Rudolph, at 729½ Fifth avenue, and the grocery store of David Lindberg, at 1107 Walnut street, late Saturday night. They obtained $75 in cash and three wrist watches from Rudolph's store, and $450 from Lindberg's place, according to police.

Two men who engaged a taxicab driven by Isadore Bersky, of 1226 Colwell street, near the Pennsylvania Station Saturday night, confronted him with revolvers when they reached their destination at North Mathilda street and Schenley avenue, and robbed him of $15.

CORN SUGAR STOLEN

Thirty-five sacks of corn sugar, each weighing 100 pounds, were stolen from the grocery of B. Goldberg, at 1703 Penn avenue, by thieves who forced a rear window.

Forcing a cellar window of a chain grocery store, at 5741 Ellsworth avenue, robbers escaped with $86.50 in cash and groceries valued at $75.

Police were asked to be on the lookout for two hitch hikers who Saturday night beat and robbed T. F. Calhoun, of Hollywood, Cal., a former Pittsburgher, after he had picked them up near Ravenna, O.

Calhoun, en route to Pittsburgh to visit friends, picked up the men after they asked for a "lift," police reported. They had been in the car only a few minutes when they attacked Calhoun and robbed him of several thousand dollars in cash and jewelry and escaped in his automobile. They were believed to have headed for Pittsburgh.

'Toasting' in Drink Old Roman Custom

The custom of drinking to health and success to undertakings at banquets dates back to the time of the Romans. The word "toast" appears to have originated from the practice of putting bits of toast in the wine, the guest partaking of such a sippet with the draught of wine as soon as the felicitation had passed the lips.

American Bald Eagle Is Nearing Extinction

The American bald eagle is said to be in danger of extinction. There has been an estimated total destruction of at least 70,000 American bald eagles in Alaska since the Alaskan eagle bounty law went into effect in 1917. Bounties have been paid on 41,812 eagles.

THINKING IT OVER :-: By Hal Coffman

HELLO JIM- I HEARD YOU WERE SICK
HIS WIFE
"SORRY - JIM- BUT I CAN'T BE BOTHERED"
WHO "STICKS" IN AN EMERGENCY?
THE OTHER WOMAN
HAL COFFMAN

If you are a husband thinking about divorce, as many husbands, are, study this picture.

Mr. Coffman asks "Who Sticks in an Emergency?" and kindly supplies the answer, "Your Wife, Not the Other Woman."

Nine times out of ten that is true, and the tenth time it doesn't matter.

The other woman is apt to be a fair weather friend—a pleasant playmate when skies are clear and your bankroll is fat.

But when sickness overclouds your brow, as the poet Byron puts it, she is anything but a ministering angel. She can't be bothered then with you and your troubles.

It is then, usually, that the wife whom you have neglected or abandoned answers your S O S. And the more you have been to blame, the quicker she is to forgive you.

Logically, she ought to stay away—leave you to the other woman. But good women—your wife, for instance—are seldom logical.

SCHOOLS AIDED BY ROSENWALD

CHICAGO, Dec. 23.—(AP.)—The Julius Rosenwald fund spent $4,000,000 during 1929 "for the well being of mankind," it was revealed in the fund's annual statement issued here.

According to Edwin R. Embree, president of the fund of $30,000,000, which the Chicago philanthropist set aside for "mankind," one-tenth of the year's expenditures was used to build 553 Negro rural schools. The fund has added 4,729 Negro schools to 818 counties in 14 Southern states.

Other expenditures for 1929 included $250,000 to University of Chicago clinics, $150,000 to the Massachusetts General Hospital, $250,000 to Howard University, $200,000 to Fisk University, $100,000 each to Morehouse and Spellman colleges in Atlanta; $50,000 to defray fellowship for advanced study by Negro teachers, physicians and nurses; and $40,000 to the national committee studying the cost of medical care.

The founder of the Rosenwald fund intended that $30,000,000 and all interest be expended 25 years after his death.

WATER FORMS STALACTITES

Stalactites are pendent masses formed where water containing mineral solutions drop very slowly. On exposure to air part of the water evaporates and a deposit of carbonate of lime ensues, and as the drop continues to fall from the same spot a small column of the material forms downward from the cave. Conditions essential to the formation of stalactites are a very slow trickle of water, regular evaporation and the absence of disturbances, such as currents of air. Where the water drops upon the floor of the cave, evaporation still goes on and the drop falling from the roof will always land on the same place, so that the pillar of deposit rises vertically. This is known as stalagmite. In course of time the two may meet and in this way a column is deposited.

Weather Conditions.

A disturbance is centered off the Carolina coast this morning, having moved northeastward from the Gulf of Mexico during yesterday and last night. A secondary center developed during last night, and is now centered over Northern Ohio. This development produced moderately heavy snow over a belt about 300 miles wide and extending from Central Georgia to the lakes. It is snowing this morning nearly everywhere east of the Mississippi and north of the Ohio River, but the fall east of the mountains and from Ohio westward was light. A low pressure area, centered over Alberta is causing mild weather over the Northwest. It is still cold over the plains and freezing temperatures are reported as far south as the gulf.

River Conditions.

The rivers are falling. Stage at Franklin is 5.2 feet; Lock No. 7, 12.6; Pittsburgh, 14.0; Dam No. 4, 11.1; Dam No. 6, 12.3; Dam No. 9, 13.4, and Dam No. 12, 12.1. The dams are down. From three to four inches of snow covers the Allegheny and lower Monongahela basins, and from five to seven inches the upper Monongahela basin. Light ice is running in the Allegheny.

Rockefeller Gives Baptists $100,000

NEW YORK, Dec. 23.—(AP.)—Receipt of a gift of $100,000 from John D. Rockefeller, Sr., to be applied to endowment funds, was announced today by the Rev. Dr. F. C. Wright, executive secretary of the Northern Baptist Ministers' and Missionaries' Board.

The gift brought Mr. Rockefeller's total contributions to the fund to $5,500,000.

Start Fund for Teacher, Poorhouse Inmate at 81

WASHINGTON, Pa., Dec. 23.—A movement has been launched to raise funds to provide for the maintenance of Miss Rachel Wilson, 81, a school teacher of many years ago who is now an inmate of the County Home.

She has been in the institution for 22 years but her plight was discovered only recently by Miss Lucy W. Glass, of the State Teachers' Retirement Board of Harrisburg. Miss Wilson cannot receive assistance under the retirement act, but teachers have started a fund which is to bring her release and provide maintenance during her remaining years.

Miss Wilson at one time was in charge of the model school at California Teachers College and taught for a number of years in the Monongahela Valley and Fayette County.

WOMAN DYING, MAN HELD

STEUBENVILLE, O., Dec. 23.—The mystery surrounding the shooting of Mrs. Edith Morocco, 27, and the attempted suicide of Roy M. Galbraith, 47, produce dealer, at the latter's store in Mingo Junction, O., last night, remains unsolved as the woman neared death at the Ohio Valley Hospital and the man occupied a cell at the county jail, refusing to disclose a motive.

Doctors said there was no hope for Mrs. Morocco, who was shot in the abdomen. Her condition has precluded further questioning and officials have only her original statement that Galbraith shot her after she had asked him for her weekly pay of $25.

At the hospital it was found that while the woman was mortally wounded, Galbraith had suffered only a flesh wound. He was removed to jail after being charged with the shooting by Prosecutor Jesse George.

Mrs. Morocco, who has been working for Galbraith in his store at Mingo, is the wife of Antonio Morocco, tin worker of Steubenville. She has two small children.

Galbraith was divorced by his wife last week.

FIND MAN DYING WITH POISON NEARBY

Superintendent of Postoffice Sub-Station, Picked Up on Monument Hill, Succumbs

With a box of poison tablets lying nearby, John A. Fogarty, 56, of 843 Beech avenue, was found dying on Monument Hill yesterday. Fogarty, superintendent of Union Trust Building sub-station of the postoffice, had been extremely nervous for several weeks, relatives say. According to the report at the county morgue, the man probably committed suicide.

Fogarty had attended church yesterday with his wife and after the services decided to take a walk. Police found him dying a short time later. He was dead when admitted to the Allegheny General Hospital.

Police traced the poison by the name of the druggist on the box and learned that a man answering Fogarty's description had purchased it Saturday, saying that he desired it to kill a dog.

Judge Puts Ban On Christmas Eve Divorces

CHICAGO, Dec. 23.—(AP.)—No divorces in Chicago tomorrow; it's Christmas Eve, an occasion which Judge Joseph Sabath does not believe coincides with the spirit of domestic discord.

Judge Sabath, who has granted many thousands of divorces, said his entire court session tomorrow would be devoted to an effort to effect reconciliations. Whether the warring factors want to or not, Judge Sabath said, he will make them "think about it over Christmas."

MOJICA, TENOR, TO SING HERE

Jose Mojica, tenor of the Chicago Civic Opera Company, has been selected by the Tuesday Musical Club to present a program in Carnegie Music Hall on January 3.

The young opera star, recently signed to appear in films, has been heard in opera and concerts. Mojica, a descendant of the Mexican liberator, Gen. Manuel Villagran, was born 31 years ago on a ranch in the state of Jalisco, Mexico. While studying agriculture, the college was closed during a revolution and Mojica took up music pending its reopening. His hearers were impressed with the possibilities of Mojica's voice and the singer went to New York to complete his studies.

The tenor has sung with such stars as Galli Curci, Frieda Hempel and Mary Garden. Among the opera companies with which he has appeared, besides the Chicago company, were the San Francisco Opera Company, Ravinia Opera Company, Washington Civic Opera Company. He is unmarried and started his career in this country in 1919.

Flood-Land Rice Most Profitable

The Department of Agriculture says that upland rice is not raised commercially, since it produces only about half as much per acre as does the lowland or flood-land rice. Families through South Carolina and Albania sometimes raise enough for their own use, but it is not profitable for market cultivation.

MOTHER, SON DUPLICATE BEQUEST

Department Store Head Says Organization Has Justified Confidence Placed in It

A gift of $150,000 to the Young Men and Women's Hebrew Association, Bellefield avenue, has been announced by Edgar J. Kaufmann, and his mother, Mrs. Betty W. Kaufmann. A few years ago the two gave a similar amount to the erection of the Morris Kaufmann Memorial auditorium at the association building.

One hundred thousand dollars of today's gift will be applied toward reducing the mortgage indebtedness and $50,000 to liquidate the entire operating deficit of the association accumulated since the building opened in May, 1926.

CONFIRM FAITH

In a letter to William B. Klee, president of the Central Y. M. and W. H. A., the Kaufmanns reiterate the principle which prompted them to make the original gift. They state that this second gift confirms their faith in the institution. Mr. Kaufmann stated that the association has more than justified confidence he had placed in it. His letter deals with each of the advantages offered by the association and compliments each department.

ASSOCIATION LEADER

Mr. Kaufmann, head of the Kaufmann department store, has been one of the leaders and backers of the association. He was active in helping the association obtain the central building. It was during the drive for the building that Mr. Kaufmann and his mother announced their gift of $100,000 for the auditorium. In addition to the two large gifts, Mr. Kaufmann and his mother had made many other donations to the association.

Edgar J. Kaufmann serves as treasurer and chairman of the budget committee. He also is identified with many other charitable organizations here.

BANDITS SHOOT POLICEMAN

NEW YORK, Dec. 23.—(INS.)—Police and detectives were searching the city today for six bandits who entered an alleged speakeasy in the theatrical district and shot and probably mortally wounded Patrolman Andrew Bornkessel. Bornkessel is in a critical condition in Bellevue Hospital.

The police were also hot on the trail of a group of Negroes who waylaid Patrolman John Cusick near the West Forty-seventh street station house and robbed him of his pistol about the same time the holdup of the alleged speakeasy was taking place.

Bornkessel entered the place while the holdup was being staged. When he saw what was happening he whipped out his gun, but three bullets felled him before he had a chance to fire. The bandits kicked the patrolman's weapon from his hand, then stepped over his body to escape after taking $60 from a cash register.

Commissioner Whalen has suspended Bornkessel pending an investigation of his presence in the alleged speakeasy.

Girl, 12, Starts Study to Get Flying License

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 23.—(AP.)—Twelve-year-old Pretto Bell, Los Angeles school girl, is learning to fly. She gave up her dolls three years ago to play with airplanes. Constantly importuning her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Dan Bell, of Beverly Hills, to permit her to take flying lessons, attempts to dissuade her were useless. Even a tour of Europe was turned down in favor of the air.

So, now she is perhaps the youngest aviation student in the country. Too young to take up actual flying instruction, under Department of Commerce regulations, she is enrolled in the ground school of the Curtiss-Wright flying service, and after two years, when she becomes 14, will by special dispensation begin flight training. A pilot's license cannot be obtained, however, until the age of 16 is reached.

GOTHAM PLANS YULE PROGRAM

NEW YORK, Dec. 23.—(AP.)—New York, the "city without a heart," will send its Christmas greetings throughout America and to all the world tomorrow night at a big songfest in Madison Square Park.

The international Christmas Carol sing, arranged under the general direction of the Advertising Club of New York, with a chorus of nearly 1,500 trained voices, will get under way at 7:30 p. m. Christmas eve. A radio broadcast of the program will go out over the National Broadcasting Company network and will be relayed on the short wave transmitter of WGY, making the program available to all of America, Europe and Australia.

The Carol Choir, composed of members of choirs from churches of every sect and denomination in New York City, will be augmented by vocal groups from 400 civic societies, fire and police department bands, the Police Glee Club, and other musical groups. The sing will be led by Albert Stoessel, conductor of the New York Oratorio Society.

Maria Kurenko, Russian coloratura soprano, will be heard in person during the program of the sing.

Mayor Walker will open the sing. In addition to the Mayor, individual sponsors of the International Christmas Carol sing include Bruce Barton, the Rev. S. Parkes Cadman, Barron G. Collier, the Rev. Frances P. Duffy, Will H. Hays, G. F. McClelland, Bishop Francis J. McConnell, the Rev. Christian P. Reisner, Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt, Dr. Minot Simmons, Police Commissioner Grover A. Whalen, Alfred E. Smith and Robert F. Wagner.

STOWE TO WAR ON PARKING

Parking of automobiles at night on street of Stowe Township, often without light, will be a thing of the past if the crusade launched by the police and fire departments is carried out.

The menace of streets strewn with autos was pointed out by Chief David Simon, of the fire department, who told of several recent collisions caused by motorists failing to see parked cars.

Chief of Police Thomas Saunders declares the campaign will be carried on until the streets and especially the alleys are cleared of cars.

AUXILIARY WILL AID FAMILIES

Families of ex-soldiers will be given greater Christmas assistance than ever before by members of the American Legion Auxiliary. Under the direction of Mrs. Joseph Undercoffer and Mrs. Kelly Sullivan, of Wilmerding, and Mrs. S. J. Topley, of East McKeesport, provision has been made to care for approximately 19 children and six mothers, all members of families in destitute circumstances.

The greater number of families being helped are those of ex-service men who are now in veterans' hospitals and are unable to contribute to the support of their wives and children.

LINK PRISONERS IN PAROLE PLOT

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Dec. 23.—(INS.)—Various angles of a prison parole fraud plot, in which the name of a Congressman was fraudulently used, were being investigated by authorities here today.

With the expose of the plot, police declare, they have broken up the Los Angeles headquarters of a statewide ring of ex-convicts who have openly dealt in prison paroles, smuggling of narcotics to prisoners and stolen radios.

Using the forged name of Congressman Albert E. Carter, representative in Congress from the Sixth District of California, the gang is said to have boldly carried on correspondence and negotiations with members of the state prison board.

Yale to Collect Skulls of Dog Champs

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Dec. 23. (AP.)—Yale University announced plans for the collection of skulls, skeletons and mounted specimens of the finest each of 73 breeds of dogs for exhibition in the Peabody Museum.

About two years ago Leon F. Whitney, a student of genetics, who has long been gathering data concerning the inheritance of dogs, suggested to the curators of the museum that if they would provide exhibition space, he would aid to obtain skulls of champions of the various breeds of dogs. The curators decided to begin at once to assemble the collection. About 50 different dogs have been promised. Proof of championship and a photograph will be furnished with each dog.

The museum already has received skulls of the black-and-tan, Newfoundland and Irish wolfhound; entire skeletons of cockerspaniel, French bulldog and of a pedigreed bloodhound, which was not, however, a champion, and the skins of the last three.

The latest addition to the museum's collection was Togo, leader of Seppala's team, which carried diphtheria serum to stricken Nome in 1925.

ANZAC FLIER'S WIFE DIES

LONDON, Dec. 23.—(AP.)—Ill fortune is dogging the footsteps of Francis Chichester, the wealthy young New Zealander who Saturday set out in an airplane to break flight records to Australia.

Saturday he made a forced landing in the tiny Moth plane in the marshes near Tripoli, Northern Africa. His machine was damaged slightly, but he was unhurt.

Today, however, even worse news awaited him. A cablegram from New Zealand said his wife died suddenly Saturday. Efforts are being made to inform the airman of his bereavement.

ROYAL OFFICER WEDS ACTRESS

LONDON, Dec. 23.—(INS.)—A romance between an aristocratic officer in the Brigade of Guards and a little blonde hoofer from the Great White Way reached its climax today when Sunny Jarmarn, of Broadway, was married to Lieut. Francis Francis, of the Royal Horse Guards.

The wedding took place in fashionable Christ Church, Down street, Mayfair.

That the bridegroom's high-born and socially prominent family thoroughly approved of the romantic match was evidenced by their presence at the ceremony.

Due to an ancient tradition, the marriage necessitates Francis' retirement from the army, as British custom dictates no member of the King's Royal bodyguard shall be wedded to an actress.

Fifth Ave. Robbery Suspect Arrested

Police of Center Avenue Station today held a man who said he was Edward Shandors, 24, of 1410 Fifth avenue, arrested by Patrolman John Jones, after, according to the policeman, he and two other men broke a showcase and window in the clothing store of Sam Wolk, at 825 Fifth avenue. Several overcoats were reported stolen. According to police, Shandors and his companions broke a window in the butcher shop of Samuel Weiss and Tanner, at 24 Diamond street, where they procured long lengths of bologna, which they used later to break the windows in the clothing store.

IMPLICATE MAN IN WIRE THEFT

WAYNESBURG, Pa., Dec. 23.—Burton E. Conn, Gray's Landing, was returned today to the Greene County jail from the workhouse to await a hearing on a charge of larceny. Conn was released after serving a six-month sentence for carrying concealed weapons.

According to police, Conn was implicated in thefts of copper wire and other material from coal mines in the Monongahela valley. The thefts of the ring in which he is said to have been implicated amounted to $100,000 during a few months, police say. Conn formerly worked as a riverman along the Monongahela.

State Police Wire System Links City, 94 Others

A message from Gov. John S. Fisher, broadcast to 95 cities and towns throughout the state at noon today, officially opened the state police automatic typewriter system, "dedicated to law and order and the suppression of crime."

In the Pittsburgh zone headquarters, in the squad room of the County Detective Bureau, members of the judiciary, legislature and police bureaus were gathered for the inauguration of the system. District Attorney Samuel H. Gardner presided.

Several other messages from state officials, including Gen. Edward Martin, chairman of the Republican state committee, and Chief Justice Robert von Moschzisker, followed the governor's, to which District Attorney Gardner replied as follows:

"Heartiest congratulations on inauguration of telephone typewriter system. This system coordinates all police departments of the state and is the greatest step forward in statewide law enforcement since the organization of the state police.

"Judge Ambrose B. Reid, County Commissioner E. V. Babcock, Director of Public Safety James M. Clark, Supt. of Police Peter P. Walsh, Sheriff Robert H. Braun and Inspector of Detectives Frank Boyd, together with 500 members of the judiciary, legislature and police bureaus assembled here, join me in this message."

The system is divided into four zones. Three machines have been set up here, two for sending and receiving and one for receiving only. Joseph M. Sloss has been assigned as operator.

Each zone headquarters can transmit simultaneously messages to receiving stations within its division and also to the central bureau at Harrisburg. Likewise, the central bureau can send messages within its own territory, to other zone headquarters, and, when necessary to all receiving points in the state.

Gertrude Gordon Honor Guest at Press Club Christmas Party

MISS GERTRUDE GORDON, of New York, for 19 years one of the most prominent newspaperwomen of Pittsburgh, came home for the holidays and was honor guest Saturday at the Christmas dinner of the Women's Press Club. The dinner was given in the Women's City Club with elaborate decorations of red tapers in crystal candelabra, tiny fir trees and electrically lighted poinsettia blooms in a bed of asparagus fern.

Miss Gordon spoke informally and Santa, through a unique messenger impersonated by Mrs. John A. Shoemaker, brought a gift for each of the members. The women donated toys to the Toy Mission. Mrs. Shoemaker and Miss Frances Walker had written poems for the occasion which the former read.

Miss Suzanne Beatty, a member of the club and president of the League of American Pen Women, announced a dinner which the two organizations will give January 14 in honor of Mrs. Mayo D. Hersey (Frances Lester Warner, the author), who will be in Pittsburgh for a few days.

THE annual budget appeal of the Young Women's Christian Association of Pittsburgh will be made during the 10-day period, beginning January 16. Miss Ida M. Allerton heads the general committee for the campaign, in which $140,000 is sought.

Aiding Miss Allerton in completing preparations for the city-wide appeal are Mrs. John R. McCune, vice chairman and chairman of the initial gifts committee; Mrs. Robert D. Campbell, chairman of teams; Mrs. Albert P. Burchfield, chairman of publicity; Mrs. Charles Longenecker, chairman of church co-operation; Miss Martha Jamison, chairman of speakers; Mrs. W. Hunter Snead, chairman of business and professional women's teams; Miss Annie D. Campbell, chairman of lists; Mrs. William H. Duff II, chairman of hospitality, and Miss Esther M. Hawes, metropolitan executive secretary.

Headquarters for the campaign have been opened at 2006 Union Bank Building. From information obtained from the annual report now being compiled at executive headquarters, the six branches of the association have had a successful year. New quarters have been purchased for the International Institute at 405 South Dithridge street, which are now being remodeled and will be ready for occupancy about February 1. Responding to the need of a camp for summer vacations and week-end outings a camp site has been purchased by the association on Conoquenessing Creek, near Zelienople. The camp consists of 106 acres, of which 70 acres are woodland.

THE Aspinwall Woman's Club has several unusually interesting events on its calendar for the next few weeks. The Christmas dance for the senior high school and the club children of the same age will be given Thursday evening in the beautifully decorated clubhouse, the evening hospitality committee sponsoring the event. A guest night for husbands will be addressed by Cy Hungerford January 9. On January 18 the school committee will sponsor a benefit bridge luncheon for the clubhouse fund and on January 25 there is to be a tea by the evening department. The regular meeting of the month will be held in the evening instead of the afternoon of January 16 and will be made a guest night, at which Mrs. William Anderson will speak. She will give a lecture on antiques, illustrating it with slides.

THE juniors of the club presented an entertaining program for the Sarah Sloan Scholarship Club at its Christmas luncheon in the Congress of Clubs on Saturday. Mrs. Walter W. Al[illegible], junior chairman, presented the program, introducing first five girls, Martha Johnston, Mary Woodworth, Danica Ivanovitch, Ethel Lehman and Anna Mae Beatty, all members of the Glee Club of the Pennsylvania College for Women, who sang Christmas carols. Miss Elizabeth Snyder gave two piano solos, beautifully done, and two of her pupils in the city schools added to the entertainment, little Ruth Barringer contributing creditable violin solos and Leo Claysmith singing in a voice of unusual sweetness and perfect pitch. Readings by Miss Hazel Kletty, a lovely Christmas story by Mrs. J. Charles Wilson and vocal solos by Allan Nern completed the program.

Mrs. Joseph B. Drake told of the doll outfits which had been made for the Toy Mission by some of the members and Mrs. John S. Sloan, president of the club, was presented with a pair of handsome bed spreads.

Announcement was made of a benefit play which the juniors will sponsor and which the Tech Drama School will give in the Henry Clay Frick Training School the night of January 14.

THE Christmas program of the Wilkinsburg Woman's Club was given Saturday in Wilkinsburg Masonic Hall before an appreciative audience of club members, their children and grandchildren. There was assembly caroling with the club choral director, Mrs. J. L. Hickernell, directing; a trumpet solo was given by Hawley Brooks Ely, violin numbers by David Farkas, accompanied by Ross Hall, while Percival Wilde's play, "Reverie," chosen for its fitness to the season, was the high light. The play was well cast and effectively presented under the direction of Mrs. W. C. Hawley and Mrs. Nelle Moore Sprowls, members of the club and a group of children comprising the cast. Members of the social committee under Mrs. R. C. Beerbower distributed favors to all the little guests, among whom were children from Faith Home.

A CHILDREN'S party will be held by the South Hills Woman's Club tonight in the Bane School auditorium. Mrs. Josephine Preissler is in charge of the program and decorations. Two Christmas playlets will be presented by the children. The women will bring gifts for the Toy Mission. The last in the club's series of card parties will be held Monday evening, January 6, in Mrs. Frank Deininger's home, Ormsby avenue. On Friday evening, January 10, the members will visit the Bell Telephone Company and on the 13th will have the regular club meeting.

Phonograph Plays Favorite Hymns At Funeral

CONNELLSVILLE, PA., Dec. 23.—Mrs. Louise Belle Linderman had always expressed a desire to have her favorite hymns sung at her funeral. She died suddenly of a stroke and it was impossible to get a choir together to go to her home on a farm near Ohiopyle, east of here. Her children wished to have her desires fulfilled and a phonograph was used, the hymns being played during a service conducted by the Rev. Eugene N. Duty, pastor of the Christian Church here.

Mrs. Linderman, 64, had a stroke after she walked from her home to Ohiopyle, three miles away, and back again. She leaves 13 children.

ACADEMY ART CONTEST OPEN

NEW YORK, Dec. 23.—(AP.)—The American Academy in Rome announced its annual competitions were open for fellowships in architecture, landscape architecture, musical composition, painting, sculpture and classical studies.

Entries for competitions in the fine arts close March 1, in classical studies February 1.

The terms of the fellowships in the fine arts, open only to men, is three years, and in classical studies, open to both men and women, two years. The fellowships are each worth about $2,500 a year.

Girl, Third Victim Of Auto Crash, Dies

GREENSBURG, Pa., Dec. 23.—(AP.)—Isabelle Hickey, 16, of South Wilmerding, died at a hospital yesterday, a third victim of an automobile accident at Export on Friday, December 13, in which two persons were killed. Charles Hickey, 18, brother of Isabelle, and Mrs. Esther Hall, 35, of near Delmont, were the others who met death.

The accident occurred when a car driven by John O'Connell, 18, struck the rear of a stalled truck.

School Set Dance on Dec. 30

DOESN'T this make you think of that old poem, "The First Snowfall," that we all learned in our childhood? And aren't we glad that the snow began in the gloaming, and busily all the night and today, too, has been wrapping streets and skyscrapers in snowy garments?

This snowfall is all we needed, don't you agree, to make this Christmas one of the gayest ever?

At least the school set thinks so, I know, for life grows merrier and merrier for the boys and girls. A new party for these young folks will be a holiday dance in the Montour Heights Country Club on next Monday evening from 8:30 to 12, which Mrs. W. W. Patterson, Jr., will give in honor of her daughter, Betty Patterson. Betty is home for the Yuletide from Highland Hall, Hollidaysburg.

THE BEAUTY AND CHARM OF THE DRESSMAKER FROCK

—Sketched in Paris—

Paris Bureau, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph

PARIS, Dec. 23.—The newest afternoon dresses have a lien on line to obtain the requisite smartness of the moment which is to be found in those dresses that boast intricate detail of cut rather than rich fabric of embellishment. Satins, georgettes, crepes, marocain and crepe de Chine are the materials much favored in the mid-season collections, rather than lames, brocades or velvets. We have with us today the "dressmaking" frock in all its quiet perfection, and the woman who finds herself restricted in her choice of clothes, will find more satisfaction in such a frock than in something that makes its appeal through lavishness of fabric.

And such frocks are infinitely more useful, for they look as if they grew on you, and they really do grow on you, for you feel an increased fondness for them each time you wear them. It is more important to be well dressed than to be dressed up, during the afternoon anyway. And on second consideration we think that this goes for any time of day.

WE can do no better to emphasize the charms of the appealing little frock than to show you a sketch of one of the best models displayed at the collection chez Cheruit. It is of dark red crepe de Chine with curving, sweeping lines as its finest feature. The bolero sweeps up in front and the top of the skirt curves down over a fitted bodice. The circular flounce on the lower edge of the skirt is also curving in line, and is graceful and becoming. The butcher cuffs, top of the skirt and edge of the bolero are bordered with fine tucked bands of the crepe. And so you see a frock of outstanding smartness that is the outcome of perfect cut and simple design, a frock that it would be voted a success anywhere.

SHOWN also, is one of the most successful of Paquin's winter coats. It is in black broadcloth with a large collar and shallow cuffs of silver fox. Flaring godets at either side of the coat are each edged with an entire fox skin. The coat is considerably shorter in front, showing the frock beneath for a matter of five or six inches. This new compromise in length was observed in several of the coats shown at the recent mid-season collections.

ON Saturday afternoon I happened to drop into the Hotel Schenley for a few minutes where the Girl Scout benefit tea dance was being held in the ballroom. And everyone was represented from the very young school set to their mothers.

And very pretty indeed looked the ballroom, banked with palms and ferns and Christmas greens, with the orange and scarlet and dahlia gowns of the feminine dancers adding tropical color to the scene.

I saw Dorothy Liggett, in a long, Kelly green crepe gown and a felt hat to match, dancing gaily, and Mrs. Carl L Pierce in dahlia crepe and a dahlia felt hat.

And I caught sight of Mrs. George J. Willock, Mrs. Marshall Jenkins, and Mrs. Edward Vose Babcock. And Mrs. Babcock wore an interesting afternoon gown of of black brocaded chiffon and black hat.

Particularly striking was Mrs. W. Eugene Gary in a long Princess gown of black transparent velvet with silvery embroidery on the graceful, full sleeves.

Mrs. Ambrose Nevin Diehl I saw as she was leaving, and Mrs. W. Edgar Reed, who wore black crepe and a black hat, and Mrs. Robert V. Bingay in dahlia crepe.

A lovely gown of Chanel red crepe with a felt hat of the same shade was worn by attractive Mrs. Carl H. Borntraeger, who was chairman of aides.

Among those who were at the tea dance entertaining parties were Mrs. Borntraeger, Mrs. H. R. Blickle, and Miss Martha Jamison.

Mrs. Edward Stieren was there with her daughter Josephine, wearing dahlia chiffon and a hat to match. And Mrs. W. H. R. Hilliard, Mrs. Joseph Wilson, Mrs. Edward Toby, Mrs. Dwight Coble and Mrs. James H. Hammond I saw chatting at one of the tea tables.

And interesting Margaret Brill I saw dancing gaily. And she wore a simple gown of black crepe in the princess mode, and a snug, black felt chapeau.

With her was Rita Borntraeger in a black velvet gown with an ecru lace bertha and a black felt hat. And Lucile Todd, another member of the younger set, was in red crepe and a red felt hat, and Elizabeth McKey in black transparent velvet, and a black felt hat. And Katherine Frazer wore brown crepe, in the princess mode, fashioned very long, and a brown felt hat.

Young Barbara Pierce wore rose chiffon with a rose felt hat, and Katherine Dangerfield claret red velvet with a felt hat.

And I saw the young Hoelzel sisters, Phyllis and Eleanor, selling candy. Phyllis, the younger sister, wore a demure frock of transparent midnight blue velvet with a collar and front panel of pleated blue crepe. And her sister wore a two-piece navy blue transparent velvet ensemble.

Theater Roof Falls, Firemen Injured

CHICAGO, Dec. 23.—(AP.)—One fireman was hurt seriously and 11 others had narrow escapes when a roof started to give way as they were fighting a $150,000 fire at the Garden Theater at Suburban Harvey. All leaped to safety, except Fireman James Reed, who slipped and fell one floor to the pavement.

Fire departments of four suburbs rushed to the blaze, which, according to the manager, resulted from a boiler explosion. The theater was destroyed. No performance was being held at the time.

Man Repairing Tire Run Down by Auto

GREENSBURG, Pa., Dec. 23.—(AP.)—William Beaver, 59, of Slickville, was in a hospital last night with a fractured skull, the result of being hit by an automobile while he was repairing a tire on his own machine near New Kensington. His condition was serious.

Pat Learns That Aviators Have Confederate In Crime

CHAPTER XL

"IS this a desert? And where we were today is that an oasis?"

"No—this is a canyon."

"But you said it was a desert. You told him you wouldn't cook in a desert sun. Well, tell me about the desert!"

Billy's hand shook Pat's chin. In his marvelously clear-cut voice, he plied her with questions. All day long through her violent disturbance the child's questions filtered.

Now, with her ear pressed to the door, greedily drinking in the muffled sound of voices, Pat gave her insistent little comrade brief, haphazard answers.

Why had they locked her in? Would they wait until she slept, pick her up and then carry her to the edge of the plateau?

But she wouldn't sleep! She'd fight! Take up those pliers, lying there. As they opened the door smash down on the cold fellow's head. The other would never have the nerve to murder.

Or she'd pretend to be dead asleep. As Slim raised her in his arms she'd reach for his pocket. He had a pistol there. With one swift, resolute motion she'd seize and fire it—

Came Billy's distressed:

"Oh, you're not telling it right. You forgot something."

"What did I forget?"

"About the mirage. They have mirages in a desert. I never saw one, but somebody did. Somebody told me about them—"

With an abruptness that frightened Pat, with a long heart-broken wail, the little boy cried out. He wanted his mother. He grew frantic with images of his mother. She'd be waiting for him.

His dinner would be ready. He wanted some chicken to eat. And his mother knew all about mirages. She could draw pictures of camels on his blackboard. Why couldn't he go back home? He didn't want it to be night time again.

Pat bribed and coaxed:

"Listen, I'll tell you of Rip Van Winkle, and about a cat with a burning tail."

Finally she won him. Finally he slept.

Pat laid him on the seat. She took the pliers in her hand. She waited.

It was so dark she couldn't see the child lying on the bench; nor even the white blur of his face.

The dark closed her in. It hummed with droning, hypnotic voices. They lulled her. They filled her exhausted brain with a sense of unreality. None of his terrible adventure had happened. But she dreamed. She had never stepped into Guy's plane Monday night. There was no golden-haired child clinging with moist, warm fingers to her hand. She was home in her room. In the lovely Spanish bed. She could see the drapes of old gold and green—

Suddenly like lightning and bringing Pat startly awake, a voice ripped through the dark:

"Lay off that bottle!"

"Aw—cut it—I only took two shots. I'm cold. Lemme in the cabin then."

"You stay here. I know you, sheik. Don't let me catch you starting things with the skirt."

"Want her for yourself, do you?"

"If I catch you again, I'll knock you cold."

Pat sank with her cheek pressed against the cabin window. Tears rushed from her eyes, and she began to laugh—softly, crazily—in wild, overpowering relief. Tomorrow morning she would be alive! Never before had the mere taking of a breath been such infinite, overwhelming rapture.

From that gruff warning it was clear she had yet time—dear, precious time in which to live. Her devastated nerves felt no terror of this other menace the two men and life might hold for her.

Thursday morning she felt almost happy as she stepped into a clear sun. The canyon walls flung down a myriad gold and pink and purple banners. These waved on churches done in lovely rose-colored stone; on amber castles and on somber giants. How wonderful to look on this in peace and with an unworried heart.

"I'll come again," thought Pat, "when the nightmare is over."

And breezily as Slim stepped to her side:

"Are we in the Grand Canyon? Just like the picture, only more so . . . ."

"Listen, girlie—see that hump—little slope down there? Don't take the kid on any crazy rambles. If you want to die, help yourself. Leave the boy here. Get that? Plenty of room for exercise this side of the gulley."

He went back to the plane. Now both men worked to repair the wing. They stayed at it the whole day.

And the whole day Pat played with the child. She had to be a cat, a bear, a traffic policeman. They found tunnels and caves. The little boy listened in awe when she told him that water rushing for a thousand centuries had hewn out this rock.

"How long is a century? Where did the water come from? Who made it rush down here? Tell it again. You start at the beginning and tell it all over!"

"Ah," thought Pat, thrilled by the child's solemn attention, "how Barbara Bryce must love this little hand of yours on her cheek, how she must adore your eyes, dark and beautiful and full of dreams—you darling little thing—"

Once as they talked, Ace came and sat at Pat's side. His hand closed lightly on her forearm. He ran his palm over her elbow up to her shoulder.

She said, bored:

"I've another date at present!"

But she was frightened. Slim had sauntered off—below the slope. He was searching for a spring.

The man moved closer. His hand dropped to her waist—bold and warm.

She jumped up and ran across the plateau, pulling the child with her. He overtook her.

"Don't be a damn little fool!"

"Keep your mitts off me! And remember it!"

"See here, Pat—we can afford to be a little kind to each other—stuck here like this. We're not going to get out . . . realize that? Do you need to be so high-hatty?"

The blood storming to her cheeks—making such panic with her breath—sprang back in sudden release. She turned with a high, wizzy grin:

"There comes your partner, Mr. Ace."

"You devil! You get that, do you?" his dark eyes regarding her with admiration. "We can outfox him!"

For the rest of the day, his eyes wooed her. They were warm, passionate, almost threatening. He sat next to her when they ate. When it grew dark, his hand sought hers.

Friday it was the same. She kept within sight of Slim. Once he seemed to notice her suppressed alarm. And once he came up as Ace talked to her and said with throttled rage:

"Get going—we need water. There's a spring down there somewhere. Find it!"

Saturday morning the two men at swords' point. They skimped with the food. They seemed expectant, overwrought—all on edge.

At noon, Slim went into the cabin. He put the radio tubes in his ears. He sat like this for an hour and a half. He was hoping perhaps for news—for some word?

Would flashes from Los Angeles—from San Franciso reach him here?

He came out about half past one. His eyes were fevered. The cold, scornful mouth had a ripple of triumph. He walked up to Ace. Pat heard him say: "O. K."

Ace sprang vividly upright. Then the two men walked to a distance and for a long while talked. They were both greatly excited.

They parted. Ace went down over the plateau as he had gone before when he searched for a path outward. Slim began again to work on the plane.

But his whole demeanor was changed. He worked flamingly, as though his very zeal would make the damaged wing whole again.

Something had happened. Some word had been received that made them burn wildly for release.

Sunday they found a spring. And Sunday Ace came home from an all-day tramp in a state of charging excitement.

Late that night—hours after Pat had settled with Billy in the cabin, she heard them talking. Their voices came thickly—smugly as though they had been drinking. Now and then they were quite distinct—carelessly loud—then they would whisper still more audibly:

"Shshsh!"

Slim said:

"Do you think it leads out?"

"I'll make sure tomorrow. God—if anything goes wrong now with $20,000 cold in our hand. Suppose he gets impatient?"

"Gonna take the skirt along?"

A soft curling laugh—then a sly:

"Shshsh! Yes—take her—give them the rope to hang us . . ."

A muttering pause—then an odd sound as though someone were crying.

A disgusted: "You damn fool!" This was Slim's voice.

Ace blubbering: "I won't do it! Dirty business—pretty little jane—"

"Shshshut—shut up!"

"It's murder"

"And what else it is to hand the kid over—you promised that!"

"Is he gonna bump the kid off . . ."

"What it to ush? We got the . . ."

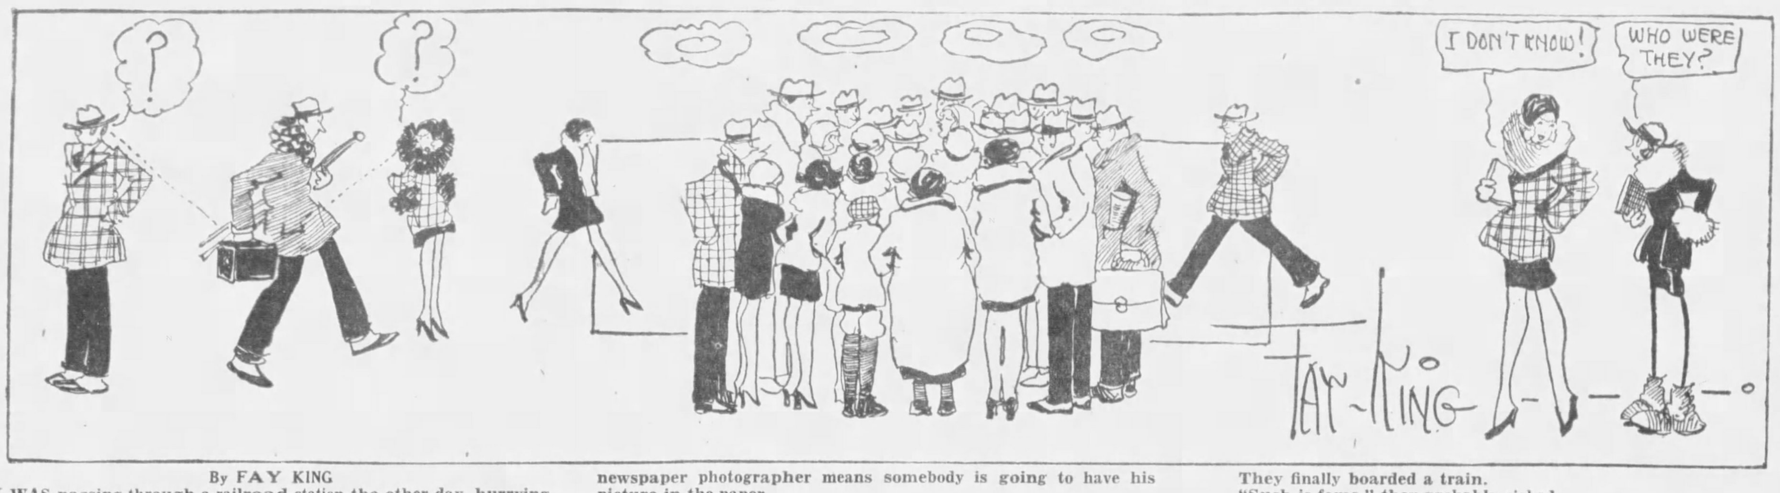
A Puff of Smoke Will Put Curious in a Huddle—Fay King



By FAY KING

I WAS passing through a railroad station the other day, hurrying like everyone else.

Suddenly, like everyone else, I stopped. I, too, had spied puffs of smoke in the air!

The puffs of smoke meant a newspaper photographer. A newspaper photographer means somebody is going to have his picture in the paper.

All else was forgotten.

We instantly turned in our tracks. Like the Indians in early days, we circled around the curious milling in a wide circle, and little by little closed in on them, staring in silence.

They finally boarded a train.

"Such is fame," they probably sighed.

Such is curiosity. That's all. Nobody in the crowd knew who he or she was.

We supposed anything, from crooks to millionaires or movie stars!

Love's Awakening

A Continuation of Love's Embers

By ADELE GARRISON

Dicky Interrupts Meeting of Madge and Phil Veritzen

TOO late I saw the pit I had dug for myself in my zeal to keep from Philip Veritzen what I believed to be Princess Olina's real reaction to the announcement of Prince George's betrothal to Mary. He was now troubled by the idea that the Princess might hold Noel's non-royal origin in the same contempt for herself that she did Mary's for Prince Georges.

But at least, I told myself grimly, I might hurdle the pit even if I could not obliterate its digging. To give myself time, I repeated his words slowly.

"Olina look upon your son as a 'commoner' and an 'inferior'? Oh! impossible."

It was my turn to stress a pronoun, and I felt an unholy glee as I saw his eyebrows disentangle themselves from his portentous frown, and his lips quirk for a smile. It was the baldest flattery, but it had enabled me to retrieve my mistake, and with a new bolstering of an old theory that men will swallow anything flattering, I hurried into an explanation.

"You must remember," I said, "that the princess has a most exalted opinion of your position in this country. Oh! nothing but the truth," I added hastily as the eyebrows quivered again. "I said 'exalted' not 'exaggerated,' please remember. But she had seen that you were an honored guest at the entertainments given for her parents, and she knows, I am sure, of the gratitude her mother, the queen, felt at your munificent gifts to her charities. She does not regard Noel at all as she does Mary."

"But I am sorry she holds that attitude toward Miss Mary," he said hastily, with the patent but belated reflection that after all Mary was my niece by marriage. "It is not a pretty thing to see in a girl so gifted and beautiful as is the princess. Yet I suppose one must remember her upbringing. There is no court more rigid in its rulings than that of Transvania."

He was complacent again, and I realized that his apparent resentment of Olina's fancied attitude toward Mary was the baldest hypocrisy. In reality he reveled at every indication of Olina's royal arrogance as long as it was not directed toward himself or his son.

I was angry about it, but wrath was not my best servant in furthering the happiness of Mary and Noel, so I forced myself to unctuous acquiescence in his theory.

"I am sure that her attitude is really not a conscious one, but something so inbred that she cannot rid herself of it," I said, and my employer nodded sagely.

"I am glad that you think she really cares for Noel," he said, going back to my first premise, "but—I am not at all satisfied with my cub's attitude toward her."

"Why!" I stammered, scenting danger to Noel in this sudden onslaught. "I thought his manner toward her was perfect today."

"His manner, yes," Noel Veritzen's father retorted dryly, and I realized that his keen eyes had been busy throughout the announcement dinner, "but his eyes told a different story whenever they looked at Miss Mary. He would better look out if he has any regard for his future. He has won the princess but he cannot expect to keep her if he wounds her self-esteem and affection by letting her see his interest in another woman. And by the Eternal—he shall keep her, or I will know the reason why."

His clenched hand fell upon the table between us, and the roses in the low bowl between us trembled violently. He looked at them ruefully, then at me.

"Forgive me," he pleaded, "but I am very much incensed at my cub."

I bottled my wrath securely, then played a rash hand. But I saw nothing else to do.

"I am sure you are mistaken," I said boldly. "But even if you are not, you must remember that Noel is obligated to Olina. He will not go back upon his word. For the rest—will you leave the boy to me?"

In my zeal for Noel I had forgotten the injunction Harry Underwood once had given me—"never to turn the lamps pleadingly upon a susceptible man." But I had cause to remember it when my employer impulsively put out his hands to grasp mine resting upon the table, pushing the bowl of roses into so perilous a position that at my equally impulsive withdrawal, the bowl crashed to the floor, scattering the roses.

"Oh! That beautiful bowl!" Edith Fairfax's voice sounded from the entrance to the little foyer, and then I saw Dicky just behind her.

Tomorrow's Horoscope

Tuesday, December 24

THE planetary configurations for this day point to much stirring about and indulgence in petty, rather than important events. Things of a social, domestic and affectional nature are to be uppermost, but anxiety about small losses and vexations about letters or writings should be relegated to the background for the ascendancy of the holiday spirit.

Those whose birthday it is may not have a very important year, the emphasis being placed upon petty vexations, losses and small details. But there should be care in the signing of all letters and papers.

A child born on this day may be kindly and gracious, but should have high principles of veracity and probity instilled in infancy.

The Marry-Go-Round

By HELEN ROWLAND

When a Man Suffers

LEAPING into matrimony from an airplane, 2,000 feet up, may be a great lark for the bride and bridegroom in these days of parachute weddings. They may feel, after the ceremony, that nothing worse can happen to them.

* * *

But just WHY should the "best man" be required to risk his perfectly good and carefree life, by leaping with them, as he did at the most recent of those sensational affairs?

The "best man" at a wedding has always had my heart's sympathy.

Good men are loved; better men are honored; but the "best man" receives the usual reward of the altruist in this world—ingratitude, suspicion and the bill for the taxicab.

No woman ever realizes how much she owes her husband's "best man" until the excitement is all over and she wakes up to the fact that it takes more than love and a taxi to get a man to his wedding on time and in "good condition."

The "best man" usually has to supply the courage, the presence of mind, the boutonniere and the ring for the bridegroom. He lends his moral support, his blessing, his gloves and his flask. His continual reassurances, reminders and "bracers" are as necessary to the bridegroom's presence and morale as are the bouquets to the bridesmaids.

* * *

And all this he does in a cause for which he has no sympathy and very little patience. For, even while he cheers him on, he secretly regards the bridegroom as a victim of dementia or a "horrible example" and pities him from the depth of his shirt-bosom.

Nothing but chivalry and his sense of honor sustains him; he feels in duty bound to produce the guilty party at the vestry door and see the "poor simp" through his terrible ordeal—just as he would deliver an intoxicated pal at his wife's doorstep.

BUT—there is where he wants to wash his hands of the whole affair!

When the bridegroom returns to normalcy and his office desk it is TOO much to be regarded as "accessory before the fact" in a crime that the best man would have prevented if he could.

Regarded as a savior and deliverer before the wedding, the "best man" always suspects that after the honeymoon he will be looked upon as a traitor who helped "railroad" a trusting pal to the matrimonial morris chair; who "double-crossed" his old pard and turned state's evidence at the vital moment!

For years his conscience hurts him whenever he stops to think that he did not lift a hand to prevent the sacrifice of his friend at the altar. It makes him shiver to remember that he acted as sponsor and prompter—He, a man with cool blood in his veins, no license in his pocket, and a date to play golf at the Country Club.

A woman's bridesmaids feel that they have shared something sacred and sublime with her. But the "best man" always feels, somehow, that he has betrayed the friend of his bosom in his weakest hour and shared with him a secret shame and a public humiliation.

Nobody contributes as much toward the success of a wedding as the "best man"—not even the bride. Nobody suffers as much at a wedding—not even the bridegroom!

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Guard Against Quick Changes in Weather

OF LATE there have been increasing attempts to find out the cause and cure for that troublesome thing, the common cold. There is probably no other "below par" condition so prevalent among every type of the civilized race as this one.

DR. COPELAND

The chief danger about this condition is that it so often leads to even greater troubles and more serious diseases. It affects many thousands of persons in every state and country. We must find a means to check this common tendency to have colds.

Good health is a strong chain, but, it has been said, "the strongest chain is no stronger than its weakest link. A man may pride himself on his robust, good health. Yet, when he least expects it, along comes a cold. Something depresses him, he has a slight indisposition, but he thinks lightly of it. If it is neglected, this "weak link," the cold may bring him to something much worse, "a malady with a name."

It is not generally recalled that the nose and mouth are directly connected by the alimentary canal with the stomach and the whole digestive tract. What affects one is apt to affect all of these functions. When the delicate membrane of the nose or throat is inflamed, when any bad feelings in this region are felt, then you may look for trouble in the digestive functions of the body.

Over-feeding, under-feeding, over-tiredness and insufficient exercise are among the chief factors for lowered vitality. They are the foundation for the cold. Sore throat, indigestion, constipation and a cold may pave the way for something worse. They lead to influenza, pneumonia and the dread tuberculosis. If they are not corrected promptly further trouble must be expected.

Overcrowded conditions of living or working inevitably lead to a lowered bodily resistance. The cold is merely a symptom of run-down health. As I have said, it is a common forerunner of other worse conditions of health.

Persons living the out-of-door life, working in the fields or engaged in other work in the fresh air and sunshine do not know colds. They are likely to be free from them. The reason is because such people have strong vigorous bodies. They get the necessary exercise. They are hungry for plain and nourishing food. In consequence they build up bodily resistance to colds and to disease in general.

It is the anaemic flabby person, the person prone to obesity, and the chronically constipated person who is most liable to colds. All of these conditions of health should be corrected.

Fresh air and sunshine are Nature's tonics, disinfectants and cure. There is no substitute to compare with them. All these together with plenty of bodily exercise and good nourishing food are absolutely essential if we are to have good health.

"Stunning Tweed Frock"

Pattern 1803

Sun-Telegraph 15c Practical Pattern

This is the type of frock that is smartest in a thin wool. It is in one piece, the moulded bodice in delightful contrast to the full flared skirt. The mannish, notched revers, the double breasted effect created by clever placing of buttons, and the pointed skirt section are smart features.

Design 1803 would be equally charming fashioned of wool crepe, jersey, kasha or tweed. Mixtures of brown and beige, black and white, green and tan or red, black and beige, are exceptionally attractive and smart this season. Bone or covered buttons are used for trimming.

May be obtained only in sizes 16, 18, 20, 34, 36, 38, 40 and 42. Size 16 requires 2½ yards of 54 inch material.

No dressmaking experience is necessary to make this model. The pattern has ample and exact instructions. Yardage is given for every size. A perfect fit is guaranteed.

Patterns will be delivered upon receipt of FIFTEEN CENTS (15c) in coins carefully wrapped or stamps. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, STYLE NUMBER and SIZE wanted.

The FASHION BOOK is FIFTEEN CENTS, but only TEN CENTS when ordered with a pattern. Address all mail and orders to Sun-Telegraph Pattern Department, 243 West 17th St., New York City.

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Showing Excellent Taste

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

I am 16 years of age and have been a very good friend of a young man of 21 for about two and one-half years. In this time I have had two birthdays. At the time of his birthday and at Christmas last year, also, there was a little misunderstanding between some members of his family and my family. Therefore, I did not give him a gift for his birthday or at Christmas. I did not receive a Christmas gift from him either. We think a great deal of each other, and as I received flowers from him on my last birthday I am puzzled as to whether I should send him a gift for his birthday or whether I should just send a card? Does this apply to Christmas also? I do not believe a girl should give gifts unless she is engaged to the young man. Do you think this is the right attitude to have? Although I do think it is very nice for a young man to send a girl—that he really cares for—an impersonal gift. MARIE.

ALL of your reactions are socially correct, and so have the young man's been. He has shown such excellent taste in sending you the charming gift of flowers that I hope you will show the same taste in not sending him a present, but instead send him a Christmas card or a Christmas note.

Greeting Cards to Employers

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

I would like your advice. I am employed in a large office and last year at Christmas time my employer gave me a box of candy. I really did not expect a gift of any kind and did not send him a card. Do you think I should send him a card this year?

2. Should it be addressed to him and his wife, or just to him?

3. Will you please tell me how a person—who has been married secretly for quite some time—should announce the marriage? Would a luncheon or dinner party be correct for friends, and a personal call upon members of both families? V. C.

IT IS not at all necessary to send your employer a Christmas card, and it would perhaps be better form for you not to do this. But, if you really think that you'd like to, choose an impersonal one, and be sure to address it to both his wife and him, and send it to the home address.

2. Yes—be sure. Not to do this is to show extremely poor taste, and you can be severely criticised from the etiquette point of view.

3. The plans you outline would be in perfect taste to announce a secret marriage.

Bank Clearings For Pittsburgh

Should Exceed

TEN BILLION DOLLARS

PITTSBURGH is a wealthy corporation in which each merchant is a share holder. Every Pittsburgh merchant participates in the prosperity of this great city, built on the revenue of basic industries. These industries, the foundation of all economic progress, are scaling constantly upward. Employment is close to peak—wages, higher here than anywhere else in the country, are increasing. Car loadings remain high and bank clearings will amount to more than ten billion dollars this year—almost a billion more than 1928. Latest reports on local retail business show an increase of more than 8 per cent over last year.

There is more money earned. The logical assumption is that there is more to be spent. Display your wares to the world's most lucrative market through the Sun-Telegraph.

Tell Your Story to Pittsburgh Buyers Through

THE SUN-TELEGRAPH

Bank clearings represent "money spent." The importance of bank clearings is generally taken to be an accurate barometer of business and commercial, as well as industrial condition. The 1929 estimate of $10,000,000,000.00 coincides with other favorable indices of Pittsburgh's prosperity.

SPORT COMMENT
by JAMES J. LONG

Divided on Ice Rules. | Woodall Aids Mahaffey.
Pilots Differ in Views. | Blackburne Gives Side.
Cleghorn Starts Debate. | Denies Being Worsted.

HOCKEY MEN AT ODDS ON NEW GAME.

LITTLE wonder that there is a division of opinion among the hockey fans around the National League circuit as to whether or not the new rules have improved the ice sport, when the managers themselves differ on the question. Even the foremost men in the game disagree. Odie Cleghorn, former Pittsburgh manager and now a referee, appears to have started something when he aired his views here last week, declaring that the altered code is destroying real hockey by taking away smart play, clever stick-handling and other fine points of the pastime.

Lester Patrick.

Since Cleghorn took the stand that there must be a modification of the present regulations for next season if hockey is to survive in its true form, other prominent ice figures have been discussing the situation with varying conclusions. Even the managers of the two teams in New York are not of one mind on the subject. It may be due to the fact that one club has been far more successful than the other under the new rules, but at any rate Lester Patrick, boss of the Rangers, and Lionel Conacher, skipper of the Americans, do not see the matter in the same light.

HAVING strongly advocated the change in the code, Patrick naturally gives his hearty indorsement to the game in its present state. He not only holds that the alterations have produced better hockey, but says they make for longevity and predicts that the careers of the players will be lengthened. "Body punishment is more injurious to the player than constant motion at high speed," he contends.

"Under the old rules it was to the advantage of the defense men to body-check the forwards moving their direction. Now, with the forward pass in vogue, the defense man must follow the puck, which is moving faster than the player. That makes for less body contact, which has been shortening the hockey life of the average skater. Incidentally, the day of the big, slow defense player is at an end, and I'm glad of it.

"IT WASN'T fair to the little, faster and more capable stick-handler to be forced out of the picture by a fellow who couldn't play half as well, but who could stand the bumping better.

"A little defense man who can turn quickly is more valuable than heretofore. Leo Bourgault, for instance, is a better player by 50 per cent than he was last season. The game as it is now is made to order for players of his type."

Lionel Conacher.

CONACHER rises to object. He shares the views of Cleghorn. "As I see it, these rules place so high a premium on sheer speed that they reduce the worth of smart hockey," he says. "The effect they are having on hockey may be likened to that of the lively ball in baseball. Ball games once were won largely on headwork, but now the home run into the stand has outmoded the smart player, and nobody thinks of anything but hitting the ball out of sight. Just as a lead of one or two runs in the ninth inning, which once meant so much to a smart pitcher, doesn't mean anything now, so a lead of a goal or two in the final period of a hockey game also doesn't mean anything."

THE marked improvement in the pitching of Lee Roy Mahaffey, former Pirate, for the Portland club during the latter part of the Pacific Coast League season, which led Connie Mack to add him to the Athletics' slab staff for 1930, is being credited largely to the clever handling of Larry Woodall, old Detroit catcher.

When Woodall took him in hand, Mahaffey had little more than speed and was just a hard thrower whose sole idea of pitching was to try to throw the ball past the batters. But the veteran backstop coached him in the development of a better curve and the use of an occasional slow ball, with the result that the ex-Buccaneer is said to have become a real pitcher who may be able this time to stick in the big show.

OFFICIAL coast league averages for 1929 show that Mahaffey earned a reputation as a workhorse for Portland. He toiled in no fewer than 56 games, and went the whole distance in 32 of them, pitching a total of 370 innings. He won 21 games and lost 25, having only a makeshift team behind him during the first half of the season.

The former Corsair ranked second in the league strikeouts, fanning 165 men. He also made an unusual showing as a fielding pitcher, being charged with only one error in handling 75 chances.

Lee Roy Mahaffey.

SOME of the baseball reverses of Russell (Lena) Blackburne, erstwhile White Sox manager, appear to have been due largely to the pugilistic inclinations of Art Shires, yet Blackburne has acted the part of a fine sportsman toward the belligerent youngster. Far from holding any grudge, Blackburne, in discussing with Pittsburghers at the recent major league meeting in New York his trials and tribulations as leader of the Chicago Americans, declared that Shires, in some respects, is really a fine boy.

HOWEVER, Lena said he was disappointed over some of the stories published in the newspapers in connection with his mix-ups with his first-sacker. Many of these were quite flippant, he said, whereas, in his opinion the matter was serious. He also took the stand that the writers of some of the articles had departed from facts.

"The inaccurate statements relative to my mix-ups with Shires disgusted me to some extent," said Blackburne in discussing the trouble. "A number of them were ridiculous. Some of the stories would make a reader believe that I was carrying nothing but black eyes and that sort of thing. The truth of the matter is that I was holding my own with Shires in our clubhouse fight, as any of the players will tell you.

"I WAS able to, and did, take care of myself, but the men who wrote up the affair certainly gave me all the worst of it. I have been

BUCS' DEFENSE CRUMBLES IN SLOW GAME

DETROIT, Dec. 23.—(AP.)—The Pittsburgh Pirates tumbled further into the cellar of the National Hockey League here last night when they took a 6-to-1 beating at the hands of the Detroit Cougars.

A total of five Pirates gave evidence of the game's slow action. All of the penalties were charged to the Pittsburgh team, four of them specifically to Roger Smith, Pirate defense man.

Ebbie Goodfellow and Herb. E. Lewis, Detroit wingmen, boosted their scoring averages with two goals apiece. Lewis also was given credit for an assist. Bobby Connors and Captain Reg Noble got the other Detroit goals, while Hib Milks, Pirate center, scored the lone Pirate tally.

Pittsburgh's passing attack was ragged throughout the play and the Pirate defense crumbled after the first period. Two of the Detroit goals were scored while Smith was absent on one of his frequent penalties. The lineup:

Pittsburgh—1.		Detroit—6.
Miller	G.	Beveridge
McCaffery	R.D.	Noble
Smith	L.D.	Hicks
Milks	C.	Hay
Darragh	R.W.	Cooper
Lowery	L.W.	Goodfellow

Pittsburgh spares—White, Briden, Jarvis, Barton, Manners.

Detroit spares—Aurie, Lewis, Connors, Brophy, Bellefeuille, Hughes, Rockburn.

Officials—Ritchie and Bell.

First period—Pittsburgh, Milks (Lowery), 16:45. Penalties—Smith 2.

Second period—Detroit, Connors (Lewis), 6:12; Detroit, Goodfellow (Hay), 10:17; Detroit, Lewis, 13:05. Penalties—Lowery, Smith.

Third period—Detroit, Goodfellow, 6:05; Detroit, Lewis (Connors), 11:35; Noble (Bellefeuille), 12:40. Penalty—Smith.

RANGERS TRIP HAWKS

NEW YORK, Dec. 23.—(AP.)—The experienced New York Rangers took second place in the American group of the National Hockey League from the young Chicago Blackhawks last night by winning their encounter, 3 to 1. The victory gave the Rangers a one-point margin over their rivals.

The rangers took advantage of every opportunity and converted three of them into goals in the first two periods. Chicago, tired after Saturday night's clash with Boston, could not make use of several of their best chances after they finally did break through the New York defense.

The newly-adopted offside rule, getting its first trial in New York, caused much trouble for both teams and each had a goal disallowed because a player had crossed into the attacking zone ahead of the puck.

Frank Boucher, veteran center, showed the way in the Ranger scoring, making two goals on assists by the Cook Brothers. Marvin Wentworth made the Chicago goal late in the third period. The lineup:

Rangers.		Blackhawks.
Roach	G.	Gardiner
Johnson	L.D.	Abel
Bourgault	R.D.	Dutkowski
Boucher	C.	Tom Cook
Bill Cook	R.W.	March
Bun Cook	L.W.	Miller

Ranger spares — Thompson, Murdoch, Keeling, Foster, Quenneville, Vail, Goldsworthy, Heximer.

Blackhawks spares—Taylor, Goftselig, Burns, Arbour, Ingram, Couture, Somers, Wentworth, Ripley.

Summary: First period scoring: Rangers, Boucher (W. Cook), 4:41; Rangers, Keeling (Thompson), 1:13. Penalties—Dutkowski, Miller, Couture, Ingram, Johnson. Second period—Rangers: (W. Cook and F. Cook), 11:31. Penalties—Keeling, Quenneville, Bourgault, T. Cook, Wentworth. Third period—Chicago: Wentworth, 16:45. Penalties—F. Cook, March, Vail, Johnson, Taylor, Boucher.

Referees—Bert Corbeau and Cy Denneny.

Ramblers Wallop New Orleans Loyola

NEW ORLEANS, La., Dec. 23.—(AP.)—Fighting through a blizzard in the frozen Loyola Stadium here yesterday, Chicago's Loyola Ramblers defeated Loyola of New Orleans, 26 to 6, before 5,000 civic-minded citizens who braved the cold blast to contribute to the Christmas Doll and Toy Fund.

As hard-pressed as they were by the Ramblers and busy trying to stop the vicious line plunges of Tom Flynn or flag the off-tackle bucks of Les Mallory and Bob Burke, the Southern wolf-pack, accustomed to balmy playing weather, had to keep dancing to keep their blood in circulation. The score by periods:

Loyola (South)	0	0	0	6	6
Loyola (Chicago)	7	12	7	0	26

Loyola (Chicago) scoring: Touchdowns—Flynn 3, Burke. Points after touchdowns—Burke (drop kick), Connelly (end run).

Loyola (South) scoring: Touchdown—Lopez.

FRANKIE VAN JOINS LOCAL REFEREES

By HARRY KECK,
Sports Editor.

Pittsburgh has a new boxing referee of ability, or will have him as soon as he is granted a license, for which he has applied.

The newcomer is Frank Van Houten, of Cleveland, better known as Frankie Van, a former bantamweight boxer, who since he quit boxing has handled some notable bouts in the Ohio city, among them one between Emmett Rocco and Johnny Risko and another between Billy Wallace and Tommy Grogan.

Frankie Van.

Van made his bow to the local fans as one of the officials at the benefit amateur show at Motor Square Garden last Monday night and his work excited considerable favorable comment. He has moved his home here and is to be transferred shortly by the construction company for which he is employed out of Cleveland. He is a protege of Max Zucker, local manager of boxers, who handled him when Frankie was an amateur and later a professional mittman.

Van is only 24 years old and married. He is one of the youngest professional referees in the business, and mechanically one of the best. He moves speedily about the ring and knows when to break the fighters and when to let them alone—and ain't that sumpin?

LES COHEN STARS

Dr. H. Clifford Carlson, coach of the crack basketball teams the University of Pittsburgh has been turning out in recent sessions, is proud of the record his proteges made on their recent jaunt through the Middle West, on which they won three games in as many starts, with Ray Montgomery and Eddie Baker lost to

Frederickson To Go Under Knife Today

Manager Freddie Frederickson, of the local National Hockey League team, today will be operated upon at St. Michael's Hospital, Toronto, Ontario, in an effort to alleviate the condition of an injured knee, club headquarters here was advised last night.

Frederickson suffered the injury about 10 days ago and has been unable to play since. It is expected he will be confined to the Canadian institution for at least a week.

CHRISTMAS RING SHOWS CARDED

Christmas week finds all of the boxing activity in Western Pennsylvania crowded into the last half, with shows carded at Motor Square Garden and the Coliseum at Washington on Christmas afternoon, McKeesport operating the following night and the Moose Temple running on Friday.

Tiger Joe Randall, of Elizabeth, and Jimmy Belmont, of Braddock, welterweights, furnish the main bout action at the Garden and Battling Gizzy, of Donora, and Young Corsey, of Canton, O., appear in the feature event at Little Washington.

Joe Trippe, knockout star of Rochester, N. Y., meets Larry Madge, of Cleveland, also a hitter, in the windup at McKeesport. An effort to rematch George Panka, of Homestead, and Harry Williams, of Rankin, heavyweights, for the main bout at the Moose Temple, has fallen through because of the fact that Panka suffered badly cut lips in their melee in the same ring last Friday night, which was declared a draw. Promoter Francis Flynn is at work on a new program.

RUDY BOXES WALCOTT

Young Rudy, of Charleroi, and Young Joe Walcott, of Washington, Pa., will appear in the eight-round semi-final of the Garden's Christmas matinee. Dominick Profio, of Cecil, and Roy Taggert, of Butler, are in the second bout, and

GRIMES SOUGHT AS BROOKLYN MANAGER

By CHARLES J. DOYLE.

Burleigh Grimes is on his way to his Wisconsin home today without having signed a Pirate contract for 1930.

"Mr. Dreyfuss and I had a nice fanning bee with little talk about salary," said the star pitcher before leaving Pittsburgh last night.

Burleigh expects to spend Christmas with his mother and father at Owen, Wis. After the holidays he wants to rough it for a spell in the wilds of the Badger state.

While in the city, Grimes inferred that managerial concerns are not the farthest things from his mind; in fact, it is fairly well established that certain men in the Brooklyn management would like to have Grimes as pilot.

PHYSICALLY FIT

The veteran of the mound attended the recent meetings in New York and there is reason to think that he was there for a better cause than curiosity.

Grimes, nevertheless, is concentrating on having another big season on the mound for the Pirates. His physical appearance while in Pittsburgh indicated that he could pitch championship ball for five more years, unless he decides to step into a managerial date within that period.

Burleigh's contention is that a pitcher should be a successful pilot, provided he knows enough about human nature to handle the various personalities one is bound to find in any squad of 24 men. Grimes seems to have the requirements to so govern others. There is no doubt as to his baseball knowledge; he has absorbed much of the McGraw system and he thinks there is nobody quite like McGraw so far as baseball instinct is concerned.

MAY BE SIGNED SOON

The chances for an amicable settlement on Grimes' next contract are bright. Owner Dreyfuss and his pitcher apparently had a friendly discussion. The negotiations started in Pittsburgh probably will be carried out by mail in the early weeks of the New Year, and it would not be surprising if Burleigh is in the fold in due time.

Grimes is said to be the highest-salaried man on the Pittsburgh club, but when he signs the new figure may be somewhat below the $25,000 amount reported as his demand.

CADETS ARRIVE AT DESTINATION HOURS LATE

By JESS CARVER.
Staff Correspondent.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 23.—Long after supper last night and long after it was due, the Army football squad rolled into Palo Alto, home of Pop Warner and the Stanford football eleven, which will face the Cadets here Saturday. The long and tiresome trip of the West Pointers, made longer and much more tiresome by atrocious weather breaks, came to a close almost 12 hours late. The Cadets arrived from Los Angeles, where they made an unexpected early morning stop Sunday, and if you think the "Sojer" boys were not glad to get here, you're crazy.

FOOTBALL MECCA

Palo Alto is the mecca for football men today, what with the East-West teams training there, and the presence of the colorful Cadets. West Point headquarters have been split, the athletes being stationed at the Branner Hall in Palo Alto and Gen. Smith, Capt. Wells and Maj. Fleming, along with staff officers, displaying their uniforms at the St. Francis here.

Coach Biff Jones will lose little time in getting his charges working and a long drill is on the books for this afternoon. The Army mentor intends making his practices as secret as possible, but he'll have one sweet time keeping out the blokes who have gathered here to watch the great Chris Kringle Cagle, brilliant halfback, and his running mate, Murrell, Cadet fullback.

The Cadet party included close to 150 persons. There are 110 football players on the list, three trainers, Academy officers and newspapermen. This town is so jammed with athletes that you can't throw out your chewing gum without it getting tangled in some tackle or center's hair. It is seldom one gets four squads of the prominence of the Army, Stanford, All-Eastern and All-Western into one coral.

ODDS FAVOR CARDS

The appearance of the formidable-looking Soldiers had little or no effect on the odds which have been quoted on Stanford. They still like Pop's chances over the Easterners by about 10 to 7, and by the time the game rolls around the odds are going to be longer.

Among the many, many topics of discussion that came up as the boys gather in fanning bees had to do with the meeting of Murrell, the hard-hitting fullback, and Herb Fleishacker, Stanford's battering quarterback. Ho, Ho! what a crash there is going to be the first time Mr. Murrell sticks his Gothic snoot into or through the Stanford line and he and Mr. Herb come together. Women and children will tremble and strong men will faint, or maybe the men will tremble and the women and kiddies will faint. It doesn't matter, to you or me, but it will to Messrs. Murrell and Fleishhacker.

It is much too early to begin worrying much about lineups. Pop is not at all certain about Stanford's, and Biff Jones just throws

LAST NIGHT'S GAMES

Morry-Fintex	38—Cumberld K. of C.	22

AMERICAN LEAGUE.

Brooklyn	31—Rochester	16
Chicago	18—Ft. Wayne	15

By JULIUS LEVIN.

Undisputed possession of first place in the Allegheny County League will be at stake tonight when the Morry-Fintex aggregation, present holder of the top position, entertains the Goldensons of South Side on the Duquesne University court.

The contest, the only one scheduled in the Allegheny County League tonight, brings together two natural rivals composed mainly of former collegiate stars. The Goldensons and Fintex quintets have been clashing on the floor for a number of years and usually put up an exhibition that keeps their followers on their toes from start to finish. Tonight's contest should prove no exception and unless all signs fail the game should attract a capacity crowd to the spacious Duquesne University gymnasium. As has been the case in past games the Goldensons will be accompanied by a large delegation of South Side supporters.

FINTEX FAVORITE

Rated almost unbeatable on their home court, the Fintex passers take the floor tonight a favorite to defeat their rivals from across the Monongahela. The South Siders, however, will send a powerful aggregation against the home club that stands a good chance of handing the Fintex five its first home defeat of the year.

The records of the two clubs find Fintex boasting five victories and one defeat, while the Goldensons show four triumphs and one setback. The Goldenson defeated the defending champions, the Duquesne Lafayettes, by one point, while the same club vanquished the Fintex team by a margin of 14 points. Both games were played on the Lafayettes' floor. The Goldensons' only defeat came at the hands of the Homestead Ackermans.

Ex-college stars will play a prominent part in the game. Fintex has Lou Reilly, Penn State; Nate Lippe, Geneva; Harvey White, Carnegie Tech, and Eddie Losman, Duquesne. The Goldensons have Moy Rubenstein, Geneva; Jock Rosenberg, Duquesne; Bobby Angelo, Grove City, and Leisenring, Lafayette.

The main game will be preceded by a high-class preliminary featuring the Lou Gordon Juniors and the Broadway Club, of Beechview.

DRIBBLES

The Knickerbockers appear at the South Side Falcons and the Penn Five at the Ray Scheniders in the two West Penn League games carded tonight.

Two games are scheduled tonight in the Central Pittsburgh League, Manchester Community appearing at National Music and the Falcons No. 8 playing at Trinity Church.

Leo Mackey, veteran member of the Tri-States Officials Association, who was forced to turn down an offer to handle games in the American League owing to sickness in the family, will handle the Fintex-Goldenson game on the Bluff tonight.

The Commercial-Industrial League will enjoy a breathing spell following the only game scheduled tonight between Dravo Construction and Pittsburgh & Lake Erie. The loop will suspend operations during the holidays, resuming competition a week from Thursday night. The league will hold a special meeting tonight to rearrange the schedule and discuss new applicants for franchises.

The Irene Kaufmann Settlement House is arranging elaborate plans for the old-timers celebration to be held in the new gym a week from tonight. The I. K. S. team will meet the Cleveland Rosenblums in the feature attraction on the program.

PASADENA OPEN GOES TO SMITH

PASADENA, Dec. 23.—(AP.)—Horton Smith yesterday won his third open golf tournament of the winter Pacific Coast campaign by leading the field six strokes to annex the Pasadena $4,000 event with a card of 280 for the 72 holes.

In the morning the 21-year-old pro swept into a three-stroke lead, bagging five birdies for a 68. He took 71 in the final round.

Finishing in second place were Ed Dudley, of Wilmington, Del.; Johnny Golden, Paterson, N. J.; Eddie Loos, Pasadena, and George von Elm, amateur from Detroit. This quartet had scores of 286. Trailing them by a stroke came Denny Shute, Columbus, O., with a 287, while Leo Diegel, P. G. A. champion; Johnny Farrel, runner-up, and three others, tied with 288.

FAN WRITES PITT SONGS

With the Pitt Panthers, undefeated this season, due to leave Christmas night for Pasadena, Cal., to encounter the University of Southern California Trojans in the Tournament of Roses grid battle New Year's Day, an admirer of the team has been stirred to the point where he found it necessary to rid his system of two parodies on popular songs dedicated to Coach Sutherland's stars. He is J. C. Pierce, of Connellsville, Pa.

Here are the contributions:

UANSA

(Tune: Ramona.)

Way out yonder, o'er the hills
Where the mountains
Seem to kiss the sky—
Our boys out yonder—
O'er the hills—playing—
Desperately—just for
Dear Old Pitt.

CHORUS.

Uansa, the hosts of Pitt
Are calling you,
Uansa, we're putting all
Our trust in you.
We'll bless you, caress
You and bless the day
That brought you to Pitt.
We'll always remember those
Rambling runs you made for Pitt.
Uansa, when day is done
You'll hear our call,
Uansa, we'll meet you
At the campus hall.
We dread the dawn when we
Awake to find you gone.
Uansa, Uansa, Our Own.

THE PITT PARADE.

(Tune: Marching Through Georgia)

There's a team they call the Panthers,
And they have their claws all sharp.
They're gonna play the Trojans in a Pasadena Park.
And when the final whistle blows,
The Trojans will be beat?
On New Year's Day at Pasadena.

CHORUS.

Hooray, hooray, let's have that
Panther yell,
Hooray, hooray, let's give those Trojans hell.
We'll make a meal on Trojans
From two to four p. m.
On New Year's Day at Pasadena.

ARMY DRILLS AT PALO ALTO

up his hands in horror when you mention it to him.

Bugle Notes

The Army's special train was one of the finest and most perfectly appointed ever made up for a football squad. It consisted of 13 cars, including seven Pullmans, two diners, one of them specially constructed, two club cars, a baggage car and a gymnasium.

Although there was the usual joshing, the Freshmen footballers on the trip were not ridden by the upper-classmen. The squad travelled under semi-rigorous discipline. Everyone had a good time. Formal attire was ordered at mealtime only.

Carl Mark and Messinger, the Army ends, are great pals off the field. They are about as hot a pair of bridge players as will be smoked out in a year.

Maj. Gen. John L. Hines, commanding the Ninth Corps Area, will deliver the speech of welcome to the Army team at the football luncheon Thursday. Both Pop and Biff, the rival coaches, will also wipe off their chins and make brief talks.

Oh, yes, just in passing, "Try and get a ticket for this ball game."

EAST, WEST TEAMS WORK

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 23.—(AP.)—Members of the East-West football teams here settled down to hard work and, except for Christmas holiday, will enjoy no respite until the day before their game here January 1.

Coach Andy Kerr yesterday took the Eastern players to Palo Alto and put them through light scrimmage and signal practice to accustom them to the turf. Today the first of a series of two-hour scrimmage, kicking and passing the ball. Coach Percy Locey declined to pick a first eleven, saying he would not name the starting players until a day or two before the game. Locey, however, continued to use Ed Pomeroy, Utah fullback, and Dutch Clark, of Colorado, quarterback, in those positions. The Western team will practice here until Christmas Day, after which they will go to St. Mary's College, at Morago, in back of the Oakland hills, to finish their workout.

MINOR LEAGUE UMP DIES

KANSAS CITY, Dec. 23.—(AP.)—Gerald Hayes, a minor league baseball umpire for the past 25 years, died suddenly here yesterday of heart disease. Hayes has officiated in the Pacific Coast, American Association, Texas, International and other leagues. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Pearl Hayes.

Long's Sport Comment

in baseball for something like 20 years, and I defy any man to point a finger of scorn at me. I have filled coaching jobs, and never failed to hold the respect of the players.

"All baseball men agree that a coach has to be on the up-and-up in every way to remain high in esteem of the athletes. I made up my mind that no fresh kid would drive me out of baseball, and that's the way I feel. In a lot of ways, Art is a fine boy, but it was up to me to enforce discipline, and I not sorry for anything I have done."

Russell Blackburne.

BLACKBURNE has nothing but kind words for his successor, Donie Bush, the former Pirate chief, whom he wishes every success on the job formerly held by himself. At the same time, Lena feels that he did all that could have been reasonably expected of him last season in directing the White Sox, and thinks that the club finished just about where it belonged. Through it all, he has maintained a dignified attitude, and has been congratulated by many of the big men of baseball for his display of sportsmanship. Blackburne has not yet made a baseball connection for next year, but if he doesn't get some sort of post in the big show he will probably be found managing a strong minor league club.

HORNING BOWS TO BOWER HILL

CHRISTMAS SCHEDULE.

SEMI-FINAL—WEST PENN CUP.

Gallatin vs. Heidelberg Eagles, 2:30, at Carnegie High School field.

YESTERDAY'S RESULTS.

Gallatin	4—Corinthians	1
Glendale	5—Celtic A. A.	1
Bower Hill	1—Horning Rovers	0
Kramers	5—Bridgmont	2
German Sport	1—Harwick	1
Pierpoints	2—Pgh. Celtic	0
Cecil	5—Beadling	1
Douglas	1—National Tube	0
Mather	2—Vestaburg	0

In a couple of good soccer battles yesterday, Bower Hill nosed out Horning, 1 to 0, and the Glendale booters trimmed Celtic A. C., 5 to 1.

German Sport Club and Harwick battled to a 1-all deadlock, while the Kramers set down Bridgmont, 5 to 3, in the Chartiers Soccer League.

Mather's booters blanked the Vestaburg eleven, 2 to 0.

FINTEX FIVE VICTOR

CUMBERLAND, Dec. 23.—(AP.)—The Morry-Fintex basketball team of Pittsburgh handed the Cumberland Knights of Columbus five its first defeat in seven starts, winning 38 to 22 at the State Armory here yesterday.

The winners had the game well in hand throughout and led 22 to 9 at the half. Bill Miller, guard, counted 13 points for the winners and Sam Klateman, a forward, was close behind with 11. Long, K. of C. guard, was best for the losers with nine points. The lineup:

FINTEX—38.		CUMBERL'D—22.
Serbin	F.	May
Klateman	F.	Keegan
Reilly	C.	McMullen
Miller	G.	Long
Losman	G.	Dorsey

Substitutes—Cumberland, Mullaney, Neubiser. Field goals—Miller 5, Losman 2, Reilly 2, Serbin, Klateman 5, May, Keegan, McMullen, Mullaney, Long 4, Dorsey. Fouls—Fintex 8, Cumberland 4. Referee—Slocum.

St. Louis to Get National League Ice Franchise

ST. LOUIS, Dec. 23.—(AP.)—St. Louis is to step up to major league hockey next season, according to an announcement by Ben G. Brinkman, president of the National Exhibition Company, which owns the arena, new sports and exposition building here. Brinkman said St. Louis is to be represented in the National Hockey League next year.

Brinkman just returned from a conference in New York and said he is forming a company. He added he was assured by Colonel John S. Hammond, of Madison Square Garden, and by other Hockey officials, that a National League franchise would be granted if the necessary sum, $50,000, were forthcoming. It is not the plan, he said, to drop any city to make room for St. Louis, but to expand the circuit to include this city. St. Louis now is in its second year of organized hockey, being a member of the American Hockey Association.

Burns to Battle All-Stars Christmas

NEW KENSINGTON, Dec. 23.—The Burns A. A. will close its 1929 grid campaign here Christmas Day when it steps on the Parnassus Stadium Field to take up the challenge of an all-star team composed of local college players. A portion of the proceeds will be turned over to charity.

GALLATIN COPS BY 4-1 SCORE

By TOM BIRKS

Gallatin improved its standing in the American League yesterday by handing a 4-goal-to-1 defeat to the Corinthian Club at Gallatin field.

The Corinthians put up a good battle in the first half, but this club, composed of some new juniors from around Curry built around four seniors, could not hold the upriver club in the second half.

Gallatin pressed hard in the first half, but erratic shooting and a hard ground kept down the score, in fact the Corinthian goalkeeper had little to do, the only goal coming from the head of Frank Benick. Begondy had forced a corner, and this was placed perfectly for Benick to head into the net out of Thompson's reach.

The Corinthians tied up matters early in the second half. Pat Murphy found himself pressed hard and handled the ball. Schang came down the field and smashed it into the net.

With the score all even, Gallatin started out to put the ball game on ice, and soon recovered the lead when Grilli gave Benick a fine pass. Thompson was beaten from close in.

A keen-blowing wind was making the ball hard to control, and passes went astray for both clubs. Gallatin was pressing hard and when Secane placed another corner kick perfectly into the goalmouth, Begonde headed the ball into the net. The fourth and final goal came a little later when Grilli made a nice run, and flashing the ball across the goalmouth, Secane turned it into the net.

This served as a good warmup game for Gallatin, which will meet the Heidelberg Eagles at Carnegie High School field in the semi-final of the West Penn cup on Wednesday. The selection of these grounds hardly meets with the approval of the upriver club. The lineup:

Gallatin—4.		Corinthians—1.
Benick	G.	Thompson
Philiste	R.B.	Mackey
Murphy	L.B.	Schang
Paton	R.H.	Rodway
Sickles	C.H.	Cicotti
Paterlina	L.H.	Smith
Begonde	O.R.	Jias
Srilia	I.R.	Knolle
Benick	C.	Empke
Haywood	I.L.	Jamison
Secane	O.L.	McPherson

Goal scores—Begonde 2, Schang, Benick, Secane. Score at half time—1-0 Gallatin. Referee—O'Connor.

McCaffery, Buc Defender, Traded To Canadiens

Bert McCaffery, veteran defense man of Pittsburgh's Pirates, has been traded to the Montreal Les Canadiens for Gordon Fraser, it was made known here today. The management hopes, through the acquisition of Fraser, to strengthen the Buc defense, which has been more or less weak since the opening of the season.

Fraser will report to the Pucs in New York Saturday, and McCaffery will join the Montreal team on the same date.

FALCARO COPS PIN CROWN

NEW YORK, Dec. 23.—(AP.)—Joe Falcaro, of New York, won the individual bowling championship of the world from Joe Scribner, of Detroit, in a special 60-game match completed here last night. Falcaro scored a grand total of 12,932 to 12,803 for Scribner, a margin of 131 for the New Yorker.

Trailing by 157 pins at the end of yesterday afternoon's block, Scribner made a great comeback in the night block, rolling 245, 267 and 265 in his fourth, fifth and sixth games to within 60 pins of Falcaro. The New Yorker braced, however, and gradually increased his lead through the remaining games.

The first three blocks of the match were rolled in Detroit, where Scribner piled up a lead of 158 pins. Falcaro reduced this to 38 pins in the fourth block Saturday, went into the lead by 157 pins in the fifth block and yielded only 26 pins of this advantage in the final block.

The scores of the last block follow:

Scribner—206, 198, 178, 245, 267, 285, 203, 202, 170, 203; total, 2,139; grand total, 12,803.

Falcaro—177, 200, 246, 191, 211, 248, 215, 216, 235, 182; total, 2,111; grand total, 12,932.

ROLLS HIGH TOTAL

BRADFORD, Pa., Dec. 23.—James Shortell, local bowler, rolled scores of 168, 200, 253, 223, 248 and 242 for a total of 1,332 for six games here Saturday night.

BLACKSTONE CABINET 10¢

BLACKSTONE PERFECTOS 2 for 25¢

MANY Pittsburgh men who first tried Blackstones in other parts of the country asked for them here. And now you can get them all over Pittsburgh.

Blackstone cigars have the unmistakable flavor of quality. And they're so mild that they're a favorite with cigarette smokers

Perhaps you'd like to give some friend cigars for Christmas. Then give him Blackstones, is the sound advice we give you.

Just make this test yourself today: light up a Blackstone. Savor it. Let its mellow fragrance roll over your tongue. Then decide for yourself if it isn't more satisfying, when you want real aristocratic smoking pleasure, to light up a Blackstone!

Blackstones are made under the most sanitary conditions. And they are mellowed by nature's ripening process. It takes time and money to do this. But the result is a cigar of the highest quality—mild, cool, fragrant.

TECH, ALLEGHENY FIVES LIFT LID THIS WEEK

★ SUN-TELEGRAPH ★ SPORTS ★

THIRTY MONDAY, DECEMBER 23, 1929

SKIBOS OPEN IN OHIO FRIDAY

District collegiate basketball fans will watch the initial appearances of Carnegie Tech and Allegheny this week with an interest in the game pitched high Saturday night by Grove City's stormy entrance into the throne room of the Pitt Panthers who eventually staggered out victorious, but with crown askew and breathing heavily. What a game! Tom Burke, Grover forward, tossed in six field goals. Capt. Ryan dogged the steps of Pitt's all-America Hyatt like a long-standing debt. The Panther nursed along a 16-14 margin at half-time, with Zehfuss, L. Cohen and Arture coming through for the victory, 38-30. The net result was to increase Pitt's unbroken string to five and to give future opponents of the Grovers much to worry over.

TECH PLAYS ST. JOHN'S

Allegheny, winner of 12 out of 16 games last season, flings its same aggregation at Adrian (Mich.) College at Meadville Saturday. Tech, under a new mentor, Ralph Hogan, former Iowa star, and possessing five veterans, faces St. John's College Saturday at Toledo after opening against the Y. M. C. A. team at Youngstown, Friday. Duquesne, with Abele subbing for the injured Capt. Ganzy Benedict, will attempt to restore lost prestige in its first home game Friday with Adrian.

Features of last week's play were:

The close guarding given Charley Hyatt—he got but two field goals against Iowa and three against Grove City to add to 23 of three previous games.

The skirmishing success of Westminster, last season's Tri-State Conference champions—five straight victories; 187 points to 108 for the opposition.

Waynesburg's "good eye" from the free-throw line—30 out of 42 in three games.

THIEL SHOWS FIGHT

The 45-21 licking handed Butler Y by Geneva in the Covenanters' opening test, far better than Grove City did against the same team of former collegians.

Thiel's fight under its new coach, C. O. Benson, former University of Cincinnati freshman mentor—Thiel dropped all three games last week in the East, but held Canisius and University of Buffalo close.

The consistent work of Arture, Pitt; Avery, Waynesburg; Lengyel, St. Vincent's; Burke, Grove City.

The teamwork of St. Vincent's—in its 22-44 defeat by the strong Cumberland, Md., K. of C. five and its 20-13 victory over the Indiana Teachers, every St. Vincent's man figured in the scoring.

KANE OBJECTS TO DEMPSEY

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Dec. 23.—(AP.)—Sammy Mandell, lightweight champion, and Manuel Quintero, Cuban fighter, may fight here on the night of January 10, but if Eddie Kane has anything to say about it, Jack Dempsey will not be the third man in the ring.

Kane, as Mandell's manager, today issued a statement that he would not permit his charge to enter the ring if Dempsey were the referee.

Dempsey had tentatively accepted an invitation of G. R. K. Carter, promoter of the January 10 fight, to act as referee.

The manager refused to give reasons for his attitude against the Manassa Mauler.

"Dempsey can never referee any fight in which any boxer under my management participates," Kane said. "That's flat. If Mandell is to fight, the promoters had better forget about Dempsey as a referee."

Kane was manager of Tommy Gibbons when he fought Dempsey for the heavyweight championship in Shelby, Mont., in 1923.

Johnny Smackey, of Canonsburg, and Andy Andrucci, of the East End, are in the opener, which is slated for 2:30 o'clock.

Harry Spencer, of Washington, Pa., will oppose Walter Ketchel, of Detroit, in the six-round semi-final at Washington. Jimmy Thomas, of the Hill, meets Young Ketchel, of Steubenville, and Jackie Griffiths, of the Hill, battles Eddie Meyers, of Washington, in the two other six-round bouts. Joe Clark and Young Thomas open the show with a four-rounder.

Between Rounds

Dan Billick, Duquesne bantamweight, boxes Joey Ross, Jersey City veteran, in a main bout at Passaic, N. J., tonight. A team of local amateurs competes in an inter-city tournament at the New York A. C.

Jimmy Slattery and Lou Scozza, both of Buffalo, who have been named by the New York State Athletic Commission to box an elimination for the light-heavyweight championship, appear on a card of four-rounders in Buffalo tonight. Joe Trippe also is on the program meeting Johnny Sacco.

Al Singer boxes Al Winkler and Doc Conrad battles Harry Ebbets in New York tonight. Pal Moore tries a comeback against Jackie Stewart in an eight-rounder in Chicago, and George Godfrey and Tom Hawkins, Negro heavyweights, box at Roanoke, Va.

Frank Florian, Cleveland heavyweight, wants to box George Panka, Harry Williams, Ike McKowler or what have we in the way of opposition. He is managed by Mike Getz, who also handles Mike Lucas, welterweight, and Ted Jackson, Negro light-heavyweight, whom he would like to show here.

The Motor Square Club is at work on a match between Benny Schwartz and Bushy Graham for January 6.

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., Dec. 23.—Strong defensive football was in the foreground as the St. Michael Independents and Prospect, claimants to the Cambria County independent football championship, played a scoreless tie yesterday for the second consecutive Sunday.

MID-ATLANTIC CUTS SALARY LIMIT

Economy was the watchword of the Middle Atlantic League baseball magnates as they met in their annual convention yesterday in the Hotel Henry.

Reductions all along the line were agreed upon by the moguls in attendance. Every town in the circuit was represented in the session, which was a long one.

The neighborhood Class C circuit decided to continue the split seasons next year, but it introduced a fine innovation by putting up a purse of $1,000 for the players on any club that can win both ends of the championship.

OFFICERS RETAINED

The loyal and devoted services of Elmer M. Daily, president, and Russell Hockenbury, secretary-treasurer-statistician, were rewarded by the delegates, who reelected the two officials to terms of three years.

Daily, now athletic director at St. Francis' College, and Hockenbury, a real hustler from Scottdale, have worked long and earnestly for the baseball circuit, yet they both expressed a desire to take a reduction in salary as an example in economy to everybody connected with the league.

It was decided to reduce the montly salary limit from $3,250 to $3,000 in the interest of the retrenchment policy. The 15-player limit was continued.

The magnates voted to open the season on May 9. It will close on Labor Day.

WHEELING TO STAY

Before the meeting began there was much talk of Wheeling dropping out in the expectancy of entering the Central League, but that club's representatives voted to go along in the Middle Atlantic circuit.

The moguls voted to meet in Uniontown on the first Sunday in February to adopt a schedule.

The eight towns sending magnates to the meeting were Johnstown, Wheeling, Clarksburg, Cumberland, Scottdale, Fairmont, Jeanette and Charleroi.

the cause because they are being held over on the football squad for the Tournament of Roses game.

With the exception of Les Cohen, the tall center, the Pittites were outweighed many pounds by their opponents in these battles and took a bad physical beating each of the three nights, according to the good doctor, yet they came through with flying colors.

The Great Shires doesn't know what punishment is compared with such a siege of games under the circumstances, according to the Panther Coach, and Art the Wottaman gets paid for "taking" it. That's why Doc is so proud of his proteges.

KNOCKED OUT ON FEET

Incidentally, Doc is all het up over the form and spirit Les Cohen has been showing so far this season.

"Cohen finally has come into his own," the mentor said yesterday, "and he will be one of the outstanding players of the year if he can keep up the pace. He is a remarkably improved player."

In the Indiana game on the recent trip, Cohen, according to Coach Carlson, played during much of the contest in what in the ring would be called a "punch-drunk" condition. He took one of Charley Hyatt's passes flush on the "button," meaning that the ball slapped him on the chin, and he played on through sheer instinct before his plight was discovered.

ANSWER THIS ONE

What makes sports popular—the players or the fans? In other words, is it the fact that the public craves sports competiton and thus creates the demand that produces the supply, so that stadia are filled to overflowing and the cry of commercialism rends the air, or does the player create the interest that draws out the crowds?

This is an interesting question thought up by the aforementioned Dr. Carlson, a keen student of all sports, who believes the answer, if borne out by statistics, would prove highly interesting and might furnish an answer also to the widely criticized Carnegie Foundation report.

Which came first—the hen or the egg?

What do you think? These columns are open for a forum on the subject. Any interesting discussion of the question will be published.

GRID WISE CRACK

Speaking of the Carnegie report, have you heard the latest answer that the wisecrackers are quacking? It goes like this:

"Why shouldn't a star halfback be well dressed?"

WHAT COACHES SAY

Here are two belated answers to this writer's poll of leading football coaches on what they think the score would be if the undefeated Pitt and Notre Dame elevens could be brought together this season:

GLENN (POP) WARNER, Stanford University (former Pitt coach)—Think Notre Dame's defense very good, but its offense is not enough to score on Pitt. Score, 0-0.

SAM WILLAMAN, Ohio State—Without doubt, Notre Dame and Pitt are the two outstanding teams of the year. It would be folly to even hazard a guess as to the outcome of such a game. All I can say is that each is a great team.

How to Play Basketball

Is it good basketball to use "English" on the ball in shooting short baskets, especially from the side or underneath the basket?

Answered by

DR. JAMES NAISMITH

Inventor of Basketball, University of Kansas.

If the player is using the carom shot from the side and near the goal, "English" is of considerable advantage. This is especially true when it is a one-hand push shot, as the ball can be controlled nearer the goal and the rotation given just before the ball leaves the hand by giving the hand a turn toward the goal.

The effect of giving the ball this rotation is to make it leave the board at a more acute angle and to drop downward and more directly into the goal, when the ball will follow the course having the more acute angle.

It lessens the tendency for the ball to slide as it touches the board and minimizes the difference in smoothness of the home and the other backboards.

The nearer the end lines the shot is made the more necessary the rotation is, to give the ball a push away from the board.

International News Service.

NEW YORK, Dec. 23.—Did you ever hear of a world championship ball club throwing away its pat hand in order to draw down to the real strength of its cards?

According to the prattle of idle tongues hereabouts, you are going to do more than hear about it this season. You probably are going to see it and the Philadelphia Athletics are the ball team that may show it to you. They say Joe Boley won't start the season in Philadelphia, and it may be well to remember that the international code on foul play says that what you don't start, you don't have to finish.

As a shortstop, Mr. Boley no longer goes and gets them. They have to come and get him. He doesn't go to his left. He doesn't go to his right. He still can come in for them, however, and they give him a break in one other respect. It seems to be agreed that he goes back well, the idea here being that practice makes perfect. They say he has been going back for the last three years.

MAY SHIFT FOXX

This, anyhow, is supposed to be one infield change that Connie Mack is contemplating. Another is supposed to be the shift of Jimmy Foxx back to third base, with a kid by the name of Jim Kelsey taking over the No. 1 infield job.

Everybody always knows, by the way, what Connie Mack is contemplating. You probably noticed that during the last world series. If he contemplates all the arrangements they have generously made for him this time, it is possible that Max Bishop will be the only man in the 1929 infield occupying the position he played when they closed the books at the end of the fiscal year.

Right now, they are touting a youth by the name of McNair to go in there and make Philadelphia forget Jack Barry, Dave Bancroft, Mike Doolan, Monte Cross and others who strongly suspected that they could play shortstop.

DYKES MAY BE AT SHORT

Jimmy Dykes, as a matter of fact, is a natural for the place if Foxx moves over to third base and Boley doesn't start. They need steadiness in that part of the infield and, while some seem to think that Dykes merely is steadily bad, they do him an injustice. A good, fighting ball player, all he does is make the hard ones look harder.

SHIRES BOOKS FIVE FIGHTS

CHICAGO, Dec. 23.—(AP.)—Five cities in the East and Middle-West will get a look at Charles Arthur (the Great) Shires—and Charles Arthur will get $20,000.

Far from being wrecked by his defeat by George Trafton, the pugilistic career of The Great One is just nicely started, he says. He has signed for appearances in Detroit, New York, Buffalo, St. Paul, and Davenport, Ia., and plans to keep on fighting until about two weeks before the baseball training season opens.

Shires announced that Jackie Fields, world welterweight champion, will aid him in preparing for the bouts.

The White Sox first baseman, now back in perfect talking form, says he would be glad to favor Chicago with another appearance in the ring, if he wins four out of the five four-rounders on his schedule. His opponent here, if he could choose, would be none other than his recent conqueror, The Supergreat Trafton.

Shy Arthur's first date is at Buffalo, December 26. January 1 he will fight in Detroit, and on January 3 will engage in one of the preliminary bouts on the Jackie Fields-Young Jack Thompson welterweight championship fight card in Madison Square Garden, New York. He will show in St. Paul, January 7, and two days later will appear before the fans of Davenport, Ia. Boston may be treated to a look at Shires, January 17, against Al Spohrer, Braves' catcher.

FIELDS MEETS THOMPSON

NEW YORK, Dec. 23.—(AP.)—Tom McArdle, matchmaker for Madison Square Garden, announced last night that articles have been signed for a 15-round championship bout between Jackie Fields, Welterweight titleholder, and Young Jack Thompson, San Francisco Negro, here January 3.

Fields, who won the title from Joe Dundee at Detroit in July of this year, holds two decisions over Thompson. The San Francisco Negro leaped into fame in September 1928, when he knocked out Dundee in a non-titular fight. Dundee saved his title on that occasion by forcing Thompson to come in a pound or so overweight.

Chicago promoters have been trying to stage a Fields-Thompson bout, but have been handicapped by a state law prohibiting "mixed" bouts. This rule was passed after the last Fields-Thompson match which resulted in a riot in which one man was killed and several injured.

CONNIE MACK 67 TODAY

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 23.—(AP.)—Connie Mack, veteran leader of the Philadelphia Athletics, is 67 years old today and is spending the day as most of his days are spent—in his tower office at Shibe Park.

"I'm not much of a hand for parties," said the dean of major league managers, "and anyhow, what's another birthday? I've had a lot of them. It will be an ordinary day in my life, but I think Mrs. Mack is planning a little dinner somewhere and perhaps we will go to a theater. That will be the extent of the celebration."

Mack put an end to speculation definitely when he said he had no thought of retiring and turning over the managerial reins to a younger man. He has directed the A's for 30 years and has been in baseball more than half a century.

"I'm going to retire only when I'm forced to retire," he said. "This is my life—baseball. I'm going to stay in it until I'm physically unable to continue. Most men quit because they can't stand the traveling. I don't mind it."

The World Champion Athletics will take the field in 1930 with no changes in the lineup, Mack said. His outfield will be unchanged and his infield, with the exception of third base, will be the same.

Egan Is Named Official in Rose Game

John P. Egan, Dean of the Law School at Duquesne University, and one of the leading football officials of the county, will accompany the Pitt squad to Pasadena for the Tournament of Roses game New Year's day, it was announced today. He will work in the capacity of field judge in the game.

Two years ago, Egan also accompanied Pitt to the coast for the Rose game with Stanford. The Panthers leave Christmas night for the battle.

CUE STARS MEET

NEW YORK, Dec. 23.—(INS.)—Ralph Greenleaf, newly-crowned pocket billiards champion, today was to start a special match here with Frank Taberski, who failed in the defense of his title at Detroit last week. The match will continue throughout the week.

KID HAVANA BOUND

NEW YORK, Dec. 23.—(INS.)—Kid Chocolate, Cuban featherweight, and his manager, Louis Gutierrez, were on their way to Havana today for a Christmas that will last until early February. They will return in February.

GRID COACH SIGNS

PULLMAN, Wash., Dec. 23.—(INS.)—Announcement was made here today that Orin E. Hollingbery had signed a contract to coach Washington State football team for two more years.

27 Penn State Frosh Awarded Numerals

STATE COLLEGE, Pa., Dec. 23.—Twenty-seven members of the Penn State freshman football squad were awarded numerals by vote of the athletic association in recognition of their work during the past season. Those receiving the awards were:

Fred E. Kane, Philadelphia; Howard R. Schaffer, Philadelphia; Albert B. Ott, Selinsgrove; Richard Smith, Clairton; Albert W. Hoguet, Norwood; Leroy A. Anderson, Muncy; Orvis R. Myers, Barnesboro; William E. Chisler, Pittsburgh; John O. Grimshaw, Woodbury, N. J.; Paul Swan, Mercersburg; Alson J. Meredith, Wilkes-Barre; Herman E. Gaumer, Philadelphia; Henry S. Hartley, Oscoola; John F. Irwin, Latrobe; Robert A. Flood, Milan; Lamount J. Burns, Dubois; John V. Guelfi, Brooklyn, N. Y.; Herman E. Peschken, Philadelphia; Ralph K. Shields, Bethlehem; Earl H. Houk, Sharpsville; Albert J. Weber, Beaver Falls; George E. Chorba, Pittsburgh; Carl B. Wille, Crafton; Martin J. Hesch, Philadelphia; J. Donald Conn, Uniontown; Harold Brewster, Chester, and Morton L. Rotenberg, Philadelphia.

Wheeling to Honor Ray Montgomery

WHEELING, W. Va., Dec. 23.—Arrangements have been started for an official reception for Ray Montgomery, Wheeling boy, who won all-America recognition as a member of the University of Pittsburgh football team the past season.

Montgomery, a son of Mrs. Samuel Montgomery, of Warwood, was graduated at Warwood High School, the same school that has sent Charley Tully and John Luch to the Pittsburgh institution.

Very Returns From Coastt; Lauds Tech

Dex Very, who trefereed the Carnegie Tech-Southern California football game in California on December 14, arrived back in town today. The Tartan squad is due in at 5:45 tomorrow morning, but may be delayed by the heavy snow.

Very praised the play of Carnegie against the Trojans. More and better substitutes produced the Coast team's margin of superiority after a 13-13 tie in the first half, he said.

Harry Blitman Sued for Divorce

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 23.—(INS.)—Harry Blitman, well-known Philadelphia boxer, was named defendant in a divorce action filed by Mrs. Mary Blitman in Common Pleas Court today. Although the papers were impounded, as is the usual custom here, it was learned desertion was given as the grounds for the action.

The couple lived together for only one day, it is understood, but in this state it is necessary that a couple be separated two years before a divorce can be asked on the grounds of desertion.

Why Pressure on Stocks May Be Temporary.

—By B. C. FORBES—

THINGS are following their expected course.

Retail trade is good at certain points, not so good at others. Industrial activity likewise is mixed, but with confidence the prevailing note.

Wreckage caused by the stock market hurricane has been coming to the surface. Two or three rather important receiverships, the rumored embarrassment of a very prominent Chicago speculator, inordinately heavy liquidation of Chicago stocks, widespread tax loss selling, renewed attacks by bears, a rise in call rates to 5 per cent and extensive gold exports contributed to cause a 15-point average decline in New York Stock Exchange stocks for the week.

But the prevailing feeling in high places is that the cleaning up process is almost over and that Wall street will start the New Year in healthier condition.

SENTIMENT unquestionably has been depressed by the very sharp contraction in motor production. November-December normally are off months in the automobile industry. This year, following considerable over production, leading companies have devoted more time than usual to reducing inventories and to preparing new models designed to attract 1930 buyers.

January is likely to bring a distinct increase in automobile activity. Suppliers of raw materials are now receiving an encouraging volume of new business.

Several big manufacturers have followed General Motors price-increasing example. This action suggests that automobile leaders have decided that cut-throat price competition would hurt rather than help the industry at this time.

THE steel industry's actual condition is authoritatively declared to be better than appearent on the surface. Buyers have called for the lowest feasible minimum of deliveries in order to make the best possible year-end inventory showing. But substantial improvement in steel shipment is looked for next month.

If every great industry could convince buyers that prices will not be lowered, even should orders be temporarily withheld, the effect could not fail to be stabilizing. Undoubtedly not a few prospective purchasers in various lines have been holding off in the hope of obtaining price advantages.

Co-operative action within industries has made very notable progress. It may be that it has reached such a point in a majority of industries that unwise price slashing will be successfully averted. That would help a lot.

THE indications are that the pledges given by President Hoover, by heads of all classes of corporations will be fulfilled in nearly all instances. Nothing has happened to blast the hope generally entertained that painful events in Wall street will have only moderate effect upon national activity.

In 1920-1921—there was a "buyer's strike" because multitudes of consumers became convinced that prices of most commodities had become unwarrantedly inflated. People then were sore. There is no such mental attitude today. Whatever recession in buying may occur will be due rather to lack of the wherewithal than to dissatisfaction with current prices. And, after all, a negligible percentage of our total population has had its buying power seriously curtailed by stock losses.

THAT stocks should have declined last week was natural. International Combustion shares collapsed when receivers were appointed. This was followed by unpleasant rumors from Chicago and heavy bombardment of Montgomery Ward shares, forcing them almost eight points below their panic minimum. The severe weakness engendered rumors that trouble threatened to break out in Wall street.

Then, gold exports exceeding $16,000,000 at the week-end, with the prospect of more shipments to follow, did not inspire bullishness. Although it should have been expected, the advance in call money to 5 per cent was not relished. In view of the holiday currency demands, and in view of the unprecedently heavy dividend and interest disbursements due at the years end, temporary stiffening of money will be entirely logical.

But everything suggests that by this time next month interest rates will again be distinctly easy. There is nothing in our monetary outlook warranting the slightest apprehension.

AFTER the selling to record tax losses has ceased for the year, and after the seasonal firmness in money passes, the stock market may easily make a much better record.

There is certainly nothing very exciting about the Inter-State Commission's lukewarm suggestions. The initiative will still have to be taken by the railroads themselves.

Output of Steel Sheets Declines

Production of steel sheets totaled 204,071 tons in November, against 319,660 in October, according to National Association of Flat Rolled Steel Manufacturers. Sales for the month totaled 134,391 tons as against 258,810 in October. Production was 65 per cent of capacity and sales 43.3 per cent of capacity of reporting makers. Shipments during the month amounted to 207,200 tons, against 291,135 in October. Unfilled tonnage December 1 was 395,696 tons against 478,038 on November 1.

NEW YORK BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, Dec. 23.—(AP.)—Firmness of United States government obligations and first grade domestic corporation loans marked today's exceptionally dull bond trading. All departments of the list were inert as the opening of Christmas week found money rates hardening. Scattering buying orders brought small fractional gains to a number of low coupon rails, but large investors were almost completely absent and price changes had little significance in view of the thin dealings.

NEW YORK, Dec. 23.—(AP.)—Transactions in the most active bonds on the New York Stock Exchange today were as follows, 000 omitted in sales column (United States bonds in dollars and thirty-seconds of dollars):

EVENING SUN-TELEGRAPH MARKETS

Stocks Decline — Local List Irregular

MARKET SLIDES UNDER HEAVY SELLING

Sporadic Rallies Fail to Stem Bear Onslaught; Some of Declines Wide

NEW YORK, Dec. 23.—(AP.)—"Bear" traders and "sold out bulls" were the only ones able to derive any Christmas cheer from today's stock market, as prices of active issues dropped 1 to 12 points under a heavy volume of selling. Sporadic rallies developed from time to time, but invariably fresh offerings of stock appeared on the recoveries, with the market showing little signs of any organized buying support.

Wall Street found plenty of reasons to explain the decline, such as selling for the purpose of establishing income tax losses, "Bear" raids, liquidation of support stock and the lightening of investment holdings as a result of recent unfavorable business developments. The market, having recovered nearly 40 per cent of the ground lost in the October-November break, in the rally ended about a fortnight ago, as measured by the leading stock averages, was believed by other obcervers, however, to be following the traditional course of all major declines.

OPINIONS DIFFER

While there is considerable difference of opinion as to whether the general level of prices will go through the November lows, most observers are agreed that little general improvement may be expected until after the turn of the year because of the peculiar conditions which govern trading at this time. Several of the leading commission houses and statistical services have advised their customers to stand on the sidelines until the current period of unsettlement has passed.

One of the most interesting business developments of the day was the publication of a statement by James A. Farrell, president of the United States Steel Corporation, who said that "it is confidently expected that after the turn of the year operations, of the steel industry will substantially improve in heavier products, such as railway material, and structural steel for buildings, bridges and ships, as there is a large demand at this season of the year with prospects of a capacity demand in the near future." A sharp decline in the production and sale of steel sheets was reported for November by the Flat Rolled Steel Manufacturers' Association. Samuel Vauclain, president of the Baldwin Locomotive Company, stated that bookings this year totaled $45,000,000 as against $19,000,000 in 1928.

WIDE LIST HIT

Selling in today's market embraced a wide list, with the high priced industrial specialties, public utilities and steel shares among the hardest hit. Columbian Carbon showed an extreme decline of 11½ points, Johns Manville 10½, American and Foreign Power 8¾, General Electric and Simmons 8½ each, American Can 8¼ and Standard Gas and Electric, Safeway Stores, A. M. Byers, Fox Film, Air Reduction, Worthington Pump, American Water Works, Western Union, Houston Oil and American Power and Light sold down 5 to 7½ points.

U. S. Steel common, which touched 189 on the recent recovery, fell back more than 6 points to 156⅜, which contrasts with the low of 150 established last month and the year's high of 261¾, established on September 3.

Prospects that the revised consolidation plan of the Interstate Commerce Commission will meet serious opposition if attempts are made to bring about the alignments proposed probably inspired some of the selling in the railroad group. New York Central, Canadian Pacific and Lackawanna each dropped 5 points, St. Paul preferred 4 and a flock of others, including Erie, Chesapeake and Ohio, Delaware and Hudson and Rock Island, lost 2 to 3 points.

Bond Values Set By Common Stocks

NEW YORK, Dec. 23.—Referring to common stocks as "our commoners," Louis Guenther, publisher of the Financial World, says in an article dealing with these junior securities that although bonds have been and doubtless will continue to be the "aristocrats of investments," common stocks represent "that great force in the investment world that the people represent in the perpetuation and progress of every commonwealth."

From these "commoners," Mr. Guenther points out, there is primarily developed the energy which finds its concrete results in the development of a nation's wealth. Bond values, it is observed, depend more upon the sound foundation laid by the pioneer capital provided by common stocks than upon any other single factor. For this reason, Mr. Guenther maintains there should be no clash of opinion regarding the respective merits of these classes of securities.

California Daily Oil Output Higher

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 23.—California daily crude oil production for week ending December 21 was 710,500 barrels, against 699,750 barrels for week previous, an increase of 10,750 barrels.

Extended Holiday On London Market

LONDON, Dec. 23.—When the local stock exchange closes today it will remain closed until next Monday morning.

B. & O. Control of Susquehanna Is Sought

WASHINGTON, Dec. 23.—The Baltimore and Ohio Railroad has applied to the Interstate Commerce Commission for authority to acquire control of the Buffalo and Susquehanna Railroad by purchase of majority capital stock on a basis of $90 per share for preferred and common, under a deposit agreement.

The application declares the Baltimore and Ohio would use this line along with the Buffalo, Rochester and Pittsburgh, which it already has asked permission to acquire, along with the Reading and Jersey Central in developing a new, short, low-grade line between Chicago and New York and Philadelphia, which would be 75 to 80 miles shorter than its present route.

The road advised the commission that as of October 15, last, 28,196 shares of preferred and 16,856 shares of common had been deposited for exchange under the deposit agreement.

NEW YORK CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, Dec. 23.—(AP.)—Stocks renewed their decline on the Curb Market today. The market faltered at the opening, and with indications that Saturday's upturn was largely the result of short covering, bearish pressure was renewed. Furthermore, tax selling was believed to be in large volume, as there are but a few days left in which stocks may be sold for this purpose. Trading kept within comparatively moderate limits. By early afternoon, the majority of the more active shares showed losses of 1 to 3 points, while some of the less active specialties recorded wider losses.

Following is the list of transactions on the New York Curb Exchange, giving all stocks and bonds traded (00 omitted in sales column of stock list; 000 omitted in sales column of bond list):

Stock Exchange Topics

Weakness in U. S. Steel Prompts Selling Pressure.

ALONG with the indicated absence of buying power in any volume the thinness of markets prevailing for many of the shares that had been among the outstanding features on the bull movement earlier in the year had a decidedly disturbing influence on sentiment. Several merchandising stocks and a few specialties, which had been the prime favorites of a strong western bull aggregation on the rise, were notably heavy, seemingly meeting persistent offerings. The weakness in Steel naturally tended to aggravate the situation and prompted an increase in selling pressure through the early afternoon.

Railway shares followed the trend of the general market with the rank and file of the dividend payers, and non-dividend paying merger prospects showing liberal losses at the low levels. So far as the new consolidation plan announced late last week was concerned, there appeared to be a very mixed opinion. Some were disposed to interpret it as bullish chiefly on the little rails, and on Baltimore and Ohio, the latter road being looked upon as having received the most satisfactory allotments under it. But all in all, no actual developments were being looked for in the near future.

IF a new theory developing in certain quarters of the street takes effectively, the next bull movement in the market is likely to see a new group of stocks aspiring to leadership. Some of the shrewder heads in the financial community are at the moment taking stock of the situation and making their plans for the future. Just now it appears as though a number of the spectacular performers of the last bull swing may not be found in highest favor when the market turns about, the tendency at the moment is in the direction of stocks of seasoned corporations which did not, over the last year or so, move to increase their capitalizations through one means or another. The theory is that such companies, unlike some others which raised large amounts of new capital through share issues, have not diluted their earning power.

Plans filed for new building construction in the metropolitan area during the week ended December 14, call for an outlay of $22,122,000, or an average of $1,904,000 over the previous week. The figure, however, compares with a total of $33,093,000 in the corresponding week last year. The average daily rate of new construction filed for during the current year from January 1 to the present, has amounted to $4,077,000 as compared with $5,134,000 in the same period of 1928.

AFTER having resisted previous effort to force it down below the low level reached on the November break, Anaconda Copper today slipped down sharply under that point. At the previous low level of 70 one block involving 15,000 shares changed hands, and shortly after that the stock dropped abruptly to new low ground for the year. Weakness was rather discouraging in view of the apparent determination of producers generally to hold the price of copper at 18 cents a pound, the level which has prevailed since early last spring. Anaconda directors will meet on Thursday for action on the dividend, and belief prevails that the regular quarterly payment of $1.75 a share will be ordered, though at the low levels today the stock was selling to yield better than 10 per cent.

American Cyanamid "B" has been one of the "sore spots" of the stock market for some time working steadily lower in spite of occasional short rallies. In a more aggressive market the stock would benefit from its impressive prospects, but now traders are more concerned with its technical position and the consistent offerings of distress stock. It is understood that most of the offerings are passing into investments hands for the account of trusts as well as of individuals. At the price of 25 around which the stock has been hovering on the curb recently the $1.60 annual dividend yields nearly 6½ per cent. It is argued that the company, its position strengthened by recent acquisitions, would be able to cover its dividend requirements through a normal business let down.

Minnesotan Heads Grain Corporation

WASHINGTON, Dec. 23.—(AP.)—The National Grain Corporation has informed the Farm Board that William Kellogg, of Minneapolis, well-known grain man, has been selected as manager of the corporation and will assume duties on January 1.

Alexander H. Legge, chairman, wrote the committee that no policies of the Farm Board had been changed as the result of a conference he had held with Julius Barnes, of the United States Chamber of Commerce, grain exporter and three other prominent grain dealers.

Litigation to Precede Rail Mergers

By GEORGE H. SNYDER.

A SERIES of protracted legal battles is certain to follow the attempt of the Interstate Commerce Commission to carry out its plan of railroad consolidations. Many of the most important railroad systems have controlling interests in lines which have been allotted to competitors. The first act of the commission will be to try to break up these undesirable affiliations.

The railroads will resort to every possible means to keep control of lines which might strengthen their competitors. At present the commission's chief weapon is the Clayton Act.

This law forbids one corporation to buy control of another by the purchase of stock under certain conditions.

The commission has also appealed to Congress for authority to supervise holding companies which railroads have organized to keep stock purchases out of the reach of regulation.

B. & O. to Fight

THE Baltimore and Ohio will put up a stiff fight before it will surrender control of the Western Maryland. The loss of this line, besides reducing its own system, will make possible the opening of a competing trunk line from Pittsburgh to Baltimore.

The Pennsylvania, also, will make every effort to keep the Wabash, the Lehigh Valley and the Norfolk and Western. In discussing the conslidation plan Commissioner Porter said: "The Pennsylvania has declared that it will not part with its ownership or control of these important and necessary elements of the proposed system, until it is compelled, anywhere short of the last legal ditch."

Commissioners Disagree

THAT the consolidation plan is likely to be vastly changed before it reaches its final shape appears quite certain as a result of the great amount of disagreement among the members of the Interstate Commerce Commission. Four of the commissioners have gone on record in opposition to various phases of the plan. Each of these men found different railroad alliances to which they objected.

Many of the commissioners approved the plan, not because they found it satisfactory in all respects, but merely because it permitted them to conform to the provisions of the Transportation Act and because it would permit the completion of some of the consolidations which have been held in check by the lack of any complete national merger program.

No Completion for Years

THAT it will be impossible to work out all of the difficulties in the way of the formation of the proposed 19 systems for many years is shown by the divergence of opinions expressed by individual commissioners.

Commissioner Eastman concurred in part with the majority opinion on the consolidation plan, but he declared that he did not approve of it in important respects. He said, "I concur in the adoption of the consolidation plan because it has many good features, because it is necessary under the law to adopt some plan, and because it is not very important after all, whether or not it is the best plan that could be devised. We may modify it at any time hereafter, and no consolidation for which it provides can be accomplished until we have found, after full hearing, that the public interest will be promoted thereby."

Northern Merger

COMMISSIONER TAYLOR disagreed with several of the findings of the commission, particularly the Great Northern-Northern Pacific consolidation.

Commissioner McManamy stated that the commission, in opening the door to lawful consolidations, proposes consolidations which are themselves unlawful. "I go along with this plan," he declared "only because it will cut the Gordian knot and permit helpful consolidations and not because I expect economy and efficiency of operations to be promoted by the gigantic systems proposed."

Wabash Too Large

COMMISSIONER PORTER'S particular objection was to the set-up in the East. He pointed out that the Wabash, fifth system, would start on the banks of the Missouri River at Kansas City and Omaha, through St. Louis, Chicago, Detroit, Toledo and Buffalo, to the Atlantic seaboard over the Lehigh Valley on one hand and over the Wheeling and Lake Erie, Pittsburgh and West Virginia, and the Western Maryland on the other. The line also would proceed from Chicago by way of the Chesapeake and Ohio of Indiana and the Norfolk and Western to the third port on the Atlantic and by continuing southward along the Atlantic Ocean, and the Gulf Coast by means of the Seaboard Air Line, the fifth system would reach Montgomery and Birmingham, Ala. Porter declared he did not see why the majority, in their spirit of generosity, "did not add to this line of the Frisco from Birmingham to Kansas City, and thus create a system which would completely encircle the entire eastern half of the United States." He said, "the very geographical extent and character of the proposed system is sufficient to demonstrate its impracticability."

Pittsburgh Forgings Earnings Higher

Pittsburgh Forgings Company reports for fiscal year ended October 31, 1929, net income after taxes of $475,819, equal to $2.38 per share on the 200,000 shares of no par value stock outstanding. This compares with net of $395,803 in the preceding year or $1.98 per share. Net for 1929 includes earnings of Riverside Forge and Machine Company, of Jackson, Mich.

Edwin Hodge, Jr., president of the company, expects that the 1930 fiscal year will show net profits after all charges to at least equal and possibly exceed the results shown during the past year.

On Broadway

NEW YORK, Dec. 23.

HELEN WILLS, whose middle name is Newington, is a miserable speller, and her right paw is much larger than her left.

Otto H. Kahn did what Woodrow Wilson couldn't during the Great Argument. He effected the release from alien prisons of a number of unfortunate geniuses, among them—Nijinsky.

Ethel Barrymore is an incurable chewing-gum fiend.

Jed Harris, after crashing the Broadway heavens with a smash hit show which made him rich, went to Palm Beach, where he slighted a well-known movie magnate. The dialectician was so annoyed, he buttonholed Harris, and whispered: "Leesen to me, beeg boy. I ulzo got a mellion dollehs!"

Gene Tunney, who is accused of having no sense of humor, in reality is a great kidder. He never uses slang.

Texas Guinan, the bad girl from a good family, has six uncles, all of whom are priests. She considers Jim Tully "a cruel, fierce kiss."

Deems Taylor's first name is really Joseph, which he shelved over two decades ago.

CLARENCE DARROW never eats fowl, his distaste for it dating back to when he was three, a pet chicken having been slain for supper.

George M. Cohan, the author of the current comedy hit "Gambling," never gambled or played the stock market.

H. L. Mencken has never been embarrassed in his life, and he has coined numerous words, most of which are unprintable.

Lillian Gish has never been labeled "the Life of the party," and when she is in New York she sleeps with cotton in her ears.

Anita Loos was born on April 26, but she doesn't know what year, and she is constantly losing bits of her belongings.

When Ralph Barton draws he sticks out his tongue. He has been in love with 90 women and remembers each of their names.

"BLUES" NATURAL

GEORGE GERSHWIN is easily shocked, and his conversation, especially with woman, almost borders on the Puritanical.

For contrast there is F. Scott Fitzgerald who by nature is not Rabelaisian, but he enjoys acting that way when he is with people who Are Easily Shocked.

William Beebe hates horse radish and once passed the night in the torch of the Statue of Liberty.

Herbert Bayard Swope believes that H. L. Mencken blusters in order to conceal a tender heart.

George Jean Nathan has never worn a straw hat and although he owns 37 canes he never uses them.

George Luks likes women who use a lot of perfume, and he believes that egotism is essential to all success.

JUST LIKE MANY OTHERS

HERMANN OELRICHS frequently repeats himself and often will tell you a piece of news that you yourself told him.

No matter how shady the joke credited to her, if it is comical, Dorothy Parker will claim it.

Robert W. Chanler is able to sleep at a moment's notice.

Adele Astaire buys her hats in the children's department and she smokes a cigaret as though she mistrusted it.

Cornelius Vanderbilt, Jr., is intensely patriotic and he buys the latest pill the moment it appears on the market.

If you are in the vicinity of St. Malachy's ("The Actors' Church") on West Forty-ninth street, in New York, and you see a lanky lad feeding a pup liver, that's Damon Runyon, the sports scrivener.

Brice can't stand cream java.

FELT FOR THE OCEAN

HARRY REICHENBACH, who won't press agent anything for less than $1,000 a week, had his heart bruised by a lass he loved many years ago and on the trip to Europe cried for six days.

There isn't a word in the dictionary that Burton Rascoe cannot define, spell or pronounce, but it takes time.

Charles G. Shaw, who is known by every smart restaurant captain and speakeasy owner in New York, would rather dwell in London, where he now is, because "there is more excitement" there.

Irene Bordoni, now topping the Club Richman, says that E. Ray Goetz, from whom she was recently divorced, is using "Fifty Million Frenchmen" to forget one French woman.

Alexander Woollcott never sent Life a joke about the difference between a pessimist and an optimist, and once wrote an article about Maude Adams and Barrie in which neither the word "charm" nor "whimsical" occurred, and he wickers all chain letters.

And Gloria Swanson can pitch pennies better than you can.

Hospital Benefit Set for Dec. 28

The annual tea dance for the Pittsburgh Hospital under the auspices of the Woman's Auxiliary will be held Saturday in Hotel Schenley. The committee in charge consists of: Mrs. T. Evans, Jr., Mrs. F. A. Keating, Mrs. H. A. Friday, Mrs. L. P. Monahen, Mrs. F. T. Lanahan, Mrs. C. F. C. Arensburg, Mrs. J. F. McCullough, Mrs. J. A. Beck, Bertha Reilly, Mrs. A. S. Reymer, Mrs. C. E. Satler and Mrs. E. H. Binns.

New Veterans Post Adds New Members

Organized but two weeks ago, Valley Post No. 1768, Veterans of Foreign Wars, at Wilmerding, now has a membership of 48 enrolled with several other applications on the waiting list. The post will hold meetings in Wall, East McKeesport and Wilmerding to permit each municipality to share allegiance. At the next meeting permanent officers will be elected.

Real Estate

A brick residence at 2452 Craftmont avenue, Twenty-eighth Ward, has been sold by Charles H. Capen to Thomas F. Walter, Jr. The lot is 50x160 feet.

In Emsworth, Daniel R. Dickinson has sold to the County of Allegheny 100x159 feet in McKinley avenue, for $5,500.

In Brookline, B. W. Wadsworth has sold to S. F. Tulenko 30x162 feet with a house in Castlegate avenue.

A frame dwelling at 2115 Dartmore avenue, Overbrook, has been sold by A. V. Werling to John H. Scott. The lot is 31x126 feet.

A property in Bernard avenue, Overbrook, lot 33x125 feet, has been sold by John E. Born to Richard Owen.

In Homestead, William B. Hartley and Homer D. Everett have sold to John A. Toth, Jr., 25x134 feet in Eighth avenue.

Joseph R. Sheridan has purchased from Anton Wurm 30x117 feet in Chelton avenue, Brookline.

A property in McBride street, Thirty-first Ward, formerly Hays Borough, has been sold by Fred E. Degenkolb to Anthony Jordan. The lot is 50x136 feet.

A property in Fisk avenue, Avalon, lot 37x105 feet, has been sold by C. O. Spillman, Jr., to Ina J. Chapman.

A house in McClurg street, South Side, lot 20x60 feet, has been sold by Edward Ream to Andrew J. Burksazi.

A tract in Moon Township has been sold by John Bartowski to Henry O. Meinhardt, for $8,000.

UNSCRAMBLE THESE ANAGRAMBLES
DAILY ANAGRAM PUZZLES

TRY your hand at this fascinating game of Anagrambles—the game that is taking the town like the crossword puzzle craze took the whole nation for a ride through the dictionary.

The game is quite simple. Merely change the following words by the addition of the single letter indicated. Do not omit any letter of the original word. The letter may be inserted at the beginning of the word, anywhere within the word, or at the end. Thus, the word "pate," by the addition of the letter "l" becomes either "pleat" or "plate." The word "drag" may be changed to either "grade" or "raged" by the addition of the letter "e."

The original word must be changed in meaning by the commentary letter. To change "mine" by adding "d," to form "mined," would be incorrect. Rearrange the letters of your word to change its meaning, not its tense or number. Take a pencil now and write in your newly formed word in the spaces provided.

THE NEBBS — The Peacemaker — By Sol Hess

YOU HERE AGAIN? NOW I SUPPOSE I GOTTA BE ON THE ALERT— GOTTA BE OUT IN THE COLD ALL THE TIME WATCHIN' THINGS—THAT'S MY LUCK
NO, IT WON'T BE NECESSARY—I'M GOING TO ROB THE BANK BUT CAN'T TELL JUST WHEN I'LL HAVE TIME— I'LL LET YOU KNOW LATER—YOU CAN COME OVER AND HOLD THE LANTERN FOR ME
YOU DON'T HAVE TO GET SOURCASTIC—CHANCES ARE YOU'RE STILL THIEVING A BIT— LEOPARDS DON'T CHANGE THEIR SPOTS—LEAST NOT OFTEN
WELL, YOU'LL GIVE ME CREDIT FOR ONE THING —THAT I'M SMART ENOUGH NOT TO PULL ANYTHING IN A TOWN WHERE THEY'VE GOT SUCH A FOXY COP— SO YOU CAN GO BACK TO THE POST OFFICE AND KEEP THE STOVE WARM
WELL, HELLO, MR. POTTS, I'VE BEEN LOOKING FOR YOU— I'M GOING TO GIVE A LITTLE CHRISTMAS DINNER AND I WANT YOU TO COME AND BRING MISS APPLEBY— THAT IS IF YOU'RE STILL GOOD FRIENDS— AND BY THE WAY, YOU'RE NOT STOPPING AT THE HOTEL
HELLO, MR. FLINT— YES, SYLLY AND ME IS VERY GOOD FRIENDS NOW. —NO, I AIN'T LIVING AT THE HOTEL
I GOT THROWN OUT OF THE HOTEL BY THAT NEW MANAGER AND I CAN'T COME TO THE PARTY 'CAUSE I AIN'T SPEAKING TO NEBB AND I CAN'T GO NO PLACE WHERE THERE IS SOMEBODY I HATE!
YOU DON'T HATE HIM AND HERE'S A CHANCE FOR YOU TWO FRIENDS TO FORGIVE AND FORGET ON CHRISTMAS DAY— AND I BROUGHT SOMETHING WITH ME THAT WILL MAKE YOU WANT TO GROW WHISKERS AND BE A SANTA CLAUS AND WE'LL HAVE GOOD THINGS TO EAT, TOO

Big Idea Department

Big Idea Editor:

It's probably too late to do anything about it this year, but someone should perfect a celluloid necktie to sell to Christmas shoppers. As you know, celluloid ignites instantaneously—and all the gift ties could be quickly destroyed by merely holding them too close to the Christmas tree candles.

Wilbur Weltschmerz,
Sec. Husbands' League of North America.

GENTEEL RACKETS—

"And then we have shirts ranging from $12 to $40—which is not excessive when you consider that the material comes from Czechoslovakia."

* * *

College students are so active socially when they come home for the Christmas season that parents are respectfully urged to equip their home with revolving front doors.

It is a wonder that more of the home-coming young ladies and gentlemen do not injure themselves when they come into the house and bump into themselves going out.

* * *

Fathers anxious to get a good look at their sons are urged to change places with the taxi driver out in front of the house. Then use the rear sight mirror.

SUGGESTIONS FOR LAST MINUTE GIFT BUYERS

Canal to Youngstown Only Would Be Blow to Us

Pittsburgh men who for years have urged the construction of a canal to meet the Ohio River and Lake Erie are naturally concerned about a bill introduced in Congress by Senator David A Reed, passage of which would authorize a survey for a canal from the Ohio to the Mahoning basin in Youngstown.

Those here who have promoted the Ohio-Lake Erie proosal feel that the new move is a special interest proposition while the benefits of the older project would be widespread and f international importance, since it would open a waterway rom the Ohio to the Northwest and to the Atlantic, via Lake Erie and St. Lawrence or via Lake Erie and the Erie barge anal.

At first glance it appears that a direct result of construction of the shorter canal would be not to the advantage of Pittsburgh, but greatly to advantage of Youngstown, putting the steel industries there on a strong competitive basis by giving them the same rates on coal that Pittsburgh enjoys and at the same time holding their present position in the matter of a lower rate on ore from the lake ports.

We cannot consistently find fault with interests back of the new project, since they are trying to serve their community as we here attempt to serve ours. Yet it is a matter in which we are vitally interested. Local promoters of the longer canal have said that the proposed shorter one would be nothing but a "dead end' of which the benefit to Youngstown would be paid in loss to Pittsburgh—and Pittsburgh would not like that.

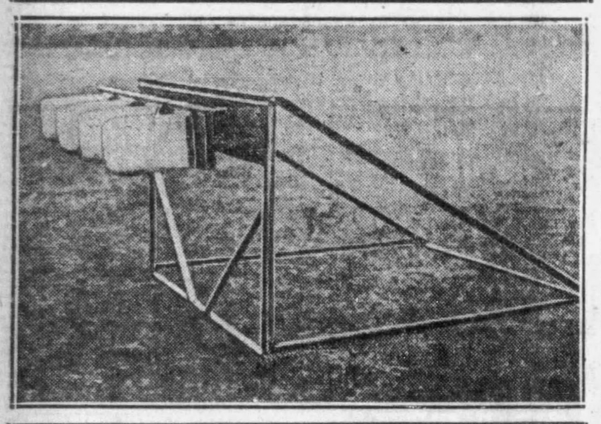
We once had a slogan here—"On to Cairo," the purpose of which has been fulfilled with the completion of the canalization of the Ohio its entire length. That was a project that was not for the benefit of Pittsburgh—or any city—alone, but for the entire nation, as President Hoover stated in his address at the celebration of the completion of this great work.

Evidently we need a new slogan to stimulate us. "On to Lake Erie" suggests itself. The route already has been surveyed and both Ohio and Pennsylvania have state commissions to promote its construction. While we have been waiting for industry to give the weight of its support to the commission it is evident that industry in Ohio has got busy to provide for itself.

Industry here should wake up. Its market is threatened.

Machine Improves Football

Who Will Invent a Machine to Improve HEAD Work? That's Harder.



A MACHINE FOR FOOTBALL PLAYERS

This machine, built in England, is used by "rugger" football players in "scrum" practice. Powerful young players dash against this contrivance, seeking to push it back, as in a real game they push back the line of opposing players.

Well padded, like a human body, built to resist attack, this small machine will hold back a weight equivalent to 1,400 pounds hurled against it.

The "robot" football player is powerful enough to resist attacks by seven live players, each weighing 200 pounds.

This interesting little invention will be tried here in America, perhaps, although we have so many, only too anxious to play the game, in practice or otherwise, that it makes robots unnecessary.

Solemn old gentlemen, a little stiff in the knees, and short of breath, will observe pessimistically that many machines are made to improve the muscles, legs, arms, chest.

But how little is done, in the way of machinery or otherwise, to improve and strengthen the MINDS of young people, and how little enthusiasm young people show in using such mind developing apparatus as now exists.

Take two great football teams to the biggest "bowl" or stadium in the world and it will be packed by crowds willing to sit in the cold air, watching.

Take the same stadium, announce an intellectual discussion by the two greatest teams of professors in the world, and your audience will probably consist of eight or ten other professors, with their hands behind their ears.

Too much attention to the body, too little attention to the mind.

However, a healthy mind grows best and does its best work in a healthy body.

Sport, good games develop a healthy body. Let us hope the healthy minds will come later. They always have come, and have done the world's real work, although they haven't got the applause, or drawn the crowds.

Love Light Burning?

Mean Murder, Nothing Else.

Because, as he said, "he saw in America the stars are all suffocated inside," a well known, "well educated" young man murdered a woman and killed himself in the apartment of a New York friend.

The police said "Suicide pact." The reporters say "They decided to keep the lovelight forever burning with their own life blood."

The fact is that, "suicide pact," or no suicide pact, the man committed a dastardly murder, bringing disgrace on his own wife and family, and 10 times deeper disgrace on the woman whom he professed to love.

There is no romance, no "lovelight forever burning," only the act of a super-egotistical, mean spirit in such a crime against decency.

"Bugs" Baer Says:

The Horrors of Honesty

WE cannot agree with the furriers who are going to call furs by their right labels.

It destroys the romance without diminishing the installments.

"Bugs" Baer

A woman would rather think her coat was crippled ermine than to know it was healthy skunk.

She would rather have bruised and battered mink than the finest of eiderdown from the most beautiful waltzing mice.

The Better Business Bureau of Boston insists on the furriers using the correct terms of muskrat, skunk, rabbit, cat and ground hog.

A man who thus destroys the illusions of holiday shopping should be compelled to wear porcupine garments with the needles turned in.

The furs of today have glorious names even if they are not fur. What woman is going to swish around in a dolman made of baboon fuzz and guinea pig?

When a salesman says that a coat is genuine Labrador skalinka we like to believe it. His firm would have a profit on the sale even if you gave him a forged check. You wear your Labrador salinka and you are happy because you do not know that it is really the pompadours of frightened ant-eaters.

We like to think of intrepid trappers pursuing priceless silver fox through the silent valleys and frozen hills of the Siberian precincts. Why tell us that the animal was caught when its better judgment succumbed to the tasty aroma of slightly scorched cheese?

You take your wife home a Christmas coat and say, "Dearie, this is the finest skunk that money can bribe. The coat is feeble armadillo and the cuffs are made of moose whiskers. It looks like mink, but there the resemblance meets a red traffic light and stops deader than a shucked oyster.

"It also looks like ermine on Tuesdays and Thursdays, but it is really the cowlick of a gila monster. It is lined with the skins of boll weevils and the boa is Arizona prarie dog. This is such a beautiful coat the salesman gave me an extra pair of trousers with it for you to search.

"Wear it and be happy for you know exactly what it is. In order that there will be no deception and envy, the salesman has just mailed every one of our neighbors a written guarantee which states that your new coat is a combination of skinned Maltese and disappointed sewer rat."

That's when your wife smacks you over the head with a tastefully furnished seven-room apartment and goes home to cry on her mother's manly shoulders.

Well, maybe the honest furriers of Boston are right. You can remove the leopard's spots from the linoleum but it's still oilcloth.

GET A THINKING CAP

By Herbert Kaufman

GERMANY, having doffed the spiked helmet to don thinking caps, again is fast resuming her pre-war place as chemist-in-chief for civilization, and is once more bent upon devoting national genius to saving lives, aborting pain and checking premature human obsolescence with laboratory products.

Fair play must balance her obligations to various allies, with the still HEAVIER debt that all progressive practice owes to HER pioneering scientists.

The discoveries that bubbled in the test-tubes and alembics at Jena, ALONE have inspired more wealths and industrial opportunity than artillery IN TOTO ever devastated.

The Teuton mind's latest contribution to knowledge and advancement is a process for separating the component elements of hydrogen, until now pontifically considered INDIVISIBLE.

ENTIRE structures of theory must promptly be redesigned as a consequence of that epochal feat and another batch of practical miracles forthwith begins to incubate from the germinating idea.

Meanwhile, American ingenuity, which peculiarly inclines toward mechanical wonders, breeds a pair of robots, on whose authors the Middle Ages would probably have passed the death sentence for practicing WITCHCRAFT.

One displaces the human voice as a connecting instrument between dial and vocal telephone, by translating electrically signaled numbers into actual speech.

And the other furnishes aviators with an automatic assistant to hold the plane in its set course and handle the controls.

Experimenters, synchronizing their researches at three different universities, corroborate Dr. Austin Clark's contention that it will soon be practicable to alter the characteristics of certain species through the influence of radium and ex-rays, thus enabling chicken fanciers, breeders and possibly fish culturists to Burbank animals as well as spuds and daisies.

SOME of the Bell Company's bright young men have managed at last to contrive a gedingus which so scrambles radio messages between transmission and reception that listeners-in on wireless conversations will hear nothing but gibberish for their Paul Pry pains.

Merlin & Sons, ALIAS the General Electric Company, also beg to advise the public that equipment users may shortly expect devices prepared to overcome any meteorological uncertainty.

A group of incredibly powerful machines have been installed at Schenectady to determine artificially the effect of lightning, thunder and other ethereal rages upon dynamic apparatus.

What a reputation an African medicine man could make with such an outfit!

SO many "ifs" and enormous "whys" are being kicked into cocked hats that inability to solve such a piddling problem as self-support is incomprehensible.

Progress expands instead of lessening the average likelihood for success. Originality and efficiency enlarge everybody's prospects.

Whenever another truth is established—a more accurate rule provided, or a shrewder tool perfected, each of us inherits just that many MORE chances to make good over predecessors, without equivalent information and deprived of theaters to stage ingenuity and talents.

The front room is never TOTALLY occupied. Move up!

The struggle IS back where YOU are. All the tense competition, all the bitter, sordid strife; the mean, enervating battles for SURVIVAL are confined to the DOUBTERS and QUITTERS and COWARDS.

People who don't THINK and won't DARE, never better lots or prospects.

LISTEN, WORLD!

By Elsie Robinson

THERE are, in the Bible, certain eight words of great wisdom—"BE STILL AND KNOW THAT I AM GOD!"

Those words were written by King David for the ancient Hebrews. But we modern Americans have an even greater need of them, for our lives are filled with a clamor and confusion which that old world never knew. A million amusements. . . a million occupations . . . a million distractions.

YET, STILL, LIKE MOSES AND ABRAHAM, DAVID AND SOLOMON, WE NEED TO HEAR THE STILL, SMALL VOICE OF GOD.

We may not call it God.

We may call it Beauty . . . or Wisdom. . .

But whatever we name it, each one of us has a need of it . . . each heart has a cry which the harsh shout of the world can never answer . . . each bewildered brain listens for a Voice which alone can bring comfort and peace and strength.

But we will never hear that Voice unless we shut out the noise.

Not merely the noise of the world. The noise of the world is oppressive, but a man may still hear God in spite of the racket of street cars, the roar of automobiles, the bang and blatter and shriek and toot of city streets. But there is a certain other noise which will shut out the Voice more completely than walls of steel—

AND THAT IS THE NOISE WITHIN OURSELVES.

The bleat of our self pity . . . the hiss of envy . . . the bray of conceit . . . the bellow of hate . . . the whimper of fear . . . the snarl of peevishness . . . the mumble of suspicion . . . the snore of laziness . . . the snap of intolerance . . . the giggle and gaggle and guggle of foolishness.

These are the noises that really drown out God . . . and the Voices of beauty and wisdom.

BE STILL AND KNOW THAT I AM GOD!

Whatever your need, if you would find a solution . . . BE STILL!

Stop chattering and arguing and making alibis . . . stop complaining and questioning and showing off! Stop shouting YOUR opinions, YOUR prejudices, YOUR desires!

BE STILL!

LET THE NOISE BE HUSHED WITHIN YOU, BIT BY BIT—LET THE DIN DIE AWAY UNTIL YOUR SPIRIT IS EMPTY . . . READY TO BE FILLED . . . WAITING TO BE FILLED.

And then softly, gently, the Voice will come.

From all sides it will come—

From everything you behold and everything you experience—

That Voice which runs like one long chord through all things and all life . . . through laughter and tears and sunsets and ships, through ploughed fields and budding trees and men bending over benches, through childbeds and graves and wedding feast and labor conferences, through books and hammers and aeroplanes and loaves of newmade bread, through roses and heaped fruits and moonlight and sweat—

From all sides the Voice will come—

Quieting your confusion, comforting your pain, answering your ignorance—

Whispering: "I COME . . . BE NOT AFRAID . . . BE STILL AND KNOW THAT I AM GOD!"

Text for Today Be strong and of a good courage, fear not, nor be afraid of them: for the Lord thy God, he it is that doth go with thee; he will not fail thee, nor forsake thee.—Deuteronomy xxxi:6.

THE SCIENCE OF LIFE

By H. G. WELLS
In Collaboration With
Prof. Julian Huxley and George P. Wells.

MOREOVER, they are the only class of animals—except the insects—the majority of whose members are winged. They include the largest and heaviest flying animals, and their champions can fly higher, more swiftly and for a longer time than any other unaided living creature.

Birds are characterized by the possession of feathers, just as are mammals by hair; feathers long and used for propulsion and steering on the wings and tail, short and forming an efficient garment on the rest of the body in order to reduce the amount of heat lost to the air that streams past during the flight.

H. G. Wells

Their arms are wings, and muscles which flap the wings downward are attached.

Being wings, the arms cannot be used to support the body, and when the bird is not flying its whole weight is poised on the legs; the hip-girdle is therefore very solidly joined to the backbone, the feet are large, and the legs are struts, firm but light.

Moreover, except for a few extinct forms, birds have no teeth, and their jaws are ensheathed by horny beaks made of the same stuffs as the dead outer layer of our skins, and variously moulded according to the feeding habits of the bird.

In their internal anatomy there are several devices to assist the bird in performing vigorous and sustained exercise which necessitates a copious oxygen supply to the muscles.

Their hearts are larger in proportion to the size of the body than those of mammals, and their lungs communicate with a unique system of air-spaces which make the oxygen supply of the body more efficient — some running among the viscera and some into the bones which, being hollow, combine the maximum of rigidity with minimum weight.

The mechanical problems of propelling a heavy body through air are so considerable, and involve specialization of structure in so many parts of the body, that bird organization is to a large extent stereotyped. There is little room for variation.

To be sure there are wading, swimming, perching, and running birds, each with a different kind of leg and foot; there are soaring, hovering, and fluttering birds and clean, swift fliers, each with its own shape of wing and tail: there are vegetable-feeders that swallow stones and use them in the gizzard (a special part of the stomach) to grind up their food and there are birds that eat meat and have no need of such a device; there are various shapes of beak and neck, and a tremendous range of coloration.

But compared, for example, with the mammals the variation of structure found among birds is slight.

Indeed, the only birds which show really profound departures are those exceptional ones which do not fly through air—the penguins, which fly in a medium having very different physical properties, and the completely flightless kiwis, ostrichs, rheas, emus, and cassowaries, in which the wings are small and often useless and in which, since there is no need of powerful muscles to move them, the keel on the breast-bone is small or absent.

THE MORE ANCIENT CLASS OF REPTILES.

THE three greatest classes of vertebrates today are the mammals, birds, and fishes. It is as if these three classes had divided the world between them, the mammals taking the land, the birds the air, and the fishes the water.

In a number of points the reptiles are like mammals or birds—their embyros, for example, are surrounded in the egg by an elaborate system of membranes like the membranes of a chick in the egg, or of a developing mammal in the uterus, and they breathe throughout their life-histories by means of lungs—but they are cold-blooded, that is to say their blood follows the temperature of their surroundings, and they have scales instead of the hair of mammals or the feathers of birds.

There are four orders of living reptiles. The first includes the crocodiles, alligators and gavials—predatory animals living in tropical rivers, some snapping the heads of mammals that come to drink and holding them under water until they drown, others taking fish and the like.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Dec. 23.—Diary of a modern Pepys: Off in the early chill to buy a necktie for a gift and wound up, like a ninny, buying a dozen for myself. Came news from Lloyd Scholl that Russell Wilson, with whom I used to labor, has become Lord Mayor of Cincinnati, which pleased me mightily.

In the afternoon came a turbaned Oriental whose crested card announced him a Prince, and in a high flutter until he turned out to be a fortune teller. Nor have I ever been assailed by such a heavy odor of garlic, yet he proved interesting withal.

Dined on a hash of turkey wings with green peppers at a public tavern, and saw Jimmy Walker in his satin lapeled elegance. Also Mr. Warburg, the banker, Mr. Warren, the architect, and Mrs. Fiske, the play actress. So home to read Dr. Erskine's tome, "Sincerity."

Each incoming liner is guided up the channel from the mouth of the harbor by a member of the New York Pilots' Association and in the same fashion is piloted on an outgoing trip to the open sea. Many of the pilots have not crossed the ocean.

Their knowledge concerns every inch of the harbor and the river. They have never been responsible for an accident, and only two have died on duty. The pilot custom, although not at all essential to safe docking, was established in the 60's and, like train wheel tapping, has endured.

Regular captains are just as capable to nose their craft to the final warping, and secretly they look upon the pilots with a shade of contempt. The first-class pilot has to serve five years' apprenticeship before acquiring his papers.

Yet it has always attracted what Gil Boag used to call the "white fronts."

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

SOMEONE has asked the question—"Which ten years of your life do you consider your happiest?" "Or have you reached what you think the happiest ten years?"

Not so easy to answer as you may think, when you consider the question.

Perhaps you think from ten to twenty the happiest. Certainly they are the most carefree years. Someone was supporting you and you were going to school, but still there were parental restraints and school discipline. so perhaps you go on to the next ten years.

From twenty to thirty you were your own boss—you felt so free to come and go and do, and that was joy, but were you really happy? Were there not disappointments because you were not making more money? You felt there were many things you wanted to do but couldn't for lack of money or time.

You may think the five years before your marriage and the five years immediately after your marriage were your happiest, but were there not worries and cares of which you had not dreamed?

Perhaps you think the happiest years will be those when you have made enough to keep you, and you picture yourself quitting work for rest and travel.

What is your idea of happiness?
